But no picture can show the elegant appearance of the woman who is properly fitted with the Henderson Corset. No illustration can convey the idea of comfort and right-dressed-ness that a woman feels when her gowns are fitted over the Henderson.

There's but one sure way to know that the Henderson is right. Try a Pair.

"MADE IN OREGON" SHOW.

Unique Exposition of Industries Now in Progress in Portland.

The Made in Oregon exposition is opened, and for one week the manufactured goods of this state will hold sway in the city, says the Oregon Daily Journal.

This morning when the blinds were drawn from the show windows of prominent stores they disclosed tastefully arranged exhibits of the various mills and manufacturing plants of Portland and the state. Some of the exhibits are really unique, and all of them stand as a testimonial of the rapid progress that Oregon had made in her industrial life.

The number of displays is so large and varied that it would be impossible to give an extensive description of each. One of the most unique and striking is that made by Allen & Lewis of White River flour in the store of Goddard & Kelly Co., at Sixth and Washington streets. It represents a field of wheat and in it is a high mound of pure white flour so shaped as to represent snow-covered Mount Hood.

In connection with this display the company has arranged a contest. The person guessing nearest the correct number of pounds of flour in this miniature Mount Hood will receive $10. The second best guess will be awarded $5 and there are quite a number of other prizes. All guesses are to be left at the store in which the display is arranged.

If possible the judges will make known next Thursday the awards on window displays. Three artists have been added to the list of judges and they will pass on the window merits of each window. The prizes to be awarded are as follows:

No. 1—$20 for the window which in the judgment of the committee possesses the highest advertising value.

No. 2—$20 for the most artistic window.

No. 3—$20 for the best window display of goods manufactured in Oregon outside of Multnomah county.

No. 4—$20 for the window containing the greatest variety of Oregon made products.

No. 5 to 9—$5 each for the four next best window displays.

MT. HOOD ROAD OPENED.

Has Eleven Stations Including the Terminals.

The Dalles Chronicle gives the following information about the new railroad from Hood River to Mount Hood:

Monday morning graders were set to work excavating for the passenger depot of the Mt. Hood railroad, east from the O. R. & N. depot at Hood River. The building will have a basement floor on a level with the track, the upper floor being on the level with the street grade. It will be 20x40 feet in size, and be substantially built. Owing to the scarcity of help it may be six weeks before it is completed.

Eleven stations have been designated on the road, as most or all of which waiting stations will be erected, but no agents except at the two ends of the line at present, and at other points when business justifies it. Going south after leaving Hood River the stations are named in the following order: Powderdale, Sears, Dragseth, Lenz, Odell, Dukes Valley, Neff, Bloucher, Winans City and Dee.

The road is being rapidly put in shape to begin train service on a regular schedule, and is already hauling considerable freight and quite a few passengers.

FOUR YEARS FOR JOHN LUNDY.

Out of Pen Nine Days When Sentenced for Robbing Sweeney.

Scarcely nine days' freedom in two years is all that John Lundy, the box car and Pullman sleeper robber, has had, and today he is again on his way to the penitentiary in charge of Sheriff Sexton, says The Dalles Chronicle.

A week ago last Monday Lundy, who two years ago robbed an O. R. & N. box car and was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary, was released and the following day came to The Dalles. Seeing him loafing around the city, Marshal Wood ordered him to decamp and Lundy said he would go on to Montana. It seems that he reversed his decision and made his way to the railroad camp opposite Arlington, where he carried on a gambling game until Wednesday, when he came across the river determined to turn another trick, this time on the Spokane flyer.

He was fortunate in striking a shining mark Thursday morning and running up against the berth where slept Millionaire Sweeney, of Spokane, extracted therefrom his trousers, the pockets of which contained $200 in green-

CEMENT IN MONTANA.

New Industry Promised by Recent Discoveries.

The state of Montana is about to gain a Portland cement manufactory in which Portland cement will be produced upon a large scale, says a Bozeman (Mont.) report.

An incorporation with a capital stock of $600,000 is proposed by capitalists in the eastern part of the state. The company will be organized by F. T. Osborne, T. H. Mehlig and W. W. Livingston of Bozeman; D. A.

Morrison of Whitehall, E. C. Davis of Sheridan and Gordon Mackay of Olympia, Wash.

Deposits of material for making Portland cement exist in few places, yet the company owns a big bed of it about nine miles east of Whitehall. Analyses have shown the deposit to be unusually pure, and the cement concern plans to erect and operate a plant that is expected to turn out from 600 to 1000 barrels a day. Portland cement is high in the northwest, owing to the fact that it has to be brought here from long distances and much of it is used.
