BAD PRISON RECORD

PRISONER SEEMS TO BE A CONFIRMED CRIMINAL.

Is an Escape From the Walla Walla Penitentiary and Since Served a Term in the Boise Penitentiary. With Time Penalty Added for Yet Another Escape—Is Wanted in Nevada for Burglary—Is 27 Years of Age and Has "Done Time" Six Years.

J. B. Gilliam, chief turnkey of the Walla Walla penitentiary, arrived in the city this morning from Boise with Rucker Rogers, alias Harry Miller, who has just completed a four-year term in the Idaho state prison. Mr. Gilliam arrived with his prisoner at 3 o'clock, the westbound train being seven hours late, and left at 9 o'clock for Walla Walla. He stated that Rogers is a man with a bad record, but that no trouble has been made by the prisoner while on the way to the Washington state prison.

Rogers escaped from the Walla Walla pen about five years ago and was not located again until he became an inmate of the state prison at Boise. He was serving a term of three years for burglary, and before his time expired he made a successful escape from the prison. He was found several months afterward and was given another year in addition to his first sentence. His time expired yesterday, but before he was given an opportunity to gain his freedom, Mr. Gilliam was on hand with extradition papers for Rogers and promptly took the convict into custody.

Rogers served six months of a four-year sentence before escaping from the Walla Walla prison, and it is probable now that he will be given an extra year for breaking prison. As soon as his term expires there, he will be turned over to the state authorities of Nevada, who have absolute proof against the criminal of committing burglary in that state.

Rogers, now 27 years old, has spent the past six years of his life in prison, and when the states of Washington and Nevada get through with him, he shall have spent at least 12 more years behind prison walls.

RUN SAWMILL ALL WINTER.

E. J. Wilbur, of McKay Creek, Selling

Rough Lumber at $10 a Thousand.

E. J. Wilbur, the sawmill man of North McKay creek, was in the city yesterday for the purpose of securing supplies for his camp and to attend to other business. Mr. Wilbur stated that he expected to operate his mill the greater part of the winter, as the demand for rough lumber in that part of the county was sufficient to keep the mill running and turning out the product for the next several months.

Mr. Wilbur stated that he was selling rough lumber at $10 per thousand feet and was making a fair profit at that price. The true price for rough lumber at the present time is understood to be more than double the rate charged by Mr. Wilbur.

Gus Freeman Had Not Seen Old Home

Town in 26 Years.

Gus Freeman, a well known Pendleton citizen, has returned from a visit to his old home at St. Louis. He had not visited that city since 1870, 26 years ago, and he says that he had considerable difficulty in recognizing the place of his former residence. He says that when he lived there the largest building was the county court house, but now it is so small compared with the skyscrapers, that one can scarcely locate it. With the exception of one family, all of his former friends have either died or moved away, and consequently Mr. Freeman did not enjoy his visit as much as he wished.

Mr. Freeman was ill with rheumatism while in St. Louis, and was confined to his bed for two weeks, and soon as he became able he decided to return to Pendleton. He will pay another visit to the Missouri metropolis next summer.

GWINN BUYS AN INTEREST.

Will Be Manager of the Pendleton Abstract Company.

James H. Gwinn has purchased an interest in the business of the Pendleton Abstract company and in the future will have the management of the same. In speaking this morning regarding the deal that has been made Mr. Gwinn admitted the fact. He says it will require several months' work on the part of the company to bring its books to date. When that is done he says they will have the most complete abstract business in this section, as the system used is the best there is.

According to Mr. Gwinn the company will move from its present quarters in the Taylor building to first floor office rooms on Main or Court streets.

At present the abstract business is being conducted by Charles J. Ferguson and he will still remain with the company. Charles W. Brownfield has sold his interest in the business.

Mr. Williams now owns 480 acres of land near Claresholm, in the midst of "the Oregon colony," and has taken an option on 640 more acres, sending $2300 for the purpose today. His family has never been in Alberta, remaining here for school advantages. It is probable that they will go to the province next spring.

GOVERNMENT ROAD COMPLETED.

Macadam, and Will Cost $3000 Per

Half Mile.

Work upon the sample piece of macadam road has now been finished and the three government men have left for other fields. The road as completed is a trifle less than a half mile in length and has been pronounced by those who have seen it to be most satisfactory.

According to the county commissioner, it is impossible to tell yet just what the total cost of the road will be. However, Commissioner Walker declares it will be in the vicinity of $3000, the estimated price.

Recommends Cello Canal.

Captain McKenzie, chief of the engineering department at Washington, estimates that $750,000 could be profitably expended on the Cello canal and additional expense of $10,000 on the Snake river above Riparia. If these amounts are judiciously spent on the improvements of these two rivers, the engineer says navigation will be possible from Lewiston, Idaho, to the Pacific ocean.
