Teddy surely is a big factor in national politics. This because of his broad-mindedness and great popularity.

Speaking about popularity, when it comes to men's furnishings and modern clothing—clothing that in style keeps pace with the tick of the clock and is worn by nearly all you meet on the street, then BOND BROS., Pendleton's leading clothiers—the store that does the business—stands side by side with Teddy. MILITIA MAY LOSE AID.

Falling Off in Numbers Will Take Away Federal Funds.

Colorado may not have any pecuniary aid from the federal government for its national guard after six more months, says the Denver News. This seems implied by an order from the federal government received by Governor Buchtel, which is, in its general character, the same as has been sent to all chief executives of states.

The militia must be up to army regulations, under the Dick bill, if it is to receive any such aid. At present the Colorado national guard is materially aided by moneys paid over to the state by the federal government.

On the subject in hand, the orders from Washington received by Governor Buchtel say:

The new law will have a far-reaching effect upon the national guard of the country, for in few states do the organizations at present correspond with those of the regular service. The most important change required probably will be in the great increase in the number of men in companies and regiments, for it is a fact that in many states, so-called regiments of militia, instead of being 1200 strong, as they should be to meet modern service demands, number scarcely more than a battalion, or 300 men, and skeleton companies are everywhere in evidence.

FUEL FAMINE SURE

DEALERS CANNOT GET FUEL URGENT ORDERS

Managers of Washington Mines Urge People to Buy Their Supply Early—Railroads Are Short and Cars Cannot be Secured for the Delivery of Coal—Famine Threatens the Entire Northwest.

Not only in Pendleton and eastern Oregon, but all over the northwest, are there almost certain signs of a severe fuel famine. Fuel dealers all over the country are having difficulty in securing coal now and in many places they will accept no more orders whatever.

The Walla Walla Union says of conditions in that city: "That Walla Walla as well as every city and town in this section of the state is liable to a repetition of a fuel shortage during the coming winter is a certainty. The management of the mines that supply the northwest with coal are urging the newspapers to take the matter of supply and demand up and lay the facts before the public.

C. R. Claghorn, manager of the Northwestern Improvement company, who operates mines that supplied the larger portion of coal to the retail dealers of southeastern Washington during 1907, in a letter to Loney & company of this city says: "There is every indication that the demand for coal this winter will far exceed the available supply and dealers should vigorously take up the question of the requirements and endeavor to be prepared to cope with such an emergency.

"For your own benefit and the benefit of the consumer we suggest that you take the matter up with the leading papers of your city, urging all who are concerned to put in their winter's supply early in the season and avoid a repetition of the unprecedented conditions of last winter."

This statement summarizes the condition and comes from a disinterested source. The Northwestern Improvement company has contracted with the Northern Pacific railway for their entire output of 4000 to 6000 tons a day and will not under any circumstances be in a position to supply any part of the domestic demand.

Local dealers are generally laying in supplies that will be sufficient for the demands. The mines have made practically no concessions on prices this year, nor are they soliciting any summer business where every summer heretofore they have had men in the field soliciting orders.

Most of the mines are operating at full capacity and are booked with orders that will take care of their output up to July 31 at least, and many of the mines are not accepting orders for summer delivery.

Why public institutions and concerns that require a large tonnage of fuel to tide them over the winter, are looking on the conditions with such apparent indifference, albeit many are still shivering from the effects of last winter's shortage, is a problem that is perplexing the dealers.

"DOPE FIENDS" PLENTIFUL.

Walla Walla People Demand That Sale of Drugs be Stopped.

A correspondent residing in Walla Walla and writing to the Union of that city, makes the startling statement that the use of "dope" in that city has reached alarming proportions. He says in his communication:

"Now that the Union has stirred up the 'dope' question there can be no hard feelings if the city authorities step in and put a stop to the traffic. Not in behalf of the soldiers who have acquired the habit, but on account of the number of boys and young men of the city who have, and are rapidly going to its worst stages.

For the past six or seven months the dope habit has increased in the city at an alarming rate. Cocaine

("flake") has been liberally dispensed by a certain drug store; while almost any other form of dope desired has been peddled by inmates of a certain lodging house, who use a certain amount of it in their profession.

The soldier is a very small percentage of the number of people affected by the promiscuous dispensation of this poison and is much better able to take care of himself than the average boy or young man of the city; but it remained for a soldier to make the investigation and complaint to the police.

Cocaine is the principal drug used and could be easily obtained by anyone who had the password and the twenty-five cents, as was evidenced by one of the "dopes" who volunteered to purchase it for anyone who desired it.
