NEW HARNESS STITCHER.

Hamley Installs Only Stitcher Between Ogden and Portland Today.

J. J. Hamley, the well known harness and saddlemaster of this city today installed an electric stitching machine, the only one of its kind between Ogden and Portland and the only one in Oregon outside of Portland.

It is a Campbell lock stitch sewing machine and is used in new work and repairs to harness and will do the work of 50 men in a day when operated constantly. These machines are used only in large manufacturing plants, but are being slowly introduced into the west. Mr. Hamley is always at the head of his business and is the first to order one in this section of the country.

The best feature of the Campbell machine is that its needle is only half the size of other stitchers and does not weaken the leather by punching large holes. The small holes made by this machine are filled up with wax thread and as long as there is a portion of the stitch left in the leather it cannot be unraveled.

The machine will sew from a single strap of leather to one inch in thickness and makes Mr. Hamley's large establishment complete. A. L. Wagner of the San Francisco house of the Campbell-Bosworth Machine company, is in the city for the purpose of setting up the machine and placing it in operation and today put it in position in the work room of Mr. Hamley's harness and saddle shop.

MRS. H. L. SWAGGART DEAD.

Death Followed Operation for Abscess in the Side—Survived by Husband and Two Small Children.

Mrs. H. L. Swaggart, wife of Lester Swaggart, member of the well known pioneer family of Umatilla county, died at 10:15 last night at St. Anthony's hospital following an operation for an abscess in her side last Thursday morning. She had been ailing for some time and this week it was decided to take her to the hospital for an operation which resulted fatally.

Mrs. Swaggart was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Witt, who reside near this city, and was born near Kansas City, Kan., 26 years ago. She came to Eugene with her parents when but a small child and was married to Lester Swaggart at that place in 1895. She is survived by her husband and two small daughters aged 5 and 7, besides her parents and two brothers and one sister, who reside near Pendleton.

The funeral will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at Baker & Folson's undertaking parlors by Rev. H. S. Shangle of the M. E. church, south, and interment will take place in Olney cemetery.

SHEEP DEVELOPMENTS.

Eastern Oregon Sheep King Interviewed in Portland.

The Oregon Daily Journal says: William Wurzwiler, the sheep king of eastern Oregon, is at the Imperial hotel, where he told of the wonderful development of his section of the state. Mr. Wurzwiler is from Prineville, but has just returned from a visit through several of the wheat belts of eastern Oregon.

"Never before," he said, "have I seen the crops in such splendid shape as they are this year. Every place I visited the wheat was standing high and nearly ready to cut. The yield will be enormous and it seems now as if nothing will arise to blast the hopes of the ranchers. Prices are good and we will have a prosperous era following the harvest.

"Little need be said of the sheep industry. It is in good shape and the sheepmen have their flocks out for summer grazing on the ranges. Nearly every sheepman in the state made money this year."

Mr. Wurzwiler is in Portland on his periodical business trip and will remain in the city several days.

TIES FOR PILOT ROCK BRANCH.

Work of Laying Track Will Begin on Umatilla Central Railway Soon.

Conductor Harned of the mountain division of the O. R. & N., has been engaged in distributing ties from a work train for the first section of the Umatilla Central railway track near the junction with the main line of the O. R. & N. two miles west of the city today. This is the first actual work preparatory to laying track that has been done.

Many People at Bingham Springs.

Reports come from Bingham Springs that many people are now there from Portland, Walla Walla, Weston and many of the Umatilla county towns. The springs are taking on the old-time appearance under the new management, James Cornfield and son. The hotel and sanatorium are up to their capacity, and rooms have to be ordered in advance. Large catches of fish are being made.

Train Delayed at Umatilla.

No. 6, the eastbound O. R. & N. train due here at 4 o'clock this morning, did not arrive until 9 o'clock, owing to a delay at Umatilla waiting for the mail and passengers from No. 3, the Spokane train.
