

Tired Nervous Women Make Unhappy Homes

MRS. NELLIE MAKHAM

MRS. GEO. A. JAMES

A nervous irritable woman, often on the verge of hysterics, is a source of misery to everyone who comes under her influence, and unhappy and miserable herself.

Such women not only drive husbands from home but are wholly unfit to govern children.

The ill of women ask like a fire brand upon the nerves, consequently seven-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, the "blues", sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some organic derangement.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness alternating with extreme irritability? Do you suffer from pains in the abdominal region, backache, bearing-down pains, nervous dyspepsia, sleeplessness, and almost continually cross and snappy? If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous troubles of women than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

Mrs. Nellie Makham, of 151 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was a wreck from nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Women's Ills.

I suffered so I did not care what became of me, and my family despaired of my recovery. Physicians failed to help me. I was urged to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I want to tell you that it has entirely cured me. I think it is the finest medicine on earth and I am recommending it to all my friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Geo. A. James, a life long resident of Fredonia, N. Y., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was in a terribly run down condition and had nervous prostration caused by female trouble, in fact I had not been well since my children were born. This condition worked on my nerves and I was irritable and miserable. I had tried many remedies without getting much help but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me back to health and strength. It has also carried me safely through the Change of Life. I cannot too strongly recommend your medicine."

Mrs. Pinkham's invitation to women.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to communicate promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of her vast volume of experience in treating female ill Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

STOCK NOT SUFFERING, PROSPECT GOOD

Stockmen of the inland empire are not suffering from the shortage of feed which is causing hundreds of cattle to die on the snow-covered pastures of Idaho, according to the testimony of men now attending the convention of sheepmen and cattle men now being held in this city, says the Walla Walla Statesman.

Men from the Snake River country and those in the southern part of the Wenaha reserve in Oregon seem to be alike well provided with feed.

Also, the snow is not so deep, as a general thing in this section as it is in Idaho and the price of feed is far cheaper. It is seldom that hay costs over $10 a ton in southeastern Washington and northeastern Oregon, while in Idaho it is reported to be scarce at $25 a ton.

Mike Lynch, a cattleman, with headquarters near the Big Meadows up the Walla Walla river, says the stockmen are well prepared for the winter in that section as most of them expect to feed for several months.

"Our cattle are in fine condition and if the snow goes off in any reasonable time we will not be inconvenienced at all by it."

George McDonald, who lives near McKay, 17 miles southeast of Pendleton said:

"Feed is plentiful down our way. I bought all I wanted last fall at $6 a ton and think it could be purchased now at $8 a ton except in some places in which it might be scarce where it would bring $10. No, we do not expect to be troubled by the cold. The snow is only four inches deep down our way. Maybe a few old cows have died but that is all."

C. C. Jackson, who lives near Riparia in district No. 7 of the forest reserve, told of practically the same condition in the northern part. Jackson is not running much stock at present, but formerly ranged 12,000 sheep. He said:

"I think anybody could go out and buy 50 tons of hay and straw around that country any time now. There is practically no suffering, perhaps a few animals have died of old age but that is all. I think you can cut the reports from Idaho in two if you want to get at the truth of things there, too."

FOR RANGE LEASING

NATIONAL LIVESTOCK ASSOCIATION WILLING.

President Murdo McKenzie is in favor of leasing public domain to stockmen — Main Objection to Range Leasing Comes From Home-seekers—Coal and Oil Lands to Be Leased.

The following special correspondence from Washington to the Rocky Mountain News, concerning the range leasing question, will be interesting to Umatilla county stockmen. The correspondent says:

President Murdo McKenzie of the National Livestock Growers' association, has paid a quiet visit to Washington and sailed away from New York for a visit to Europe. He left behind him a few ideas about the leasing of portions of the public domain in the west for grazing purposes, which may or may not take root.

McKenzie and his association favor the leasing of grazing lands. So does President Roosevelt. McKenzie and the president had a talk about the proposition and came to a perfect agreement. McKenzie also talked with western congressmen and senators, but found most of them a long ways from being in accord with his views.

McKenzie's visit, in fact, served to bring out the fact that the western house members, at least, will vigorously fight any move of President Roosevelt to place the public lands under grazing rules. Their main objection is the fact that homesteaders will be immeasurably hampered in settling on virgin lands in the west if these lands are in the practical control of stock owners and their herds, with water holes guarded and thousands of cattle grazing on the expanse.

True, these stockmen, under the proposed grazing rules, would be required to vacate in favor of the homesteader, but there would be endless delay and trouble, nevertheless, which no homesteader could afford to suffer.

President's Course Offensive.

The expressed willingness of President Roosevelt to add additional burdens to the western people in the way of hampering the settlement of public lands has aroused a spirit of resentment among the lawmakers that may result in a general outcry against the whole system of executive blanketing of western public lands by forest reserves, coal and oil entry withdrawal.

A general rumble of discontent from the west is already beginning to be felt here in Washington. A number of counties in Colorado, Wyoming and Montana are already so plastered with forest reserves that their chances of obtaining income through lands becoming taxable through patent is very small, and many of these commonwealths are actually suffering for need of such taxes. The forest reserves and the withdrawn lands are a heavy burden for these counties.

Revolution Brewing.

Whether the president is preparing to put the grazing rules on the opening of public lands into force through executive order, as he has done with the grazing in forest reserves, is hard to predict, but should he do so it is very certain that he will precipitate a big revolution against his whole course in this respect.

Congress will be heard from in strenuous style and there may result an abrogation of even such of the forest reserve regulations as at present time seem to be beneficial, and the complete readjustment of the public land administration in the west.

After a stormy debate the senate committee today agreed to recommend an amendment repealing the timber and stone act. The house committee will report a bill in which some form of a leasing arrangement for coal and oil lands will be provided. From present indications neither of these measures will pass at this session.

Neighbors Got Fooled.

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become too weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Unepaper, of Grovetown, Stark Co., Ind. This King of cough and cold cures, and healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed by Tallman & Co., druggists, 50c and $1.00 bottles. Trial bottle free.

Offered $3000 for Peach Tree.

M. Cale, north of Yakima, Wash., has a freak in the way of a peach tree that may be the means of bringing him a fortune. It is understood that he has been offered $15,000 for his place on account of this fruit and that he had already refused $3000 for one tree, says the Republic. The variety of the peach is not known but it is a new one entirely, which came as the result of pollinating a peach with the flavor of an apricot. The fruit grown on this tree is said to be sweet. The fruit ripens and is gone by June 1. Mr. Cale got the fruit in a shipment of peach trees and from one plant he has budded other trees.

Cor. Main and Court Streets.

Pendleton, Ore.

According to a Grangeville special to the Spokesman-Review, stock ranges in the Salmon and Snake river regions are having hard times now. The report says: The sides of the canyons are so slippery that if the cattle slip they never stop until they reach the bottom. A large number have died in this way and the skinners are taking off the hides. Every canyon has a small bunch of cattle which have been killed in this way. The snow is packed so hard by the wind and frost that feed is difficult to procure, and the quantity of hay put up is not sufficient to feed the stock. The ranchers are busy caring for the young lambs, but on account of the cold winds many are being lost. It is 23 years ago since similar conditions prevailed in this country.
