IS ROBERT WEDDLE

PROBABLE ASSOCIATE IN THE HOLD-UP AT ECHO.

Caught in Idaho by Sheriff Taylor After a Long and Arduous Chase—The Name "Archie Neal" Was Assumed, But Indirectly Led to His Apprehension—Weddle Has Made Damaging Admissions, While His Supposed Partner Has Made an Out and Out Confession as to Himself.

Sheriff T. D. Taylor arrived from Idaho yesterday morning with Robert Weddle, who, instead of Archie Neal, is the suspected partner of Lewis in the dastardly hold-up at Echo a month ago. Both men are now in the county jail and as Lewis has confessed while Weddle has said enough to implicate himself, there is every prospect that the two will soon be serving terms in the penitentiary.

Fine Work by Taylor.

The capture of Weddle by Sheriff Taylor was one of the best pieces of work ever done by that officer, though he has made many clever arrests thereby winning for himself a reputation as one of the most competent sheriffs in the northwest. As the Boise officers did not have the right man in jail there, it devolved upon Sheriff Taylor to find the real offender before arresting him. But he did this and landed him in jail here in less than 24 hours. Incidentally he traveled 500 miles through two states, 65 miles of which was by team and made mostly at night.

Two Archie Neals.

The circumstances surrounding Weddle's arrest made an interesting story. Upon his arrival in Boise Sheriff Taylor found to his chagrin that while the officers there had Archie Neal under arrest he was not the man wanted for the Echo crime. This was surprising, for the officer had good evidence that the man he wanted bore that name.

At last, after much hard questioning, by Sheriff Taylor the prisoner, in order to shield himself, disclosed the fact that he had a friend who had used his name on occasions. This acknowledgement furnished a valuable clue for the sheriff, and he finally induced the man to disclose the whereabouts of his pal.

According to the story of Neal, his friend was then on a sheep ranch 22 miles from Midvale, in central Idaho. With Neal in custody for purpose of identification, Sheriff Taylor then then left for Midvale, from which place he drove to the ranch in question. Before reaching the ranch he ascertained that Weddle was a member of a sheep shearing gang employed thereon.

On arriving at the place Weddle was found and made no resistance to his arrest. Neither did he express any surprise, but smilingly acknowledged that he knew the sheriff when that officer presented himself.

Long Night Drive.

After getting his man Sheriff Taylor secured a rig and drove to Welser, the nearest point on the main line. It was a distance of 45 miles, and they arrived in that little city just in time to catch No. 1 at 2:30 Sunday morning. In successfully finding his man in such a short time the sheriff was aided by good luck, which but proves the maxim that fortune favors the officer who is on the spot and uses some headwork.

Weddle Implicates Himself.

When seen at the jail yesterday Weddle declared he did not want to make a statement either declaring his guilt or innocence. However, he said he believed Lewis, who claims Weddle was his pal, has been placing blame on him in order to shield himself. If the two were in a hold-up he says anyone can see that Lewis would do his full share of the work.

Sheriff's a Strenuous Life.

The arrest of Weddle and the long drive incidental to the same, is but one of the many duties constantly falling upon the sheriff in this county. Owing to the large amount of criminal business in the county and the long distance to be covered the position of the sheriff is an arduous one and requires a man of strong physique as well as nerve. But a few days ago Sheriff Taylor watched the track at Bingham nearly all night, and assisted by the section foreman, captured Hall and Snyder, wanted for robbery at North Fork.

often made in order to bring back prisoners who have been picked up at other points upon instructions from the office here. During his term Sheriff Taylor has brought men back from Omaha, Denver, Dakota, Puget sound and other places equally distant. As an officer must be on his guard while with a prisoner, traveling under such conditions is not comfortable. The same is true in taking prisoners from here to the penitentiary, which is something that is done almost weekly.

MOORHOUSE PHOTOGRAPHS

EASTERN MAGAZINE PRINTS NEW INDIAN PICTURES.

Metropolitan for June Contains Large Number of Excellent New Photographs by Pendleton's Famous Artist, Major Lee Moorhouse—Many Heretofore Unpublished—New Pictures Will Appear in Forthcoming Second Edition of His Photographs.

One of the most valuable and artistic collections of Moorhouse Indian pictures ever published in an eastern magazine, appears in the June number of the Metropolitan, published in New York city.

An excellent article entitled "The Vanishing Race," written by the editor of the magazine, accompanies the photographs and gives Pendleton, the Umatilla Indians and Major Moorhouse world-wide publicity.

The Metropolitan is one of the leading magazines of the United States, and within the last few years has come to the front wonderfully in both a literary and artistic standpoint and this distribution of Moorhouse photographs among its readers gives the Pendleton artist one of the best advertisements he has ever received from his wonderful pictures.

An excellent photograph of Major Moorhouse heads the article and is followed by the following Indian photographs, many of which have never been published before: Cayuse chief Um-sump-kin, at ford of Umatilla river; "A Cayuse Turkish Bath," Charley Whirlwind, Miss Spee-Dee, a Wishram belle; dusk on the Umatilla reservation, Columbia river Indian medicine man, Chief Sum-kin, captain of reservation police; Princess Kash-kash, Sabina Minthorn and pappoose, Um-sump-kin's home on the reservation, Yakima Sally, Fish Hawk, a double-page cloud picture, "Sunset of the Umatilla reservation," Indian cowboy, Chief Joseph, the Cayuse twins and "Summer tepees on the Umatilla reservation."

The double-page cloud picture, entitled "Sunset on the Umatilla reservation," is a photographic gem and is one of the finest reproductions of cloud, landscape and solitary Indian tepees that has ever been secured in all the history of Indian photography.

