D. C. KNOWLTON WAS FINED $40

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND CARRYING WEAPONS

Liveryman Provoked Quarrel With Al Richardson, Porter at Hotel St. George, and After Being Knocked Down and His Gun Taken From Him He Received Some Terrible Roasting From Attorneys in Police Court—Fined $20 Each on Two Charges.

That a man should not speak insultingly of another man's wife, even if she be a colored woman, was shown very forcibly in the police court this morning. D. C. Knowlton had done so to Al Richardson, bootblack at the Hotel St. George.

He was knocked down upon the spot, a gun taken from him and later when the case was aired in court the white man was fined a total of $40, while the colored one went free upon the payment of one dollar.

For bitterness of feeling and hard accusations the above case was the most remarkable heard in the local court for many months. Testifying in his own behalf Richardson said Knowlton has come to him several times with stories of his (Richardson's) wife's unfaithfulness. On the first two occasions he had paid little attention to the man. This morning he came for the third time with a similar story.

In the course of the altercation Knowlton called the bootblack's wife a liar and applied another term, which, with most men, whether white or black, means war. "I was crazy then and lit onto him," said Richardson in explaining the matter.

According to the colored man, Knowlton struck at him with his left hand at the same time and just as he did so he had noticed a gun in the white man's pocket. After he had thrown Knowlton down the gun was taken from the latter by the Italian boy who drives the St. George bus. Otto Turner, who had seen the fight from his room in the East Oregonian building, said that just before the fight Richardson had started to walk away. Something was said by Knowlton and the colored man turned on him.

The young bus driver was also called as a witness, while another man, who said he hailed from New York, was called in behalf of Knowlton. However, his testimony was of little consequence as he contradicted himself and admitted he was in front of the Senate saloon at the time, which was some distance from the fight.

Will M. Peterson defended Richardson, and in a brief, but ringing appeal for his client handed forth a vitriolic roast for Knowlton. That

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which, despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere, seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A lot of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart. You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1.00. A. C. Koeppen & Bros.

the white man richly deserved his punishment and that he should be run out of town were some of his milder declarations.

Likewise, City Attorney McCourt was unsparing in his denunciation of Knowlton, classing him as a very "undesirable citizen" and recommending that he be heavily fined and also charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

After a moment's hesitation Judge Fitz Gerald imposed a one dollar fine upon the colored man and fined Knowlton $20 for provoking the assault and the same amount for carrying a concealed weapon, or a total of $40.

MRS. ANNA KIRK DEAD.

Athena Pioneer Woman Died in California.

Mrs. Anna Kirk, a well known pioneer woman of Athena, died this week in Pacific Grove, Cal., and the remains will be shipped to Athena for burial. Mrs. Kirk had been in ill health for many months and her death was not unexpected.

She was born at Peoria, Ill. in 1839 and came with her parents to Brownsville, Ore., at the age of 12, where she spent her early life. In 1860 she was married to T. J. Kirk, the well known citizen of Athena, and soon after came to eastern Oregon, where she resided until after being divorced from Mr. Kirk, when she went to California to reside.

She was the mother of nine children, three of whom survive her, as follows: Mrs. Alice Ackles of La Grande; Mrs. Edward Koontz of Athena, and Miss Anna Kirk of Pacific Grove, Cal.

BRANCH STATION ALMOST CERTAIN

STATE REGENTS TO LOOK OVER HERMISTON SITE

Government Will Set Aside Land for Experiment Station on Umatilla Irrigation Project, But the State Must Provide Expenses From Its Experiment Station Funds—Dr. C. J. Smith Receives Letter From President of Board of Regents, Promising Early Action in the Matter.

Whether or not a branch experiment station will be established at Hermiston now seems to rest with the board of regents of the agricultural college, and those gentlemen will be here shortly for the purpose of investigating the matter. It will then be up to he people of the irrigation section and of the county to show the necessity for the branch station.

