240 HARVESTERS IN USE THIS YEAR

UMATILLA COUNTY LEADS WITH COMBINED HARVESTERS

E. L. Smith Has Sold 32 Holt Machines This Year and Sold 30 Last Year—Total of Over 200 Holt Machines in the County and About 35 Other Machines—Total Investment in Combined Harvesters and Outfits in the County Is $1,176,000.

When the wheat harvest opens in Umatilla county this year, at least 240 combined harvesters will be in operation in the county.

E. L. Smith, the well known implement man of this city, has sold 32 Holt combined harvesters this season and there are now a total of over 200 Holt machines in the county as well as about 35 other kinds of machines.

Last year Mr. Smith sold 30 new Holt machines in the county besides several second-hand machines, but the sales of new machines this year exceed the sales of any previous year.

Most of the machines sold by Mr. Smith this season have been 16-foot machines which are pulled by 26 horses and will cut on an average of 200 acres per week or 33 1-3 acres per day. They cost on an average of $1500 each.

A new 14-foot and several 20-foot machines have been sold by Mr. Smith, but the majority of the sales have been 16-foot machines, which are adapted to all kinds of ground and which can be handled successfully in the foothills and over uneven ground found in many places in the wheat belt.

Mr. Smith said to the East Oregonian today that every effort is being made by the Holt harvester people to discover some satisfactory power for their combined harvesters. In order to do away with horse power. Horses are becoming so valuable and the work is so heavy on them that farmers desire steam or gasoline engine power to replace horse power.

A gasoline engine machine was tested near Walla Walla last year and further tests will be made this season. However, Mr. Smith believes that the most satisfactory substitute for horse power will be the turbine engine, which is now coming into general use. There is no oscillation to the turbine and it can be attached to the harvester more easily than a rotating engine and he looks for it to be adopted as a harvester power some time.

The machines sold this year in this county have been delivered at Helix, Athena, Adams, Pendleton and other points and he finds that many stationary threshing outfits will not be used this season at all. They will be replaced by combined harvesters in many instances.

With horses valued at about $100 per head and the combined harvester at $1800 it is seen that a large investment is required for each machine used. Twenty-six horses at $100 each, $2600; one machine at $1800; 26 sets of harness, $5.00; total, $4900 investment for each machine used. With 240 machines in use in Umatilla county it is seen that the amount invested in combined harvester outfits alone, to say nothing of other methods of harvesting, is $1,176,000.

JOKE ON JUDGE FEE.

Juror "Played Deaf" and Was Excused From Duty.

The La Grande Observer tells the following joke perpetrated by a Union county farmer on Mayor James A. Fee of this city, who was at the time circuit judge:

D. H. McWalters, who is attending this term of the circuit court as a juror, related a rather amusing incident in years gone by, when Judge James A. Fee, who is now mayor of Pendleton, was on the bench and was holding a term of court in Union. It was during the spring time, and nearly all of the farmers tried to get excused. In fact, they could not really afford to remain two or three weeks away from their homes.

Freeman Ladd was one of the ju-

Blue Mountain Ranch Sold. The Blue Mountain ranch, on Butter creek, a short distance from Echo, has been disposed of by the company formerly owning it to Cyrus F. Clapp, of Seattle. Today a deed transferring the ranch to Mr. Clapp was filed for record at the court house. The consideration named in the deed is $1, but in addition a $15,000 mortgage held by Lev Ankeny is assumed by the purchaser. The Blue Mountain ranch was formerly owned by Libby McBee, and was sold by him to a company of which George H. Stevenson was the president and H. F. Connors, attorney for the O. R. & N. company, was the secretary.

Mr. Ladd walked up to the court and notified Judge Fee that he would like to be excused. His honor asked Mr. Ladd upon what grounds he desired to be excused. Mr. Ladd turned his head to one side and asked the court, "How is that?" The court repeated his desire to know why Mr. Ladd wished to be excused. The second time Mr. Ladd turned his other ear to the court and asked him to repeat the question a little louder.

The court took in a deep breath and raised his deep voice to the point where the prisoners in the jail awaiting sentence, became alarmed, but not sufficient to daze Mr. Ladd. In the least, who for the third time placed his hand behind his ear and remarked: "Judge, you will have to talk a little louder." Without further injury Judge Fee turned to the clerk and ordered him to excuse Mr. Ladd.

Mr. Ladd lost no time in returning to his home, and the joke was so good that the few in the court room at the time did not have the nerve to inform the court how easily he might have cured Mr. Ladd's deafness, and this is the first time it has ever been given out.

SHEEP OVER THE LINE.

Washington Sheepmen Will Pay Fines and Come to Oregon.

Dr. W. H. Lytle, state sheep inspector, left this afternoon for Milton for the purpose of performing duties pertaining to his position. The Oregon sheepmen who have been using the Oregon portion of the Wenaha reserve for grazing purposes are now starting their bands towards the summer ranges. Two different bands have already been brought across the state line and another grower has served notice that he will cross in the near future.

The sheepmen who have crossed thus far have refused to dip their sheep in accordance with the quarantine proclamation of the governor. Instead, they have expressed themselves as preferring to pay the fines that may be imposed upon them for violations of the quarantine provisions. Under the law anyone violating any of the provisions becomes subject to a fine of from $250 to $1000 and is liable for damages in case Oregon sheep become infected through the outside flocks.

