BIZNESS IS ENDED

LAUNDRYMEN ELECTED OFFICERS LAST NIGHT.

Are in Walla Walla Today, and Tonight Will Be Entertained by the Elks of This Place—Meeting Place of Next Annual Session Left to the Executive Committee—Last Night's Banquet Was an Event Long to Be Remembered by Visitors and Hosts Alike.

Officers Chosen.
Frank C. McCullough of Spokane, president.
John F. Robinson of Pendleton, vice-president.
L. T. Gilliland of Portland, secretary-treasurer.
A. Jacobson of Seattle, sergeant-at-arms.

Business Program Ended.
At a short session held last evening the business program of the sixth annual gathering of the Oregon and Washington laundrymen was brought to a close, and since that time the bunch has been in the hands of their Pendleton friends, who have shown them the pleasures of life in eastern Oregon. Last night the laundrymen were treated to a banquet at the Hotel Pendleton, and this morning they went to Walla Walla for a visit with the brethren of the Garden City. They will return at 5:30 this evening, and tonight they will be the guests of Pendleton lodge number 288, B. P. O. E.

At the business session last evening officers for the ensuing year were elected as stated above. In regard to the matter of a meeting place for next year, no official action was taken, the matter being left with the executive committee. However, it is probable that the convention will be held at Vancouver, B. C., provided the laundryman of that Canadian city manifest sufficient interest.

Last Night's Banquet.
One of the most successful entertainments ever held in Pendleton, and the most enjoyable social event of the season was the banquet of the laundrymen held in the dining room of the Hotel Pendleton last evening. The guests were admitted about 9 o'clock, and from this hour until—well, nearly time to get up—they enjoyed to the fullest extent the well prepared menu and the sharp repartee of the speakers.

The event of the evening was the arrival of No Shirt, White Shirt, Under Shirt, Dirty Shirt, and Colored Shirt in charge of chief of scouts, Major General Moorhouse. This was a surprise which Mr. Robinson had in store for his guests and not until they burst into the room with a whoop and a yell did anyone know they were coming. Some of the guests succeeded in reaching the sidewalk by way of the north windows, and others took refuge under the table, but upon being convinced that the mission was one of peace, were induced to return, and during the rest of the evening the men who wash and the men who never wash fraternized as brothers.

T. T. Geer, Judge T. G. Halley, Rev. Henry Dickson Jones and a committee from the Elks who will entertain the laundrymen this evening, were guests of the association.

The music furnished by Johnson's orchestra was enjoyed by all and the flashlight picture taken by Walter Bowman will be prized for years to come by those who were fortunate enough to be in attendance.

Manager W. A. Brown of Hotel Pendleton, acquitted himself admirably, and the manner in which the banquet was conducted shows that Pendleton has facilities for entertaining visitors of which the city may well be proud.

At the close of the evening a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Robinson, the press of Pendleton, the people of Pendleton, and even the police force.

PAVING COMPANY RUSHING.
Grading and Tearing Out Crosswalks With Energy.

Today the paving company has been doing some strenuous work with its steam roller and plow on Main street.

De Caprio, Who Will Furnish Music for the County Fair.

and as a result that thoroughfare has resembled the pictures of "Frisco" streets after the earthquake. However, there has been no great inconvenience to traffic, and most people have been glad to bear the present turmoil for the sake of the good time that is to come when the paving is down.

This morning the crosswalks, on Main street were dug up by the roots by the big steam roller and dragged away. When the one in front of the Peoples Warehouse was lifted, a colony of rats was found at the west end, and one of the number sought refuge up the trousers leg of one of the workmen. The manner in which that particular employee stepped around for a moment made amusement for the crowd of bystanders.

Another incident which attracted attention this morning occurred when the roller that has been pulling the excavating machine on Court street became stuck in a hole in front of the Renn building and was made helpless. In order to get the roller out of its predicament it was necessary for its working brother, the county juggernaut, to come to its assistance. A tug line was run to the stranded machine, and with a few short puffs from the other roller it was yanked back upon the level street.

STATE MEETING OCTOBER 11-12

IRRIGATORS TO ASSEMBLE AT HOOD RIVER.

State Irrigation Association to Hold Convention on October 11 and 12—The Hood River "Apple Fair" Will Be in Session at the Same Time—Officers of State Association Working Hard to Secure Good Attendance.

Because of the overshadowing excellence of the National Irrigation congress recently held at Boise is no reason for forgetting the state irrigation congress, which is to be held at Hood River on October 11 and 12.

