

FULTON'S NAME HISSED IN PORTLAND

The Portland Oregonian gives the following account of Senator La Follette's lecture in Portland, in which the name of Senator Fulton was hissed and that of Gearin applauded:

Senator Fulton was roundly hissed and Senator Gearin enthusiastically applauded by a vast assemblage that filled the White Temple last night to have Robert La Follette, United States senator from Wisconsin, speak on "Representative Government." It was known that Senator La Follette would in some manner attack Senator Fulton, because the latter was among those who failed to support several of the La Follette amendments to the railroad rate bill, but the public expression of indignant feeling on the part of the audience was unexpected. The little giant from Wisconsin also declared that a political boss of Portland is trying to induce the state representatives and senators to vote against Jonathan Burne for United States senator when the legislature meets in January, and it is presumed that he aimed directly at "Jack" Matthews of Portland.

The White Temple was packed and jammed at the lecture last night. Senator La Follette was introduced by Samuel Connell, and for three solid hours he occupied the platform in an impassioned address against corporate wealth and influence. He swayed the audience with his oratory, and when the feeling was most intense he sprang the bombshell he had in store for Senator Fulton.

"Papers which are aligned with the trusts say that I am throwing mud when I tell of my fight in the senate to secure the amendment to the railroad rate bill, but I am simply handing out the records of the senators who opposed me," he said. "I tell you right here that the country is more in danger than it was in the sixties."

Rate Bill Incomplete.
"The bill has many good provisions, but it is far from being complete. The bill withholds the essential authority to make all rates reasonable. My amendment had for its purpose to remedy that defect. It would have clothed the interstate commerce commission with the authority and appropriation to employ experts to ascertain the value of railroad property, without which information the railroads can never be regulated as they should be. The value of the railroads of the United States is $6,000,000,000, yet they are capitalized at $12,000,000,000—twice as much as their real value."

"Railroad companies should receive enough money for their operating expenses, maintenance of property and a fair rate of interest on their investment and no more. My amendment would have saved the people of the United States $435,000,000 annually, which the railroad companies now receive, and to which they are not entitled."

"When I arose to speak on my amendment nearly all of my colleagues got up and went out. I then stated that many of those who had vacated their seats temporarily might find that the people of the country would make them vacate their seats permanently. I meant it when I said it, and it brought some of them back."

Senator La Follette then went on to relate that his amendment was laid on the table by a vote of 49 against 27, and that 22 senators did not vote. He proceeded to read the list of those who voted against it, and the first name he gave was that of Aldrich. He then read carefully down the list until he came to Fulton, and then he paused. Leaning out over the platform, his face glowing with suppressed feeling and every muscle tense, he uttered the name of "Fulton." He laid great stress on the name of the United States senator from Oregon, and pronounced it with decided emphasis.

Hisses for Senator Fulton.
Instantly there swept over the assemblage a deep groan which was immediately followed by a storm of hisses and cries of "Shame." He then read the list of the senators who voted for the amendment, and when he came to the name of Gearin there was a great and enthusiastic outburst of handclappings.

This was not enough and Senator La Follette told of his attempt to pass another amendment that provided that judges who held stocks or bonds or passed issued by the railroad companies be disqualified to preside in their judicial capacity over cases in which the railroad companies were interested. He read the list of the senators who voted against this measure and when he pronounced the name of Fulton there was another outbreak of hisses which was more violent than the first manifestation. Senator Gearin was among the few who voted for it and he got another burst of applause.

Senator La Follette appeared to be greatly pleased over the applause given Senator Gearin. In speaking of him he said: "If Gearin voted wrong on any question where corporations were on one side and the people on the other I haven't any recollection of it."

In speaking of the political boss, whom he declared was working to defeat the people's choice for United States senator, he said:

"I am informed that you have a progressive constitution and a primary election law. I understand that the people of Oregon have declared themselves against the election of United States senators by the legislature. I have been reliably informed that there is a movement on foot to undermine and destroy that declaration of the people of this state, and that there is a political boss in Portland who is interviewing the senators and representatives to influence them not to abide by the will of the people and that the petitions will be circulated and that they will be circulated and that they will be circulated. Beware, I say, if you strike down this great principle. Be on your guard. I do hope you will permit Jonathan Burne to Join me in Washington as I need no the company. I was told by senator Gearin that he is an honest man and that he will follow the wishes of the people."

Holds Interest of Audience.
Senator La Follette is a powerful speaker, and although he did not conclude until 11:30 o'clock, but few of those present left the hall while he was speaking. He held like in a vise the interest of the throng, and not for a second did he lose his absolute command of their attention. After the lecture the men and women thronged to the platform to grasp his hand, and it was half an hour or more before he had met the last of them. Senator La Follette leaves this morning for Tacoma.

The New Pacific Route.
Washington, Nov. 21.—The new Grand Trunk Pacific across the continent through Canada and the British possessions, when completed, will shorten the distance between New York and Yokohama 1500 miles over the San Francisco route, 500 over the Canadian Pacific route and fully as much over the Hill routes. The new line will pass through the great wheat growing regions of Manitoba, Assiniboia and Alberta for about 1000 miles and will then enter the rich mineral regions of British Columbia. The Pacific terminal will be on the Skeena river where a city called Prince Rupert is being built. The road is being constructed with all possible dispatch.

