SOCIETY EVENTS

The last dancing party given by the Married People's Dancing club on Thursday evening at Eagles hall proved to be one of the most enjoyable ones of the season. Regrets were heard from all sides that these delightful parties were to become a thing of the past.

Mrs. M. A. Perkins of Boise, was a complimented guest at a pretty luncheon of the week at the home of Mrs. W. J. Furnish, who entertained on Wednesday about 25 guests. Instead of the usual custom of seating the guests at one table smaller ones were provided, four guests being seated at each table. After the luncheon, the remainder of the afternoon was spent in playing progressive 500, at which Mrs. Anna Selkirk Norton proved the most successful contestant.

Mrs. C. E. Roosevelt was hostess on Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 for a tea in honor of her sister and guest, Mrs. H. B. Keylor of Walla Walla. The rooms were charming in their spring-like decoration of lilac and early garden flowers. In the dining room the table was decorated with a most attractive centerpiece of lilacs and white narcissi. Mrs. Roy Riley, Mrs. William Lytle, Mrs. Edwin Burke and Mrs. Mark Moorhouse, four of the recent brides, took turns at pouring tea.

Miss Edna Florence left on Wednesday.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases. If we would properly investigate them and in combination of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, of indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weakness and disturbing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of published testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic troubles, painful periods, irregularities, prolapses and other disorders, caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

Mrs. Edgar Lowell returned to Portland on Wednesday after a brief stay in Pendleton upon her return from Spokane.

An accomplished visitor in Pendleton of the week was Miss Frances Batchelor of Portland, who was the guest of Miss Eleanor Vincent during her short stay in Pendleton. Seldom has society had the pleasure of listening to such a talented pianist. Miss Batchelor and Miss Vincent are both pupils of Mrs. Carroll, the famous musical instructor.

Miss Eleanor Vincent, after a short visit with her father, Dr. Vincent, will return to Portland tomorrow.

ELEPHANT ATTACKED PONY.
Morris and Rowe's Circus Scene of an Exciting Fight.

One of the big trained elephants at Morris and Rowe's circus last night became enraged for some unknown cause and attacked one of the best trained Shetland ponies with the show, fearfully pounding and mauling the tiny horse, says the Medford Tribune.

The attack was made just as the evening performance closed. The beast trumpeted with rage, knocked his keeper to one side and rushed at the pony, felling it with a blow from his powerful trunk. The little horse, taken by surprise, vainly struggled to get on his feet, but the elephant stamped upon him, breaking the pony's leg and crushing his ribs and injuring him severely internally. The big beast was finally driven off by his keeper. The pony was carried to the hospital car and placed in a swing. Its leg was set and it was otherwise bandaged. Whether the little horse, one of the most valuable with the circus, will recover, is problematical.

War and Waur.
He was a gallant colonel of militia, but scarcely a good horseman. Owning even large and popular emporiums on even the best of Edinburgh's best streets does not of itself breed centaurs.

His mount was fresh to an extreme, and the silent figure of Sir Walter Scott, looking down upon the assembling troops from its marble pedestal, may well have expected to see an accident. That, too, was probably the thought of a small street urchin who loitered just out of reach of the prancing hoofs.

"Boy, get away!" exclaimed the rufled rider testily. "Have you never seen a war horse?"

"Aye," came the answer, "but never a waur rider."—Dundee Advertiser.

In the Smoker.
"What's my state? Wash—and the cleanest state in the whole Union."

"According to that," remarked the traveler from Pittsburg, "I hail from one fit only for pigs—or literary men."

"Wealthy sinners ought to settle in my state," was the contribution of the Bostonian.

The man from Nashville closed the conversation. "This is too smart a crowd for me," he said, "and yet my state can beat any nine others you fellows can pick out."—New York Times.

He Knew the Step.
A young constable arrived in a certain borough in Scotland and in the course of duty found it essential to apprehend a very old offender. Arrived at the police station, he ushered him into the cells with the comment, "Mind the step."

"Gae awa," man," said the prisoner, with contempt. "I kent the step afore ye was born."—Dundee Advertiser.

What She Was After.
"Of course," said the earl, "everybody will say that you married me for my title."

"Well," replied the beautiful heiress, "what do we care? I get it, don't I?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

At the Foreign Hotel.
Beastie—They charge an awful price for board here, don't they? Billy—Oh, it isn't for the board. That is cheap enough. But they charge an awful lot for the air and scenery.
