TWO VICTORIES FOR PENDLETON

HIGH SCHOOL AND ACADEMY TEAMS WIN.

In the Track Meet Pendleton High School Won by a Score of 67 to 62—In the Debating Contest Pendleton Academy Won by a Vote of 2 to 1—Both Events Were Well Attended.

Debating Contest.

Pendleton academy, 2; Tualitin academy, 1.

Track Meet.

Pendleton high school, 67; Pearson academy, 62.

This is the story in brief of two important school victories won by Pendleton yesterday afternoon and last evening.

Although the afternoon was unfavorable for the track meet and the scores were low, Pendleton high school team won a merited victory over an excellent team from Pearson academy on the Frazier field south of the city.

Pearson academy is the preparatory school for Whitman college and Martin, Whitman's crack sprinter, was the star man for the visitors and carried off more points than any other individual competitor.

Jay, Pendleton's star man, would have surpassed him in this particular, however, but for the fact that the low hurdle race was pulled off while he was throwing the discus and he could not enter in the former. He would have taken second and possibly first in this event.

Martin took five firsts and one third, and firsts being in the 50-yard dash, the 100-yard dash, and the shot put, the 120-yard hurdles, 220-yard dash. He took third place in the broad jump, the discus, pole vault, high jump, and 120-yard hurdles, making a total of 25 points.

Pendleton was strong in the weights and the jumps, taking all three places in the hammer throw and the discus and first and second in the broad jump, high jump and pole vault. The visitors were strong on the track.

The Events.

Following are the events and scores in detail:

50-yard dash—Martin, P., first; Kimball, P. H. S., second; Gordon, P. H. S., third. Time 5.4 seconds.

Pole vault—Jay, P. H. S., first; E. Bott, P., second; Kimball, P. H. S., third. Height 10 feet.

100-yard dash—Martin, P., first; Gordon, P. H. S., second; Turner, P. H. S., third. Time, 10 seconds.

High jump—Jay, P. H. S., first; McCoy, P., second; Chapman, P. H. S., third. Height 5.4.

440-yard dash—Howard, P., first; Willis, P., second; Euster, P. H. S., third. Time 59.2.

Shot put—Martin, P., first, 41 feet; A. Means, P. H. S., second, 40.11; L. Means, P. H. S., third, 39.8.

120 hurdles—Jay, P. H. S., first; McCoy, P., second. Time, 17.3.

220 hurdles—Martin, P., first; Kimball, P. H. S., second. Time, 26.2.

880-yard run—Howard, P., first; Fizenbaum, P., second; McDill, P. H. S., third. Time, 2:21.

Hammer throw—L. Means, P. H. S., first, 166.11; A. Means, P. H. S., second, 160.10; Euster, P. H. S., 94.7.

220-yard dash—Martin, P., first; Gordon, P. H. S., second; Kimball, P. H. S., third. Time, 24 seconds.

Broad jump—Jay, P. H. S., first; Turner, P. H. S., second; Martin, P., third. Distance, 19.3.

1 mile run—Flegenbaum, P., first; B. Dickson, second; Willis, P., third. Time, 5:21.5.

Discus—Jay, P. H. S., first; L. Means, P. H. S., second; A. Means, P. H. S., third. Distance, 104.5.

Half mile relay—Pearsons won. Time, 1:31.

The Academy Debate.

Presbyterian church was well filled last evening for the debate on the postal savings bank question between an excellent team composed of Russell Blankenship, Roy Rowland and Edmund Milne of Pendleton academy, and a team composed of Silverman, Hope and Markee of Tualitin academy.

Pendleton won this victory by a decision of two to one after a most commendable effort on part of both teams. The debaters were in excellent trim for the contest and it was among the finest efforts ever heard in the school circles of the city.

Hope of Malheur county was the star of the visiting team, while for Pendleton academy all the members of the team starred. The Pendleton team had the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a system of postal savings banks," and in its arguments showed a wonderful scope of research and drilling and the victory is a high compliment to both the home team and the teachers of Pendleton academy, who have taken a zealous interest in the preparations for the debate.

The result is especially gratifying to Pendleton academy for the reason that Miss Livia Ferrin, who coached the Pendleton team, is a pupil of Prof. Orr of Pacific university, who coached the Tualitin team. Tualitin academy is the preparatory school for Pacific university.

Carl Swartz, accused of adultery, was given a trial, and the same resulted in the case against him being dismissed. Col. J. H. Raley appeared for Swartz and testimony was introduced showing that at the time Swartz was accused of having illicit relations with Mrs. Farmer, at the home of Crabtree, the saloonman, the woman was in the company of Crabtree's wife instead of Swartz. Swartz was arrested Thursday night on a charge sworn out against him by Farmer.

Golden Wedding Celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Lightfoot, the pioneers of Vinson in the southwest part of the county, are celebrating their golden, fiftieth, wedding anniversary at their home today. Their daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Frazier, came down from Latah, Wash., to attend the celebration and left for Vinson last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Lightfoot are among the oldest and most highly respected pioneers of Umatilla county and have a host of friends who are glad to see them in the enjoyment of excellent health on their golden wedding day.

