But no picture can show the elegant appearance of the woman who is properly fitted with the Henderson Corset. No illustration can convey the idea of comfort and right-dressed-ness that a woman feels when her gowns are fitted over the Henderson.

There's but one sure way to know that the Henderson is right. Try a Pair.

IDAHO WATER INTO UTAH.

Work Has Begun on a Plant Which Will Cost $3,000,000.

The Telluride Power company has at last really begun work on its $3,000,000 irrigation and power plant project in this valley, says the Montpelier Examiner. It is hiring all the men and teams it can get, and dirt has already begun to fly.

The first work will be to drive a tunnel through a big mountain near Soda Springs, where the water is to be taken from Bear river to the powerhouse through an immense pipe and the tunnel to a point on the west side of the mountain. More than 500 feet fall is thus secured, and the distance the water has to flow is greatly shortened. The river at this point forms a long U, and by cutting across through the mountain a great distance is saved.

The next work will be the digging of an immense canal from Bear river, near this city to Bear lake, wherein the floodwaters of the river are to be stored for summer use. After passing through the powerhouse the water will be taken on down into Utah for irrigation purposes. The beginning of this work marks the starting of an expenditure of more than $1,000,000 for labor alone, all of which will be spent largely in this valley.

THE YAKIMA WOOL SITUATION.

General Prospect in the Direction of Suffer Prices.

In reviewing the status quo and future possibilities for the wool market in the North Yakima section the Republic of that city says:

The wool market is looking up. An advance in the London market has had a tendency to bull the eastern market, and the reaction has affected the west to such an extent that the growers and buyers in the Yakima valley have locked horns again. The result is that the buyers have an inclination to loosen up a little and some of them are paying good prices for wool.

The wool growers are feeling jubilant over the situation. They say that wool will go higher than 25 cents per pound, and Ernest Berg declared with buoyancy that wool was worth 26 cents now. Mr. Berg is one of the largest wool growers in the valley. He told a reporter for the Republic that he had sold 29,000 pounds of wool for 26 1/2 cents, and he was sorry for having closed the deal because he felt confident that the market would advance. Koshland Bros., of San Francisco, bought Mr. Berg's wool.

A number of sales were closed Saturday. Pete Agor sold 60,000 pounds to the Portland Woolen Mills for 23 cents. James Wright sold a large consignment of wool but the terms were private. Coffin Bros. have disposed of about 100,000 pounds to the Portland Woolen mills, obtaining 19 cents. Much of the Coffin's wool, however, was exceedingly heavy and the price paid on the entire lot is said to have been good.

The wool buyers are loth to admit that there has been any material advance in the market. They admit that the London market has gone up 5 per cent, but this, they say, is so slight as not to affect the price in the United States more than one-fourth of a cent per pound. An advance of 15 or 20 per cent in London will cause an advance in the eastern markets of probably 1 cent, and this being the case the buyers fall to see upon what grounds the wool growers are basing their claims for a big rise in the market.

At Cawker City, 20 miles west of Beloit, Kan., Mrs. Williams, her daughter, 13 years old, and her son, 5 years old, were drowned while trying to escape from the house, around which the water was rapidly rising as the result of torrential rains on May 21.

The Puters, the McKinleys, the Keillibers and such like, were put out of business by the state land agent and the policy of Governor Chamberlain. During the administration of Governor Chamberlain, land to the value of millions of dollars has been saved to the state.

Survivor of Custer Fight.

The Custer battlefield is close to the Crow agency. In a desire to know all that I could, at close range, of the tragedy of the Little Big Horn, I spent many days in going over the battlefield foot by foot, from where the troops left the Rosebud to the ridge where the men had made their last stubborn fight. White marble slabs mark the spots where they fell. In most cases the slabs are in twos, side by side. Strange how it is when it comes to the final end, we reach out for human companionship. There they made their last earthly stand, bunkie to bunkie. Among the dozens of Indians I questioned of the fight was Curley, who is so often called the sole survivor of the Custer fight. He has been so bullied, badgered, questioned, cross-questioned, leading-questioned, and called, by mouth and in type, a coward and a liar by an endless horde of the curious and knowledge-seeking, that I doubt today, if his life depended upon it, he could tell whether he was over at or near the Custer fight.—From "The Tribes of the Northwest Plains," by E. S. Curtis, in the June Scribner.

