YAKIMA GROWERS HOLD WOOL. More Confident and Tenacious Than Year Ago.

What is the price of wool in Yakima? asks the Daily Republic. Nobody seems to know, because no deals have been closed, establishing a market price for this commodity. There are a number of wool buyers in the city and they are offering the wool-growers certain prices for their product, but so far no one has been able to prevail upon the sheepmen to let go.

It is hard to give local quotations under these conditions. Wool is worth 67 cents in New York after it has gone through all the cleaning processes. Conservative men interested in the wool business say that when wool only brings 67 cents in New York after passing through the scouring mills and freight being paid upon it, the growers of the Yakima valley should not expect more than 18 or 19 cents for their product, as it is turned over to the buyers here. In other words 45-cent wool in New York is worth 15 cents in Yakima everything being taken into consideration.

Notwithstanding this basis of arriving at a local price, the wool-growers are absolutely refusing to sell to the eager buyers at the prices offered by the latter class.

The sheepmen seem to think wool is going to bring 25 cents. Some offers have been made as high as 21, but most of the buyers refuse to pay more than 19 cents.

The conditions as they exist here today are rather peculiar, because of the fact that usually at this time of the year thousands of pounds of wool change hands. This year no contracts have been made and the wool-growers are holding like some of the hop-growers did in 1904. It will be remembered that some of the hop-growers held out for 35 cents and sold this winter for 5.

$20,000 BUILDING

EXCAVATING FOR M. E. CHURCH NEARLY DONE.

Is Located Two Blocks East of the East Oregonian Building—Hoped That Actual Construction Work Will Begin April 1—Plans Drawn by an Illinois Architect, and the Work Will Be Prosecuted Without Interruption to Completion—Other Church Properties for Sale.

Preliminary work is now being done towards the erection of the Methodist church at the corner of Webb and Johnson streets and it is hoped actual construction work on the building will commence by April 1. The work of excavating for the church is now about completed, and the architectural plans are expected daily. These have been drawn by a specialty of church buildings. As soon as they arrive arrangements will be made for commencing work as the church is prepared financially to commence at once.

It is not yet known whether the work will be by contract or done by the church itself under the direction of a superintendent. This latter plan may be followed so as to allow donation work to be done by some of the members.

The new church is to be of stone, and when finished will be by far the finest structure of its kind in this section of the country. It is estimated that the building when completed will have cost $20,000.

Now that the church is preparing to build, the old church property on Thompson street and also the church property at the corner of Main and Water streets has been placed upon the market. However, the pastor, Rev. Robert Warner, stated today that the new building is not depending upon the other property being sold.

VICTIMS OF TREMENS. Drink Crazy People Increase in Portland.

Never in the history of the city prison have the police been called upon to deal with so many cases of delirium tremens as within the last two weeks, says the Oregon Daily Journal. During that time 24 men arrested for being drunk developed delirium tremens and 19 were treated by City Physician Spencer last week. In one night Jailer Branch had six men thus afflicted to attend. These are at present under the care of the city physician, while one died at Good Samaritan hospital.

The trouble experienced with these men, the lack of facility for treatment and the refusal of the hospitals to care for such sufferers on account of the harm caused other patients by their ravings and acts of violence, all are urged by the police as reasons for urgently calling for the establishing of a city receiving hospital.

In many cases where deaths have occurred from accidents, the police assert, the lives of men might have been saved had there been such an institution located centrally. That the life of Smith would have been saved had he been given proper treatment when taken into custody is regarded as certain.

MUNICIPAL TELEPHONES. Seattle Will Acquire Telephone Under Reform Campaign.

Public ownership of all local and long-distance telephone lines in the state and reasonable scale of charges for telephone service is one of the slogans which some of the municipal ownership advocates will seek to take up as a rallying cry for a county and state municipal party in the coming county and state campaign, says the Seattle Star.

The telephone nuisance will be made the first point of attack if the plans of some of the local leaders of the municipal ownership sentiment are adopted.

As at present advanced, the plans of these leaders contemplate the organization of a state party and the conduct of a state campaign on this and similar public questions as issues.