Up to this time Judge Wolverton has not passed upon the application of the Washington men for an injunction to prohibit the sheep commission from enforcing the law at this time.

Will Prosecute Offenders. This afternoon complaints were made out before District Attorney Phelps against the Washington men who have infringed upon the law, and they will be arrested at once. It is evidently the intention of the sheep commission to enforce the law to the letter, and in consequence the Washington growers will have to answer for their conduct in the circuit court.

Indian Camp Meeting. Rev. J. M. Cornelson, Presbyterian missionary on the Umatilla reservation, is planning for a 10-day camp meeting some time in July either at the mission church on the Tutuilla, or on the Umatilla river, where it may suit his Indian congregation better, and to this end is issuing a circular letter to people who are interested in the welfare of the Indian asking them to co-operate with him in the work. The recent evangelistic meetings at the mission were very successful and it is hoped to continue the work by holding a summer camp meeting.

Judge Lowell Orator. Judge Stephen A. Lowell has accepted the invitation of the Portland Fourth of July celebration committee to deliver the oration at the Rose City on the Fourth. Portland is making preparations for a rousing celebration and has raised a large fund for the purpose.

Will Kennedy Recovering. Reports come from Portland that Will Kennedy, who was injured Sunday, while on his run as brakeman between here and Huntington, is much improved, and that he is now able to be up and around. It is believed that he will be able to return to Pendleton in a few days' time.

Coleman Is Re-elected. Rev. John H. Coleman, president of Willamette university who took part in the dedicatory exercises of the new M. E. church in this city on June 2, has just been unanimously re-elected as president of the university for the ensuing year.

George Duckitt, of Blackburning, Wash., was run over and killed by a Northern Pacific train at Seattle.

FACTORY INSPECTOR

WILL EXAMINE THE LOCAL MANUFACTURING PLANTS

Deputy Trumbull's Duties are More Especially to Look After Safeguarding of Employees Who Handle Dangerous Machinery—His Field is Eastern Oregon—Owners of Plants in Most Instances Willing to Comply With the Law—List of Twenty Local Manufacturers.

E. D. Trumbull, deputy labor commissioner and factory inspector for eastern Oregon, has been in the city today for the purpose of investigating conditions at the various manufacturing plants in this city. He expects to be here for two or three days, during which time he will go very fully into the existing factory conditions. He is not here for the purpose of investigating any complaints made against local plants, but instead is merely making the annual inspection for the labor commissioner.

In inspecting the various factories and other establishments coming under his supervision Mr. Trumbull has to do solely with the safety of the employee. He sees that proper safety appliances are in use, and in general that the conditions are in conformity with the laws upon the subject. But little difficulty is ever experienced with owners of plants, as it has been demonstrated that the inspection is beneficial to the employer as well as to the employee. In the state of Washington, where a similar inspection is made annually, the percentage of accidents has been decreased one-half as a result of the visits of the inspectors.

Mr. Trumbull, the deputy now here, is a resident of Baker City and before his appointment was manager of a planing mill near that city. As deputy commissioner he has headquarters at La Grande.

The following is the list of the 20 local establishments subject to inspection:

- John Gagen, bottling works; O. R. & N. round house, F. P. Rounds, foreman; Jacob Marin, bottling works; Pendleton woolen mills; city brewery, Blue Mountain Creamery company, Northwestern Gas & Electric company, C. F. Colesworth's feed mill, Pendleton roller mills, Fred Walters' roller mills, Pendleton iron works, Pendleton Ice & Cold Storage company, Troy laundry, Domestic laundry, Pacific Coast Elevator company, Puget Sound Warehouse company, Northwest Warehouse company; Pendleton water works, Pendleton wool scouring and packing company, Pendleton planing mill.

EXERCISES WELL ATTENDED.

Eagles' Hall Well Filled Last Night for the Graduating Program of St. Joseph's Academy.

One of the best graduating addresses ever delivered in the city was given by Bishop C. J. O'Reilly of Baker City last evening, in the graduating exercises of St. Joseph's academy, which were held at Eagles' hall.

The hall was well filled by an appreciative audience and the program arranged by the Sisters of St. Francis was well rendered. Two graduates, Miss Georgia Thayer and Miss Alvina Reiden, received diplomas from Bishop O'Reilly, who made the presentation to the young ladies. The popularity and high esteem in which St. Joseph's academy is held in the community was illustrated in large audience of representative people of the city which greeted the closing exercises of the school year. The Sisters of St. Francis are delighted with the appreciation shown them and will do everything to merit the high esteem in which the institution is held.

The fire department and police department of Spokane ask for increases in pay which will aggregate $30,000 per year.

Skunk Killed 63 Chickens. A large skunk last night broke into the hen house belonging to Rev. J. M. Cornelson at the Presbyterian mission on the reservation, and killed 63 young chickens which were almost ready for the market. Only two or three of the chickens had been eaten by the animal, the remainder having been bitten through the head and left scattered in the yard. The skunk became entangled in a wire fence in getting out and was shot this morning by Rev. Cornelson.