For many months past State Senator C. J. Smith has been at work upon the proposition of an experiment station at Hermiston and Senator Bourne has been handling the matter at Washington. According to Senator Smith the federal government is willing to provide the site for the station and will likewise provide seeds for the station.

However, it seems to be the rule to require the operating expenses of branch stations paid from the funds given the state experimental stations. The sum of $30,000 annually is now given to the experiment station at the agricultural college. Of this amount it is hoped to secure several thousand dollars per year for the maintenance of the Hermiston station, should that sum be needed.

Hon. J. K. Weatherford, president of the board of regents of the Oregon Agricultural college, has written Senator Smith saying that the regents will shortly be in eastern Oregon for the purpose of visiting the branch station at Union.

While passing through they have offered to stop off here for the purpose of looking over the field at Hermiston. When that time comes Senator Smith hopes to have a representative party accompany the regents to Hermiston for the purpose of showing them the need of the branch station.

ORIENTALS MUST GO.

Portland, Sept. 21.—Fear is felt in Portland for the proposed great demonstration against oriental labor planned for Portland soon by the Federated Trades council. It is the plan to make the demonstration the greatest on the coast and to call in speakers of national fame. "The time for definite action against Japanese, Hindus and Chinese has come," declared Secretary P. McDonald, amid the cheers of great crowds last night.

SAYS CHEAP LABOR.

President of Grand Trunk Pacific in Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 21.—Charles Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific, who is visiting in Vancouver, declared this morning that the railroads of Canada must have cheap labor and that the Grand Trunk would employ any immigrants admitted by the government. This is construed as a demand for oriental help.

IRRIGATION UNDER CAMERA

GOVERNMENT PHOTOGRAPHS THE UMATILLA PROJECT

Walter Lubken, Formerly of Pendleton, Is Now Official Photographer for the Reclamation Department—For the Past Week He Has Been Engaged in Making Official Pictures of the Work in Progress at Hermiston.

Hermiston, Sept. 21.—Walter Lubken, formerly of Pendleton, now official photographer to the U. S. reclamation service, with headquarters at Boise, has been spending the week in taking pictures of the Umatilla project about Hermiston, and has secured many good views that will be used by the government in showing the work being done here, and the crops, etc., now produced on the land to be watered by national irrigation.

Mr. Lubken has had great experience as photographer for the service, and has been on practically all the projects which the government has undertaken. As a result he is pretty thoroughly familiar with the different projects and their possibilities.

During his work he has gathered together, aside from the official photographs, a very large and valuable collection of negatives of western scenes and western types, and especially of Indians, having had considerable success in photographing the Indians about the Arizona projects. In that country, he says, the picturesque aborigine is rapidly giving place to the Indian in overalls and jumper, who is doing a white man's work on the reclamation projects in places where the white men could not be secured and doing it in a remarkably satisfactory manner.

Mr. Lubken declares that the Umatilla project is one of the highest grade projects in the whole government service, and is confident that it has a wonderful future before it. His photographs of irrigated lands in this vicinity have shown the big crops to be grown where water could be secured.

He believes that this will be a fruit country, and while of course it is out of the citrus belt, the fruits will be valuable. The Arizona projects, he says, have longer seasons, and will produce more crops, of alfalfa, for instance, but the crops here are heavier, and will year by year, be quite as valuable.

PRaises PRUNES.

Governor Chamberlain Writes Letter to Freewater Union.

Freewater, Ore., Sept. 21.—Elba Rogers, manager of the Fruitgrowers' union of this place, received the following letter in appreciative acknowledgment of the crate of beautiful Italian prunes sent Governor Chamberlain a week ago:

Salem, Ore., Sept. 16, '07.

My Dear Sir:—I have just received a crate of prunes through your courtesy which were packed by the Milton Fruitgrowers union of Freewater, Ore. I have tested them myself and will have them tested by those who visit the executive office while they last. Both in flavor and in form they cannot be beaten anywhere and I thank you for thus remembering me. A country which raises such splendid fruit is bound to make a record in the markets of the world.

LAUNDRYMEN'S CONVENTION.