A Year of Blood.
The year 1903 will long be remembered in the home of F. N. Tackett, of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood; which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tackett's lungs that death seemed very near. He writes: "Severe bleeding from the lungs and a frightful cough had brought me at death's door, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, with the astonishing result that after taking four bottles I was completely restored and as time has proven, permanently cured." Guaranteed for sore lungs, coughs and colds, at Tallman & Co.'s drug store. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

Impending Strike of Welsh Miners.
Cardiff, Wales, Nov. 21.—At a meeting of the South Wales Miners' federation here today under the presidency of W. Price, M. P., it was decided owing to the abolition of the coal tax to demand an increase in wages of 5 per cent. The miners are determined in their demand and should a strike take place upwards of 158,000 men will be effected at the mines alone besides the number of men engaged in shipping, as all ships in the Bristol channel ports will be tied up. It is expected, however, that a settlement will be arrived at.

Had a Close Call.
"A dangerous surgical operation, involving the removal of a malignant ulcer, as large as my hand, from my daughter's hip, was prevented by the application of Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says A. C. Stuekel, of Miletus, W. Va. "Persistent use of the salve completely cured it." Cures cuts, burns and injuries. 25c at Tallman & Co., druggists.

California's Great Orange Crop.
Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—It is now estimated, with certainty, that the season's orange crop in this state, while being excellent in quality, will be somewhat larger than last year, possibly by 1000 cars or more. In southern California in some districts, the crop is slightly lighter than last year but this deficiency will be offset by the larger sizes. Taking all facts into consideration the crop is more satisfactory than that of last season.

THE FILIPINO CONGRESS.

General Election to Be Held March 27 to Choose Delegates to Assembly.

March 27, 1907, will be an important date mark in the history of the Philippines. On that day a general election will be called to choose delegates to a Philippine assembly, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This is in obedience to a law of congress which provides that two years after the taking of a census of the islands this grant of self-rule should be made. The census was published on March 27, 1905, and attracted wide attention. It was the first count of the inhabitants of the islands which made any close approach to accuracy. The population of the islands, as revealed in that count, was 7,635,000, of whom 447,000 are classed as uncivilized.

Under the law of congress all male residents of the island of 23 years of age, who can read and write either Spanish or English, or who own a certain amount of property, can vote for members of the new assembly. Under Spanish law 23 years was the minimum voting age. The Philippine parliament will consist of two chambers, a popular branch of not less than 50 nor more than 100 members, and an upper and smaller branch, to be called the Philippine commission, part of which, it is probable, will consist of the present commission for the islands. This will be the first step toward the establishment of self-rule for the Filipinos, but they will, even by this beginning, have a larger voice in the government of their local affairs than Spain would probably have granted to them if she had remained in control half a century longer. It is a larger measure of self-rule than is possessed by any of the Asiatic colonies of the European powers. The grant will be extended as fast as the natives show an intelligence to use their power wisely. It is altogether probable that within a third of a century the Philippines will have almost as much of a voice in the management of their home concerns as Canada has under the British system. This experiment in home-rule for an Asiatic dependency will be watched with a good deal of interest by the world.

Great Church Merger.
Pittsburg, Nov. 21.—The movement to merge the Congregational, Methodist Protestant and United Brethren churches into one body is now almost an assured fact. A large meeting of the ministers of the denominations mentioned is being held here today to discuss the project. The movement has been in progress for five years. The consolidation of the churches into one body to be known as the United church will give the new organization a membership of about 1,250,000 and make it one of the strongest Protestant church bodies in the world.

Irish Potato Crop Failure.
Dublin, Nov. 21.—The blight in the potato crop which appeared in June has almost completely destroyed the potato crop in the south and west. As it is the staple crop in the districts where it has been a failure, the congested districts board are taking steps to relieve the peasants from any suffering during the coming winter.

There is an asylum for infirm animals and birds near Calcutta, which at present houses 973 paupers, including horses, cows, buffaloes, dogs, cats, chickens, etc.

EUGENE WATER SUPPLY STOPS

PLACE HAS NO PROTECTION WHATEVER AGAINST FIRE

Is Also Threatened With Recurrence of the Conditions Which Last Winter Developed Nearly Three Hundred Cases of Typhoid Fever—Company Has Been for Some Time Pumping River Water Directly Into the Mains—No Water in Reservoir and Schools Are Dismissed.

Eugene is today without a water supply, says the Guard of November 16. There is trouble at the pumping station, and there has been no water in the mains all day nor was there any during a greater part of the time last night and a good part of the time yesterday.

Investigation by the Guard today revealed the fact that the cause of the entire lack of water is that the mouth of the suction pipe which lies in the bottom of the river is clogged with mud and gravel so that no water at all can be drawn into it. As the water in the river right now is very deep and swift, it is impossible to reach the mouth of the pipe to clean it out, and some other means of drawing the water to the pumps will have to be employed or else raise the pipe out of the river and clean out the debris.

The company has had trouble with the mud ever since the river began to rise at the commencement of the present freshet. It has clogged the filters, making it difficult for the water to pass through them. This is no doubt, the reason for the low pressure in the mains during the past week.

It developed today that the water company has not been using the reservoir for some time past, pumping direct into the mains. The power for motors which operate small pieces of machinery about the city has been very poor for a long time and of course there is now none at all. The Guard abandoned its water motors several weeks ago and since then all of its machinery has been operated by electricity.

Mayor Wilkins and other city officials are doing all in their power to have present conditions remedied, for they realize that in case of fire there would be no protection whatever to property and that the city's health is seriously menaced. They have demanded of the water company officials that a water supply be furnished at once and have received the reply that everything possible is being done to set the pumps in motion again.

On account of the lack of water in the mains the public schools were dismissed and no classes will be heard until the water is turned on again.
