of caving in. Should it commence to give way sacks of gravel will be used to protect the embankment. One thousand sacks are now in readiness for such use in case of necessity. During the day the Newport crew has been at work placing large rock along the base of the embankment.

At the lower end of the levee the water broke over the temporary bank that was thrown up yesterday and has flooded the camp and stables used by the Newport company. However, another earthen bank was thrown up this morning. It is farther back from the river and will prevent the water from backing up into the property at the lower end of Court street unless an unexpected rise should occur.

During the day the river has been practically stationary, the gauge at the Main street bridge reading seven feet six inches over normal morning.

Wild Horse Bridge Damaged.

An inspection of the bridge across the Umatilla above the hospital was made this morning by Engineer Avery. He found the bridge out of commission owing to the fact that some of the piling under the north approach had given way. The portion damaged is the same as that which washed out last spring and was repaired temporarily. The planking on the bridge is now sunken so as to be unsafe to cross even by people on foot.

STORY BY ROY E. NORTON.

Author Well Known in Pendleton Contributes Thrilling Cuban Story to January Cosmopolitan.

"The Eyes of Terror," a thrilling story of Cuba, in the January Cosmopolitan, is by Roy E. Norton, formerly connected with the Oregon Daily Journal and later associated with C. S. Jackson and W. W. McCarthy in the Golconda mine, and well known in Pendleton.

For the past year Mr. Norton has been in Cuba preparing a number of sketches and stories and this first result of his literary work there gives evidence of an art of a high order.

The story is well written, teeming with life and vigor and is above the average of the magazine stories of the day. For a number of years Mr. Norton has been a contributor to The Red Book and a lighter class of magazines, but this is his first entrance into the Cosmopolitan class.

WILFRED PERRY PAROLED.

Assistant Jail Breaker Subject to Penitentiary Service.

Wilfred Perry was this morning sentenced by Judge H. J. Bean to serve a year and a half in the penitentiary for aiding prisoners to escape, but was admitted to parole upon certain conditions. They are that during the future he remain in Wasco county, that he devote his time to assisting his parents, and that a $500 bond be given to insure the carrying out of the parole.

Perry is but 19 years of age, and while his crime was an aggravating one and wholly inexcusable, District Attorney Phelps did not wish to send him to the penitentiary this time, and so asked the court for the parole.
