FREEWATER ADVICES NEWS OF WESTON

WELL KNOWN RANCHER HAS LEG BADLY CRUSHED.

Soldiers Here Looking for Deserter—Editor Takes Little Folks to Meader Park for Picnic—Strawberries Now Being Picked in Vicinity of Freewater—Mrs. Pearson Very Ill, Threatened With Typhoid—Fine Apple Crop From Few Hundred Trees.

Freewater, Oct. 8.—Benjamin Balbridge, a well known rancher of the Hudson Bay country, had his leg broken Saturday. He was driving his team from Freewater and they became frightened, throwing him from the wagon, crushing his leg and otherwise injuring him. His leg was badly mashed.

C. S. Sanderson, editor of the Freewater Times, recently entertained a number of scholars of the Congregational Sunday school at a picnic at Meader Park, near Walla Walla.

Some of the growers in this vicinity are now picking a fine crop of strawberries, which they are selling at good prices.

Mrs. A. S. Pearson is quite seriously ill with a threatened attack of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Mary Patterson of Montana, is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Isabelle Whiting.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Collins entertained a party of friends at their home Friday evening at cards.

John Hughes, a Freewater rancher, reports an excellent apple crop this year. He is the owner of but 300 Ben Davis and Rome Beauty apple trees, from which he has realized 1700 boxes of apples or about six boxes to the tree. He has a contract for these at $1 per box.

Looking for Deserter. Seven soldiers were in Freewater Sunday looking for a deserter from the Walla Walla barracks. They were stationed at different places and were on guard all afternoon, but said their search here was fruitless.

It is a well known fact that persons living in the pine forests do not suffer from kidney diseases. One dose of Pinules at night usually relieves backache. 30 days' treatment, $1. Your money refunded if not satisfied. Sold by A. C. Koepfens Bros.

WELL KNOWN WOMAN PASSED AWAY SUNDAY.

Having Modern Big Barn Erected on Place—Peaches Big and Fine Variety—Young Man Here From Hermiston—Ladies Club Pleasantly Entertained at the Normal Cottage by Mrs. French—Pleasant Birthday Party for Children—Attended Spokane Fair.

Weston, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Stella Clark, who had been ill about two years, passed away at her home here Sunday morning. For several months she had been taking treatment in Spokane, and came back a short time ago. She was about 30 years of age, and leaves a husband and small son to mourn her loss.

John Harder is having a fine big barn erected on his place near town. It is to be 60x70, and will be made one of the most modern structures of the kind in this section.

The hardware auction sale held by George W. Proebstel Saturday, was a great success. Much surplus hardware stock was disposed of.

Elder Bonewitz has been getting some fine peaches from his orchard on his place, some of them measuring 10 inches and more, in circumference.

A son was born to Ernest Albert and wife at their home on the mountain, a few days ago.

Charles P. Smith, who is in the employ of the government at Hermiston, has been here for a few days visiting friends.

Mrs. Della Larson and children, of Walla Walla, have been here for several days visiting relatives.

A pleasant birthday party was given Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Couch in honor of the birthdays of two children, Maudie and Albert.

Amasa Phillips and George Staggs were in Spokane attending the fair during the past week.

Club Meeting. The first meeting of the Reading club since vacation time, took place at the Normal cottage Saturday afternoon, Mrs. R. C. French being the hostess, and it proved to be a very interesting meeting.

TEST STATE LIQUOR LAW.

Washington Law Prohibiting Sale of Liquor to Indians, on Trial.

The perennial question of the legal right, under state law, to sell liquor to Indians, is again being tested in Washington. A North Yakima correspondent says:

The case of G. Kelly, a local saloonkeeper, charged with selling liquor to Indians, may be made a test case to decide the constitutionality of the state law which makes such an offense liable to a fine. Kelly was fined $50 and costs by Justice Doust, before whom he was tried, and notice of appeal was filed by H. J. Shively, attorney for Kelly.

Kelly is charged with selling whiskey to an Indian named Lucas during state fair week. There were Indian witnesses present to bear out the case of the state, as well as Captain J. W. Green, an officer of the department of the interior, who witnessed the sale of the whiskey and caused the arrest of Kelly.

The defense did not deny the sale of the whiskey, but argued that the Indian had a right to buy the liquor and that the state law prohibiting it is unconstitutional. Prosecuting attorney H. H. Wendt was willing that it be made a test case for the superior court to decide, and, if necessary, carry it to the supreme court. In making his remarks Mr. Wendt severely arraigned saloonkeepers and others who make a practice of selling whiskey to Indians, knowing the effect it has upon them.

Attorney Snively wanted to know what right Captain Green had to arrest the Indians in the case and hold them as witnesses, and threatened to sue him for false imprisonment on behalf of the Indians.
