IS RENOWNED INDIAN FIGHTER

COL. JACKSON HAS WON SPURS ON BATTLEFIELD

Took Part in Plute War of 1878 as Captain of Troop B, First U. S. Cavalry--Familiar With Geography of Umatilla County Through His Campaigning Here--Army and Navy Register Tells Story of His Ability and Gallantry.

Col. James Jackson, who inspected company L last night, is an Indian fighter of renown and this is not his first visit to Pendleton. While captain of troop B, First U. S. Cavalry, he was here during the Plute war in 1878. At the outbreak of the Plute trouble he was in Klamath county where he had been serving against the Modocs. With his troop he arrived here in November and camped on the reservation along with the forces under the command of Captain Nelson A. Miles, afterwards lieutenant general. It was shortly before that time that Captain Miles defeated the Bannocks in a fight on the reservation and the fight at Willow Springs occurred during the same summer.

has a warm interest in Pendleton. In a conversation with Major Lee Moorhouse this morning he recalled many of the events of the campaign against the Plutes.

Bears Envious Record. While personally Col. Jackson talks but little of his military record the army and navy register shows him to have one of which he may well be proud. At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted as a private and by his ability and gallantry won his way to the rank of major. He was twice rewarded directly for gallantry in action, once at North Anna river, Virginia, and again at Weldon, Virginia.

At the close of the civil war he became an officer in the regular cavalry and increased his fame by many years of Indian fighting. He was made lieutenant colonel because of gallantry in action against the Indians at Lost River, Oregon, November 29, 1872, and at Clearwater, Idaho, in 1877. He was given a medal of honor for most distinguished gallantry at Camas Meadow, Idaho, where he, with several of his men, rescued the body of one of his troopers who had been killed by the Indians.

There is now a bill before congress to have Col. Jackson granted the rank of brigadier general, retired, and among the national guardsmen there is universal hope that the measure will pass for they feel that the honor is one which the colonel justly merits.

The Ohio supreme court yesterday held that the Bronson primary election law of that state is valid. The decision makes the call for the state primaries on February 11, regular.

BISHOP PADDOCK COMING.

Eastern Oregon Bishop Feasted by His Congregation Before Leaving New York.

The parishioners of the Church of the Holy Apostles of New York of which Bishop Robert L. Paddock has been rector, tendered him a farewell dinner on Sunday night and Bishop Paddock will start for eastern Oregon next Friday afternoon to take charge of the new diocese. A New York item says of the departure of Bishop Paddock for the west: Robert Lewis Paddock, for six years pastor of the Church of the Holy Apostles, at 28th street and Ninth avenue, and who leaves this week to become bishop of eastern Oregon, was given a farewell dinner by the Lower West Side Pastors' association Sunday night at the Chelsea Hotel, in West 23d street. Dr. Paddock leaves New York next Friday evening to take up his new duties.

Twenty-four members of the association attended the dinner, which was presided over by Dr. James H. Hoadley, president of the organization. The last time Bishop Paddock will speak before leaving for Oregon will be at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, at Zion and St. Timothy's church, 363 West 57th street, when Bishop Kinsolving, of Brazil, will also speak.

Under an agreement with the council the company has agreed to make necessary repairs in East Court by June 7.

A contract for the macadamizing of Webb street from the O. R. & N. track to the city limits has also been awarded the company, but work will not be undertaken until a sewer main has been laid on that street.

Child Burned at Kamela.

The five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McCoy of Kamela, was horribly burned last evening by having her clothing take fire from a cook stove at the home of Will Adams, a neighbor. When the clothing took fire the little girl ran out of the house to her home, the wind fanning the flames, which enveloped her body, horribly burning her before her mother could extinguish them. The mother's hands were also badly burned. It is believed that the child's injuries will prove fatal.

Grip Is Prevalent.

It is estimated that there are now about 1500 cases of the grip in Umatilla county, at least 500 of this number being in this city. While none of the cases are serious and no deaths have resulted, yet there is much complaint of the disease from different parts of the county and a large part of the drug sales of the past few weeks have been cold and grip remedies. All over eastern Oregon the grip is prevalent and much sickness is being experienced.

Big Blaze From Burning Stubble.

Last evening the sky eastward from Pendleton was illuminated brightly as though by a big fire and much speculation was indulged in for a time as to the location and nature of the blaze. Later it was learned that it was a burning stubblefield near Athena. That the fire covered many acres of stubble is indicated by the fact that the reflection in the sky was plainly visible here for a half hour or more and showed the blaze to be very extensive.

Trains on Time.

For the past few weeks practically all of the O. R. & N. trains have been on time much to the satisfaction of the company and the public. But little trouble has been experienced with delays of any kind, either on their own or connecting lines this winter and the officials are enjoying a period of ease, compared with the strenuous activity of other winter experiences in eastern Oregon.

DECISIONS IN UMATILLA CASES

TURNER CASE AFFIRMED. STURGIS FINDING REVERSED

Judge Bean's Decision in Favor of Defendants in Turner Case Found Correct by Chief Justice Bean--Reversed in Finding for Plaintiff for Alimony in Sturgis Will Case--Beckwith vs. Galice Mining Company Case Affirmed.

