Farms Enhanced by Good Roads. The south end of Benton is vying with all other sections in road building, says the Corvallis Times. Rich Irwin and J. S. Watkins have recently built half a mile of grade at their own expense. Another donation of consequence is $50 in cash contributed by Major Bruce to be expended in gravel for the roads in the vicinity. The money and labor expended on the public road increases the value, usefulness and the salability of the farm, and adds to the comfort, convenience and happiness of the owner. That is a fact that cannot be rubbed out, and all that a farmer expends on the roads comes back to him many fold.

The Optimist is republican in politics, is opposed to equal suffrage and from editorial utterances is opposed to local option.

Precaution Against Fire.

In order to prevent grass from catching fire from firecrackers on the Fourth of July, it is urged that all residents cut any dry grass that may be on their places. At present there is considerable dry grass in vacant lots in various parts of the city, and should firecrackers be exploded in the same a serious fire might be started.

SEVERE HURT TO WAFFLE'S LEG Sustained While Trying to Stop a Car With Stick of Wood.

E. B. Waffle, who is now serving as an O. R. & N. passenger brakeman, was badly hurt on the left leg at North Fork yesterday while trying to stop a car on the sidetrack. The eastbound passenger had stopped at North Fork for the purpose of picking up the dinner, and while working on the sidetrack a car which was detached from the others started to roll down the track.

In an effort to stop the same, Brakeman Waffle placed a piece of cordwood on the track to block the car. However, it cut the piece in two pieces, one of which flew out and struck the brakeman on the left leg just below the knee. He was knocked down by the blow and did not recover for some time. He is now at his home here and will be unable to work for several days on account of his injury.

DR. HILL MAY LEAVE PORTLAND.

Noted Presbyterian Minister Called to Chicago School.

A special session of the authorities of the First Presbyterian church of Portland will be called next week for the purpose of considering a call that has been made to Dr. Edgar P. Hill to the chair of homiletics in McCormick seminary, Chicago, says the Oregon Daily Journal. It is likely that Dr. Hill will accept the call and discontinue his services as pastor of the First Presbyterian church early in the fall.

Dr. Hill announced the offer at a meeting of the board of directors of the church last week. He stated at the time that he was considering the call. He stated this morning that he had not decided to accept and that the matter would be thoroughly considered at the meeting next week.

Dr. Hill recently returned from a trip abroad and the announcement of his probable departure was a great surprise to the members of his church. In making the announcement Dr. Hill stated that he had received several calls last year from various prominent churches, but that his attachment to Portland had compelled him to decline.

At Philadelphia, the cases against Abraham English, ex-director of public safety; Philip Johnson, architect; James D. Finley, inspector, and Henry E. Burt, all accused of grafting in the erection of the city hospital, were dismissed by the trial judge, who held there was no cause for action.