New Era in the Vatican.

Now that the "Spanish three-men power" has been dissolved by the death of Father Martin, general of Jesuits, it is surmised that Pope Pius may inaugurate a more liberal era, says a dispatch from Rome. General Martin was associated with the secretary of state, Merry del Val, and Cardinal Vives in the "power behind the throne." These three mighty Spaniards wielded much influence from the time the pontiff was settled on the papal throne, though they were careful not to show their hand.

As to the person of the new general of Jesuits opinions differ, but it is almost certain that neither an American, German or a Frenchman will be chosen, since the church favors a citizen of a lesser power, like Spain or Portugal. The late general was, on more than one occasion, called a great strategist by Pope Pius, and it is a well-known fact that he held his forces well in hand.

"Victory of Samothrace."

The Winged Victory of Samothrace, the famous statuette, shows a figure in flowing Greek robes with wings, a very virile and beautiful figure despite the fact that it is headless and armless. The figure was exhumed on the Island of Samothrace in the Aegean sea near Greece and it is thought that it formerly ornamented the prow of a Greek ship. The figure is one of the most beautiful of the ancient Greek statues.

By the collapse of St. Agnew insane asylum at St. Jose, Cal., from the earthquake, 11 employes and 87 patients lost their lives.

30 CARS OF CATTLE

SIX HUNDRED MONTANA CATTLE TO TACOMA.

Big Hole Basin Feeders Send 30 Cars to Tacoma by Way of O. R. & N. to Glut Northwest Markets—Portion of 12,000 Head Fed in That Section During Past Year.

Six hundred head of Montana cattle passed through Pendleton over the O. R. & N. this morning en route to Carsten Brothers of Tacoma. This is a portion of 12,000 head of fat cattle which have been sent of Big Hole Basin during the past two months and is practically the last shipment to be made from that place this season.

There were 30 cars in the shipment which passed through here this morning and the lot will average about 1,300 pounds each. They were driven 65 miles from the feeding grounds in the basin to Red Lodge, the shipping point.

Most of the cattle fed in the Big Hole basin during the past winter went to the Chicago and Omaha markets, about 3000 head going to Seattle and Tacoma over the Northern Pacific.

The Big Hole Basin is a feeding district strictly, there being but few cattle raised there owing to the scarcity of range. An abundance of excellent wild hay is raised in the basin, which is a high altitude, and most of the farmers buy cattle in the outside districts, for feeding purposes.

SALOONS CAUSED DISORDER.

San Francisco Has Been a Model of Decency With Closed Saloons.

Immediately after the earthquake and fire at San Francisco the mayor ordered all saloons closed. The San Francisco Chronicle thus commented on the results a few days ago:

"San Francisco for the past fortnight has been absolutely free from disorder and virtually free from crimes of violence. No drunken brute has beaten his wife. No gamblers have murdered each other in low resorts. Except for some dealings with sneak thieves the occupation of the police court is gone.

It is a most impressive object lesson of the value to society of the restriction of the liquor traffic. We are promised a continuance of this peaceful condition for a considerable time to come, save only as drunken men drift over from Oakland, where the authorities have been so reckless as to allow saloons to open. We may be compelled to renew the quarantine against Oakland.

"This absolute demonstration that the saloons are responsible for all crimes of violence makes it imperative that, whenever they shall be allowed to reopen in this city, their license fees be fixed at a rate which will support the police department. There must be increased taxation. The public generally will protest against being taxed for the control or suppression of those forms of crime for which the saloons are now proved to be so responsible. The public will look to the board of supervisors to place the cost of dealing with crimes of violence on the occupation which is responsible for all of it."

At Svenson, near Astoria, a boy named Becker struck at a large snake with an ax, as the reptile was crawling close to the feet of his 3-year-old sister. He missed the snake and split one of the little girl's feet open. The child was immediately attended and it is hoped will recover.

Found, at Fergy's, Kaiser's dog.