Vice President Robinson Goes to Tacoma for Meeting.

J. F. Robinson, vice president of the Oregon and Washington Laundrymen's association, left today for Portland to join a delegation there, who will leave for Tacoma to attend the annual convention the early part of the week. The convention met in Pendleton for its annual gathering last fall.

Mr. Robinson will leave Tacoma for Portland Thursday, where he will attend the Knights Templar convention, expecting to return to Pendleton in time for the wind-up of the big district fair here.

Coming to Pendleton.

Mrs. O. P. Tuttle of Ritzville, Wash., mother of Mrs. J. W. Smith, after a short visit here has gone to Pendleton to spend the winter, to which place she was accompanied by her daughter. Mrs. Smith will probably spend the winter in Pendleton with her mother. Later she may be joined by her husband and son, Roy, who has been a most faithful employe of the Record for several years.—Pilot Rock Record.

Junior League Entertainment.

The First Christian church was crowded last night to enjoy a delightful musical and flower drill program given by the Junior league of the church. The musical numbers and drills were highly entertaining and the young people are well pleased with the success of their efforts.

Tendered Farewell Party.

A farewell surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Daggett at the M. E. church parlors last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Daggett expect to leave soon for California, and the social last evening was attended by members of the church and friends of the family.

A slight earthquake shock was felt at San Bernardino, Cal., alarming many of the inhabitants, who ran into the streets. In the mountains the shock was reported very severe. No damage was done in the valley.

STORY OF THE WENATCHEE.

Wonderful Development of Washington Irrigation Center.

Guy E. Mitchell, the writer on irrigation and western development contributes the following to the Technical World on the irrigation development of Wenatchee, Washington:

In the famous Wenatchee valley of Washington, although orchard land is worth $1500 and $2000 an acre, every orchard is a good-paying investment, and there are no neglected tracts.

To see some of these orchards or farms, you leave the business district of the town and soon come to comfortable houses, placed a little back from the street, in the midst of what looks like large city blocks—650 by 230 feet, each a perfectly cultivated orchard and garden. These are, in fact, five-acre tracts.

Some of the houses have only an acre, while a little further on are some 10-acre blocks; but this is about the limit. Irrigation has wiped out the lonesome country, and it is all one big village and community. The town lots are fruit farms and the farms are town lots.

These little plots have made their owners comparatively wealthy in from six to eight years. Nearly every house has its electric lights and its telephone service and its running water and bath tub and its flourishing rural free delivery. There are no labor unions, because wages are normally high.

Unconsciously, the people have solved many social problems which are racking the best brains of the people of older cities. The telephone monopoly is in their own hands, for they own the stock of the Farmers' Telephone company, and everybody gets unlimited service for $12 a year, while the company pays a regular dividend. They have a fruitgrowers' union, which secures the best prices for fruit for all the members.

The union owns the fruitgrowers' warehouse, and eastern buyers are on hand promptly to buy at from $1.50 per short bushel boxes of apples at the warehouse. The western irrigated apples are never shipped in barrels; they are wrapped and packed like oranges in boxes. And the trees bear every year with the regularity of clockwork.

Delivering Souvenir Journals.

F. H. Graves, a representative of the Oregon Daily Journal, is in the city delivering copies of the big extra edition of the Journal recently issued. People wishing extra copies of the paper can secure them by calling at the East Oregonian office, where a number of extra copies have been left. People everywhere have been buying extra copies of this wonderful edition, and Mr. Graves says that there is a limited number left which he is now selling in eastern Oregon.

Ordered to Pocatello.

Dr. W. D. Mason, one of the local federal stock inspectors, has received orders to go to Pocatello, Idaho, for duty at that point. He will have the railroad inspection at that place and will probably be engaged there until the first of November. After that date he will return to Pendleton.

Return From State Fair.

This morning many of the Pendletonians who have been attending the state fair at Salem returned home. Among those in the returning crowd today were Lee Teutsch, Thomas Thompson, Ad Ogg, Frank Frazer and Mark Moorhouse.