President Stephen A. Lowell, of the state association, and Secretary A. King Wilson of Portland, are working energetically to make the state meeting a success, since a number of vital state issues are to be discussed by that meeting.

It has been arranged to hold the state congress at Hood River during the "Apple fair" to be held in that city, thus giving the visitors an opportunity to see the beautiful display of fruit. The apple fair has come to be one of the most delightful events in the inland empire and it is fortunate for those who expect to attend the irrigation meeting that they will be enabled to see the remarkable fruit display of Oregon's leading fruit growing district.

The following program has been prepared for the meeting:

"Irrigation Under the Carey Act in the Deschutes Valley," Jesse Stearns, attorney for Deschutes Irrigation & Power company.

"Need of Legislation in Oregon on the Subject of Waters," John H. Lewis, state engineer.

"Irrigation for Humid Regions," Professor F. L. Kent, dairy instructor, Oregon Agricultural college.

"Irrigation Conditions in Malheur county, Ore.," F. W. Metcalf, manager Arcadia farm.

"Fruitgrowing on Irrigated Lands," Judd Geer of Cove, Ore.

"Some Legal Phases of Irrigation," John H. Lawrey, attorney, Pendleton, Ore.

"Irrigation in the Willamette Valley," Grant B. Dimick, county judge, Clackamas county.

"Irrigation in Rogue River Valley," J. W. Perkins, member of legislature, Jackson county.

In Police Court.

In the police court this morning three prisoners were brot before his honor Joe Parker, and they were each given sentences of $5 or three days. Those in the batch were Charles Jones, William Watson and Jim Bad Roads, and the last named only had the necessary money.

YAKIMA COUNTY WILL PROSECUTE

PETER SAMPSON'S SLAYERS ARE KNOWN.

So Says the Prosecuting Attorney of Yakima County, Who Is Out for a Vindication of the Law—Albert Barnhart, a Umatilla, Is Interpreter Between the Authorities and the Star Witness for the State—Stuck Was Empty Handed and Was Killed by Two Armed Men.

The latest developments relating to the murder of "Stuck" (Peter) Sampson are narrated by the Yakima Republic as follows:

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of the brother of Billy George, a Yakima Indian, who is now in the county jail charged with the murder of a Columbia river Indian, called "Stuck." Billy George and his brother killed "Stuck" about two weeks ago one mile south of Toppenish on the Yakima reservation. Billy George was arrested, but his brother escaped and is now said to be picking hops at a near by ranch. The officers will probably arrest the fugitive today and place him behind the bars with his brother.

Albert Barnhart, a Umatilla Indian, brought Billy Albert before the prosecuting attorney yesterday afternoon and acted as interpreter for the latter while the story of the murder of "Stuck" was related.

"Billy Albert was with 'Stuck' and they were both riding for home, 'Stuck' was drunk, and could hardly sit upon his pony. They had not gone far out of Toppenish when Billy George accompanied by his brother, rode up to them, and began to curse 'Stuck.' Billy George pulled a bottle of whisky from his pocket and asked 'Stuck' to have a drink. After drinking 'Stuck' started on a gallop, but had only gone a few yards when his hat was blown off. Billy Albert stooped to get the hat, while the two Yakima Indians followed the hatless Indian down the road. They jerked him from his horse, and both dismounted and drew knives.

"Just at that moment Billy Albert came upon the trio, and found them fighting. The brother of Billy George delivered the fatal blow, stabbing 'Stuck' in the forehead with his knife, and as the latter sank to the earth Billy George stabbed him several times in the neck. Albert jumped from his horse to assist 'Stuck,' but just as he did so one of the George Indians struck him with a quart bottle of whisky and knocked him down. Billy George said: 'Let's kill him, or he will be a witness against us.' When Albert was knocked down he rolled under a barb wire fence and crawled out on the other side and ran for his life. This alone saved him from death at the hands of the infuriated Indians.

"The George Indians then threw their knives down by the side of 'Stuck's' body and mounted their horses to ride away. They had only gone a short distance from the scene, when Johnny Frank and two other Indians rode upon them. Said Billy George: 'I'm a great fighter; have a drink, boys.' When Billy Albert saw the men talking to the George Indians, he approached and told them what had happened. The George Indians then rode off. Johnny Frank remarked: 'We will have to be a witness to this murder.'"

Billy Albert further said that "Stuck" was not armed with a weapon of any kind. He was a large Indian and a splendid type of the aborigine.

The county authorities are determined to prosecute this case to the full extent of the law. They say the evidence is convincing and have arrived at the conclusion that it will be folly to let these Indian murders continue without giving them lawful attention.