Two decisions upon Umatilla county cases were given by the supreme court yesterday, Judge Bean being affirmed in one case while in the other he was reversed.

In the Turner will case A. F. Turner et al., appellants, vs. O. C. Turner et al., respondents, the decision of Judge Bean was affirmed, the opinion of the supreme court being given by Chief Justice Bean. In this case the appellant sought to have the courts set aside the will of the late Mrs. C. A. Turner by which her property was left to O. C. Turner. The case was first tried out in the county court, then in the circuit court and finally carried to the supreme court. In the above case Judge James A. Fee and McCourt & Phelps have been attorneys for O. S. Turner and his fellow respondents, while Carter & Raley appeared for A. F. Turner et al.

In the case of Ada V. Sturgis, respondent, vs. William P. Sturgis and J. A. Fee, guardian, appellants, the decision of Judge Bean was reversed, the opinion being given by Judge Eakin.

In the Sturgis case, which is a divorce suit, the case involved the payment of temporary alimony to the plaintiff. While the divorce suit was pending in the circuit court Judge Bean ordered that $50 per month be paid Mrs. Sturgis as temporary alimony. From this decision an appeal was taken and yesterday the lower court was reversed. In this case Winter & Collier have been attorneys for Mrs. Sturgis, while Judge Fee and McCourt & Phelps have represented the defendant.

In the case of J. S. Beckwith vs. the Galice Mining company, appealed from Multnomah county, the decision of Circuit Judge Cleland was affirmed. Beckwith was the appellant in this case.

MANY SKULLS AND WEAPONS.

German Skipper Brings Fine Collection of Curios to Portland.

Captain W. B. Berndt brought to Portland yesterday what is believed to be the greatest private collection of spears, swords and other weapons of warfare in existence in the world today, says the Oregon Daily Journal. Included in it are also many curios from remote parts of the world where civilization is yet in its infancy.

Captain Berndt is master of the German steamer Germanicus, which arrived here yesterday morning to finish her lumber cargo for Sydney, Australia. The collection occupies the walls of two departments of the cabin and is greatly admired by everybody coming on board. It represents a search of 20 years, and it would be difficult to estimate its value. A small pair of antelope horns from the interior of Africa Captain Berndt values at $500, and they occupy only about three inches of the wall space. The rings on these tiny horns indicate that the animal had attained an age of at least 33 years.

A collection of human skulls form the decorations surrounding the skipper's bed and a constant clatter of teeth is heard in response to the rolling of the steamer when in motion. This weird and gruesome music, the captain declares, has the effect of a lullaby. Staring him in the face is the skull of one of the Spaniards of early days in California. It was secured in Eureka when the steamer was there about a year ago. A perfect Flathead Indian skull also occupies a position of honor.

The sword collection contains specimens from all parts of the dark continent and Oceania, some of them being extremely dangerous because of their poisoned edges. Captain Berndt scratched a cat one day with the point of a dagger that had been described as poisonous and the nine lives went out almost instantly.

Captain Berndt knows the history of every article in the collection, and there is not one in the lot without a history and an interesting one at that. One murderous looking knife has the record of having snuffed out 72 human lives. It was once the property of the official executioner of one of the islands in the Indian ocean. Another ugly looking knife is encased in a scabbard of human skin.

Kaffir and Hottentot shields and boomerangs from Australia serve to form a variety to the wall decorations and the skins of monster reptiles, alligators and lizards form draperies of the ceilings, while the floors are covered with rugs of beasts from the jungles.

WALLACE TIMES RESUMES.

Delayed But One Day in Scrap With Typographical Union.

At 6:45 Monday an amicable settlement was effected between the Wallace Times company and the Typographical union, and the plant is running full force and publication of the Wallace Daily Times was resumed Tuesday, having missed but one issue.

H. H. George of Spokane, as special representative of President Lynch of the International Typographical union, in separate conferences with L. R. Brooks, business manager of the Times, and the local union ended the difficulty. A settlement was reached on the basis that the Times company withdraw its bar against F. J. Glenn, a machine operator, on a promise of the union that Mr. Glenn shall not appear at The Times office for work at any time. As the whole trouble was caused by the status of Mr. Glenn, the union refusing to bar him after the Times had made the demand, this effectually settled the controversy.

And They Will Need it so Bad.

Disheartening information reached Manager Lulu Gulling this morning from North Powder, to the effect that the scheduled game with the North Powder girls on their floor for next Friday night has been cancelled, for various reasons. This throws the local girls out of a desirable practice game, a feature in preparation much needed to successfully cope with Pendleton next week, unless arrangements for a game of some sort are made immediately.--La Grande Observer.

Snowing on Northern Pacific.

The cars of the Northern Pacific train which arrived in the city at 2 o'clock this afternoon were covered several inches deep in snow and Conductor Bertholet says it snowed hard all forenoon from Hunt's Junction to Pendleton. The farmers in the north part of the county are greatly rejoiced over the favorable change in the weather.

Fine Shoe Window.

In one of the windows of the Alexander department store there is now a shoe display that has attracted much attention. The extent of the display shows something of the very extensive footwear line carried by the store. For a number of months past the shoe department has been conducted by George A. Ferguson, who has greatly improved the same.