Dime Pictures.

The Dime had an excellent change of motion pictures yesterday, and the present program will continue over until tomorrow afternoon when there will be a change which will be appropriate for the big Sunday crowds. All pictures will be new and in beautiful colorings, something entirely up to date.

THE TALE OF AN INDIAN HUNTER.

(Mary G. Morse in Coast Magazine.)

Of all races of people the Indian tribe alone seem to be the richest in traditional lore and most gifted with that tendency to secretiveness so characteristic in a superstitious race. Many are the strange stories told by the aborigines of Puget sound, and some of these, it is believed, are more than mere tradition. Indeed, they are not without credence by many at the present time.

Years ago, when Seattle was a very small place, and the stretch of land called the Olympia Peninsula was almost a wilderness, there lived on the picturesque banks of the Elwha river an old Indian called Hunter Sam.

He spoke very little English, and the following tale which he told of his experience in the Olympia mountains was, of course, related in Chinook:

"It was one day in early October," said he, "and I started on a hunting trip. The woods were very thick and paths were few, but I followed the course of the Elwha river to the base of the mountains. I had hunted elk and deer many times and I knew the way too well to get lost.

"This time I had traveled for many miles and it was getting late. My feet were sore and I was tired and hungry. 'If I do not see game before I curve yonder peak,' said I, 'I will rest for the night.'

"But even as I went on a black cloud in the sky grew larger and hid the sun, and the rain began to pour upon me. The branches of the trees cast a deep shade over the whole forest, and, almost before I knew it, it was dark. In the distance I could hear the evil spirit of the mountain howling at me and I shivered from fear.

Not far away I heard the rush of the river and I started for the river bank through the storm. At last I crawled on my hands and knees, until, suddenly I found myself in a dry place. I felt a rocky wall on both sides of me and I knew that I was in some kind of a cave.

Glad to get shelter, I crawled back a little way, so as not to hear the evil sounds of the night so plainly, and then I felt myself falling. When I awoke it was still dark and I was lying on something hard. I felt sick and could not at first think where I was. But suddenly—ah, what was that?

Through the darkness I saw something glitter like the eyes of a frightened deer. I could not find my gun, but I struck a match to see what was there, and listen, I will tell you what I saw. No deer, but silver, yes, much silver. I took out my knife and scraped it. What I tell is true, but no white man could find that cave. It is hidden by much brush and weeds now, and I shall not tell the place.

There is a steep bank inside, and and that is where I tell from. Ah, yes, it has been many years since I found the bright silver near the banks of the Elwha river. The Great Spirit of the caves and mountains led me to it, but he keeps it hidden from the white man."

Old Hunter Sam has been dead long since, and his secret lies with him, for no white man has yet found the hidden cave of treasure. The silver waters of the Elwha river still flows placidly on and the mountain peaks stand rugged, as of yore; but the forest has wrapped its protecting arms around the unknown spot and time alone will tell whether the story of old Hunter Sam was a fact or mere tradition.

FARMERS SIGN UP

INDEPENDENT WAREHOUSES WILL BE FILLED

Over $200,000 Worth of 1935 Wheat Crop of Walla Walla County Now Pledged to Farmers' Warehouses—Valley Grove Farmers Have All Signed Up—History of Independent Warehouse Movement.

Farmers living near Valley Grove, this county, have signed contracts to have their wheat handled in the new farmers' warehouses and already over $200,000 worth of the 1935 crop has been pledged, says the Walla Walla Bulletin. The farmers have organized a stock company to erect this warehouse, and similar action has been taken at nine other points in this county.

This move has been made because of the monopoly of the Pacific Coast Elevator company, which last fall raised the price of handling grain 50 per cent.

The price asked was 75 cents a ton for storage which the farmers objected to paying. The elevator company claimed that the cost of labor had increased so much recently that they were compelled to raise the price.

The farmers then demonstrated by building a warehouse in Walla Walla that grain could be stored for 40 cents a ton and still leave a comfortable profit.

The Farmers' Union offered to buy the company warehouses, but too much money was wanted for them, and the farmers decided to build their own warehouses, and at a recent meeting 10 men were appointed in various parts of the county to start the movement.

The first reports received are from Valley Grove and there it is said practically every farmer has agreed to store all his grain in the farmers' warehouse.

Reports from other sections today are that the farmers are enthusiastically at work and that all the new warehouses will be given ample support to make them paying ventures. While the farmers are getting their grain stored at lower rates they will also break the monopoly.

Owing to the fact that the Pacific Coast Elevator company has had an absolute cinch on the grain it is said that arbitrary methods were adopted and the farmers put to great inconvenience. This, however, will be changed.

Tired of Idaho.

R. M. O'Brien, the pioneer of this county, who moved to Basin, Idaho, some months ago, where he secured land, has decided to return to Pendleton to reside permanently and is now in the city. He was greatly dissatisfied with the Cassia county district, principally because most of the population of that county is Mormon.
