GREELY IN COMMAND.

Department of the Columbia in Charge of New Officer.

Dressed in civilian clothes, refusing to discuss the probability of war with Japan, and in the best of health, General A. W. Greely, the new commander of the department of the Columbia, arrived in Portland last night and left this morning for Vancouver barracks, where he assumed command today, says the Oregon Daily Journal of Tuesday.

General Greely was accompanied by Mrs. Greely, Miss Gertrude Greely, Major W. H. Sage, the new adjutant of the Fourth infantry, and Lieutenant E. D. Warfield, aide to General Greely.

General Greely has changed but little in appearance since his last visit to Portland and still wears the long flowing whiskers that, added to his tall figure, make him a conspicuous figure in any gathering. He has lost little of the energy and vitality that characterized his actions in building the telegraph line through Alaska and later made him a prominent figure in the scenes that followed the earthquake and fire at San Francisco.

When asked whether he cared to discuss the Japanese situation, General Greely smiled and said nothing could be further from his thoughts. He said he knew of no changes to be made at Vancouver and intimated that he knew of nothing else that would be of public interest.

BOISE PIONEER DEAD.

Peter Sonna, Formerly Freight Through Umatilla County.

Peter Sonna, Boise's leading citizen, was stricken with apoplexy (cerebral hemorrhage) at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, which caused his death a few moments later, says the Boise Capital News. There was no warning of the attack and the family is prostrated, while nearly every resident of the city, upon learning the unexpected news, felt the shock keenly.

Peter Sonna was born November 22, 1835, in New York city. He came west when a young man and settled first in California. Later he went to Oregon and in 1862 he located at the then bustling city of Bannock, now known as Idaho City. Here he opened a blacksmith shop and went into partnership with John Armstrong in the freighting business. They established a line to Umatilla and did a large business.

In 1865 both Mr. Sonna and his partner moved to Boise and continued a freighting business, while Mr. Sonna built and operated a blacksmith shop on the rear of the lot where the Capital State bank now stands. On the front he ran a store in partnership with Mr. Schnabel.

ROADS CLOSED TO AUTOS.

Automobiles Barred From Napa County Roads.

The board of road supervisors of Napa county, California, have made an order which closes the roads of that county to automobiles, and there is considerable fierceness by the latter over the condition which confronts them. Their utter disregard for the rights of teamsters brought about this action of the board which may be a little too sweeping; but it will work out all right in the end, no doubt.

A California paper in commenting on the board's action, says: The ordinance is a foolish one in its sweeping character. The automobile has come to stay, and provision must be made for it everywhere where it is safe to permit it. It should not be allowed on narrow and dangerous mountain roads, however, and automobilists are foolish to ask for that.

Owners of automobiles have themselves to blame for such an unfair ordinance as that of Napa county. Only too many of them are insolent, haughty, arrogant, with absolutely not the slightest regard for the rights and the safety of others. Most of them need drastic lessons and should be taught them. But even that fact does not justify the sweeping Napa county ordinance.

Little by little the automobilists will display more common sense, less of a disposition to act as though they reckoned their own sweet pleasure as the only thing to be considered, and then they will find the "farmers" and "hayseeds" will treat them more fairly and generously.

As it is they certainly work overtime to create the feeling of hatred which undoubtedly greets them on every country road.

O. R. & N. PROMOTIONS.

Wm. Gleason of The Dalles, Is Now Assistant Superintendent.

The Dalles Chronicle says of a change of O. R. & N. officials at that place:

Last night not only railroad circles, but the community lost one of the most popular men who has made his home here for some time, William Gleason, who has been chief dispatcher since the O. R. & N. established its office in The Dalles. Mr. Gleason has received a deserved promotion to the office of assistant superintendent of the Washington division, comprising 700 miles.

For a time his headquarters will be at Starbuck and later at Spokane. The Dalles dislikes to lose him, but like ministers (and yet unlike them) railroad men are here today and gone tomorrow.

Mr. Gleason is succeeded by F. F. Spaulding, who is thoroughly competent and trustworthy and no doubt will fill the office most satisfactorily. He has been connected with The Dalles office the same length of time as Mr. Gleason.

CHEAPER LUMBER.

Mayor of Aberdeen Says High Prices Cannot Continue.

An encouraging interview for those who hope to build homes soon, has just been given the press by Mayor France of Aberdeen, Wash., on this subject. An Aberdeen dispatch says:

Mayor France, who is an extensive timber holder and who is also interested in the mill business, in referring to the lumber outlook, said he was not surprised that there had been a slump in the lumber market.

"Prices have been so high that the majority of people have run out of money paying the high rates. I do not regard the situation as serious, but we will have lower prices and a return to a proper basis.

"It will be the same in other commodities as in lumber. The trusts have crowded out everything, and what will be the end of it all of course no one can foresee, but I have faith in the man at the head of the government itself, and I do not believe we are going to have a panic at all events. These changes occur at certain intervals and we must expect them, especially after everything has been crowded to the highest notch."

Furniture for Sale.