The pictures are well printed in the Metropolitan and show the master work of the artist in an excellent manner. The pictures just printed in the Metropolitan will be reproduced in the new edition of the Moorhouse pictures to be issued soon by the East Oregonian for Major Moorhouse. This new edition will be larger and more complete than the first edition, and there is already a heavy advance demand for the collection.

Walla Walla Club Drink.

New ones are being sprung every day. Go to sleep in Walla Walla for a few hours and you'll wake up behind the times. The very latest local attraction is the new 50,000 Club drink, says the Walla Walla Statesman. The new drink is one that is right up to the minute. It is one of those good old summer time beverages that discounts anything in its line ever before attempted. Its inventor promises that much and more, too. That the drink will go a long way to enhance the reputation of Walla Walla's most popular club is something that is practically certain.

Boy's Arm Broken.

Arthur, the 10-year-old son of Conductor and Mrs. J. L. McCrary, while playing at the high school grounds yesterday afternoon fell from the fence surrounding the grounds and broke both bones in his arm between the wrist and elbow. The fracture was attended by Dr. R. E. Ringo, and while it is a complete fracture of both bones, it will not result in permanent injury.

1,500,000 POUNDS

MARKET PRACTICALLY ENTIRE CLIP TOMORROW.

Buyers Are Now Here in Force and Also a Full Delegation of Railroad Freight Agents and Woolgrowers As Well—In Spite of Bearish Predictions, There is a Prospect for Good Prices—Some Change of Sentiment in Wyoming—Nearly a Million Pounds in the Warehouse Here Now.

With a million pounds of wool in the warehouse and a half million more to come all is now in readiness for the big sales day tomorrow. As practically the entire clip of the county will be placed on sale tomorrow the event is awaited with interest by the sheepmen and buyers alike.

The buyers are now here in force and if the sale is not a success it will not be for lack of purchasers. The following is a list of those in attendance, and the houses represented:

Corps of Buyers Here.
E. Y. Judd, of the firm of the H. C. Judd & Root company; Edwin J. Burke, for the same people; Charles H. Greene, for S. Koshland & Co., of San Francisco; Leon Strauss for Frank B. Findley & Co., of San Francisco; William Ellery, member of the firm of Hallowell, Jones & Donald, Boston; E. W. Brigham, for Whitman Farnsworth & Thayer, of Boston; S. Frank Frankenstein, for Hecht, Lieberman & Co., of Boston; George Abbot, for the Botany Worsted Mills, of Passaic, N. J.; O. Kuhn, for the same firm; M. M. Cummings, for Brown & Adams, of Boston; P. Dufour, A. J. Parmentier and George Von Zevern, for the Lafayette Worsted Mills, of Woonsocket, R. I.; G. E. L. Sharp, for Luce & Manning, of Boston; James Russell, for The Dalles Scouring Mills; and J. Sheuerman, of San Francisco.

Many Railway Representatives.
In the corps of transportation men accompanying the buyers are the following: J. C. Lindsey, of the Illinois Central; H. J. Miller, for the Chicago & Northwestern; E. T. Sweney, of the Erie Dispatch; F. Refugee Stalker, for the Trades Dispatch; Frank Hanke, for the C. M. & St. P., and George O'Connor, for the Northern Pacific.

During the day the sheepmen have also been gathering in the city, and tomorrow practically all the growers of the county will be on hand. J. M. Keeney, of the Cunningham Sheep & Land company, arrived this morning from Shaniko to attend the sale and has been here today with J. N. Burgess, manager of the company. J. E. Smith, of the J. E. Smith Livestock company, has also been here today. The combined clips of these two companies alone make a third of a million pounds.

Hope For Good Prices.
What prices the sales day will bring forth remains to be seen. However, there is a general feeling among the growers that good prices will prevail; in spite of the bearish predictions made by some of the buyers. There is little stock taken in the rumor that the wool buying firms of the country have entered into a combine. The following dispatch from Rawlins, Wyo., shows there has been a change of sentiment there:

Fear of Combine Gone.
Rawlins, Wyo., May 11.—The sheep shearing season is drawing to a close in this section. The Smiley & Daley pens have closed and the Miller pens will close this week. The shearers are leaving for other parts of the state, where shearing is in progress. Buyers are now busy and all talk of a combine has died out.

Prices are averaging from 2½ cents to 3-8 cents per pound better this year than last, and from 5 to 9 cents better than in 1904. Ten years ago the wool that is now bringing from 20 to 24 cents per pound brought less than 10 cents, or about the amount of the increase in this year's prices over those of 1904, and the wool is not much finer now than then.

The following is a detailed list of the wool in the warehouse up to Saturday evening. It amounted then to 750,000 pounds and Manager Sutherland was confident that a million would be on hand by Tuesday noon: Cunningham S. & L. Co., 10,330; Mallahan & Byrne, 17,800; Pat Dougherty, 22,646; Pedro Bros., 44,261; Russ Bros., 42,133; Charles McBe, 15,703; J. Connelly, 17,283; A. Perard, 25,585; D. L. Johnson, 32,296; A. Knotts, 10,136; Hunter Bros., 15,788; Donald Ross, 24,952; A. P. Warner, 11,093; C. W. Mathews, 27,930; A. H. Sunderman, 19,207; Gulliford Bros., 13,494; J. E. Smith, L. S. Co., 122,016; T. L. Belts, 34,014; John Wynn, 10,299; M. Edwards, 14,415; William Sushner, 8,847; S. P. Gould, 14,642; Geo. Adams, 5617; Chas. Ely, 6054; A. C. Henderson & Son, 9933; F. Dickinson, 14,729; A. A. Cole, 3800.

A 25-Pound Colt.
There is a little Shetland colt at J. V. Tallman's barn in this city. The little fellow weighs but 25 pounds, and was born Saturday. Since his arrival he has been an object of interest among the boys of that neighborhood.
