By the terms of a deed filed for record here today the immense Hunt ranch near Foster, together with the Henrietta mills of Echo, are transferred from J. Frank Watson to Frank Donnelly of Chicago. ## CIRCUS TOMORROW.

Sells-Floto Shows Coming to the City June 1.

The great Sells-Floto shows will be here tomorrow for the usual two exhibitions, rain or shine. A grand free open-den pageant will parade the principal streets in the morning and its gorgeous beauty and cleanliness denotes the prosperity of this famous show, giving ample evidence that a praiseworthy program will follow in the big tents.

The program at both the afternoon and night exhibitions commences with the performing elephants.

From the time the elephants come into the arena until the two hours' performance has been concluded there will be one continuous whirl of exciting feats. There will be something new in bareback riding, in swinging trapeze, in tight and slack rope walking, in contortion, in tumbling, in horizontal bar work, in the swinging rings and on the swinging pole, in bicycle riding and roller skating--in fact, in everything that goes to make up an entertaining circus performance.

One of the most spectacular of the feats given by the Sells-Floto shows is that performed by Herr Schmidt and William Hoye. Mr. Hoye, who is an expert bicyclist, mounts into a big frame basket and rides around its steep sides while the whole weight is balanced at arms length by Herr Schmidt. It is a remarkable display of daring and strength. Mathematicians have figured that Herr Schmidt sustains a weight of 3600 pounds when the bicyclist above his head goes whirling up and down the sides of the 12 to 15-foot whirl-way.

This is only one of the remarkable things you will see under the Sells-Floto tents. There are many others. Among them are the iron-jawed Tybell sisters, who sustain themselves and other great weights with their teeth; the Petter family, two brothers and three sisters, who perform a series of sensational gymnastics; Herbert, the human frog, one of the greatest contortionists of the present day; the four Oliviers, eccentric comedians, who do all sorts of queer things such as playing man upside down, three heads in two, shooting the clown out of a cannon and other laughable things.

Then there are the trick riders and Madamolselle Althea, the marvelous slack wire walker, not to mention the trained donkeys, dogs, pigs, geese, etc.

LABORER ASSAULTED.

Stranger from Portland Beaten Up at Railroad Station.

B. F. McGee, a foreman for the Pacific Coast Construction company, was tried in the police court this morning for having helped in an attack on a laborer at the O. R. & N. depot about 5 o'clock last evening. "The man assaulted had been sent up here from Portland to go to work for the construction company and while at the depot with McGee, Riley, another foreman, and a crowd of workmen, he says he was jumped upon and badly beaten last evening. Among other things he says his assailants desired to tear his right eye out and his eye shows some evidence of such treatment.

Following the fight last night, Riley was arrested, but was released by the police after having given $10 bail which he forfeited by not appearing this morning. However, McGee was on hand, and was defended by Roy Riley, while City Attorney McCourt prosecuted him. At the conclusion of the case Judge Fitz Gerald took the case under advisement.

JUDGE HAILEY WILL HELP.

Arguments on Sheep Quarantine Law in Portland Tomorrow.

To assist them in resisting the legal fight that is being made against the Oregon sheep law by the wool growers of Washington, the sheepmen of this state have retained Judge T. G. Hailey of Portland. With the assistance of Attorney Dan P. Smythe of this city Judge Hailey will argue Saturday against the granting of the temporary injunction sought by the Washington men.

From all indications a hard fought legal battle is now to be waged over the sheep law and tomorrow the first round will be fought out before Judge Wolverson. The Washington men are said to have raised a large fund and are preparing to do everything possible to knock out the quarantine law.

GLADYS RAHE QUEEN OF THE CARNIVAL

Miss Gladys Rahe, daughter of William Rahe, was last night chosen to be queen of the Eagles carnival, and she will be crowned at the carnival tonight.

Though the balloting for queen of the carnival was scheduled to close at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, it was not brought to a finish until late in the evening and after it had been somewhat exciting. After 8 o'clock last evening the balloting was carried on at the carnival grounds. When the voting was closed and the ballots counted, the final result was found to be as follows:

Gladys Rahe	11,791
Freda Eggerth	10,030
Effie Parkes	7,945
Ruby Siebert	4,831
Irene Lynde	774
Hazel Wyrick	703
Frances Osborne	468

The six girls receiving the next highest numbers of votes have been asked to serve as maids of honor to the queen and each will be allowed to select a page.

The crowning of the queen will take place in the pavilion tonight.

Last night the carnival was gain well attended. Many came early with the expectation of hearing Miss Lawler sing at 8 o'clock as announced yesterday by the carnival management. However it was 9:30 before she came upon the program.

Miss Lawler Is Appreciated.

The vocal selections by Miss Kathleen Lawler, who sings each afternoon and evening at the Eagles' carnival are highly appreciated by Pendleton people. Miss Lawler's enunciation is exceptionally good and her voice clear and sweet although she sings under many disadvantages in the pavilion, where there are so many confusing noises at all times.

Miss Lawler will sing this afternoon at 4:30 and tonight at 9:30, in the pavilion.

Inland Empire Wheat Markets.

Seventy-three cents a bushel for red wheat was the price quoted at Pullman, Wash., May 28. No wheat is selling because there is none to sell, but the price offered shows the strength of the market. Red wheat is always quoted several cents below club and bluestem, and the price given above is the lowest offered there.

With wheat soaring about 75 cents a bushel and the prospects for at least an average yield of spring wheat and the biggest yield of winter wheat this section has ever produced, the farmers of the Palouse country have just cause for optimism, which prevails to a large extent among all classes in the Palouse country.

It is rumored that offers to contract the new crop at 65 cents a bushel are being made. The Spokesman-Review correspondent tried to trace this rumor to its foundation, but has failed to find any one here who is offering that or any price for the new crop, although all express confidence that the new crop will start off at from 60 to 70 cents a bushel.

Local dealers say that wheat is being contracted at Lewiston for 65 cents a bushel, and that three crops were contracted at Albion some time ago for 60 cents. These were bluestem and forty-fold wheat, the two highest priced varieties in this section, but it is said that the farmers who contracted have withdrawn their contract with the consent of the manager of the farmers' warehouse, which bought the grain.
