AUTOMATIC TELEGRAPH

One Machine Does Work of Three or Four Telegraph Operators—Messages Are Transcribed to Tape and Then Run Through Machine—
Western Union Company Holds All the Patents on the Invention.

The Western Union Telegraph company is installing the Barclay printers on its trunk lines, which may aid the railroads in meeting the exigencies of the nine hour law by other means than closing up depots because telegraph operators cannot be secured in sufficient numbers, says the Cheyenne Tribune. The Barclay machine does the work of three or four operators.

The machine is operated by tape and sends out about 100 words a minute, which are taken automatically on the receiving end of the wire by a machine similar to a typewriter, which writes the messages on the regular receiving blanks of the company. The tape is prepared by means of a machine which also works like a typewriter, but which perforates the tape similar to the Wheatstone system now in use in this country and Europe, the characters, however, being different.

The Barclay printers differ from the Wheatstone system in that at the point of destination instead of the message being received on a tape in telegraph characters it is printed by the receiving machine on the blanks of the company ready for delivery. The machinery works automatically and, as one machine transmits as fast as three or four operators, it saves many men at each end of the wire.

When a message is taken into one of the larger offices it will be transcribed by a machine onto tape in characters, then placed in the sending machine, which sends it automatically as described above.

The Barclay system is quite new and has but recently been put in use between large commercial centers in the east. It is now being installed in Kansas City, Omaha and St. Paul, connecting them with each other, as well as with Chicago. The system is considered a great success by the Western Union company, which owns and controls the patents.

Valued Same as Gold.

B. G. Stewart, a merchant of Cedar View, Miss., says: "I tell my customers when they buy a box of Dr. King's Life Pills they get the worth of that much gold in weight, if afflicted with constipation, malaria or biliousness." Sold under guarantee at Tallman & Co.'s drug store. 25 cents.

ROUTE OF NEW ROAD.

Pacific and Southeastern Will Strike
Yakima, It Is Said.

The exact route, so far as North Yakima is concerned, of the Pacific & Southeastern railroad, the new road which has been capitalized at $15,000,000, to build from Tacoma to Walla Walla, as announced in its articles of incorporation, is as follows, after leaving the mines at Wilkeson, says the Yakima Republic:

"And thence to construct, equip and operate said railway and telegraph line

by the most feasible route via the valley of the White river and its tributaries to the Cascade mountains south of, or in, or near Naches pass, or at a crossing in the said mountains near or southerly from Bear gap in the vicinity of said pass and near what is known as the Summit mining district, thence by the way of one or more of the tributaries of the Naches river, and said river to a point within, at, or near, the city of North Yakima, thence by the valley of the Yakima river or country adjacent thereto to the Columbia river and from the Columbia river to Walla Walla.

When your food seems to nauseate take Kodol. Take Kodol now and until you know you are right again. There isn't any doubt about what it will do and you will find the truth of this statement verified after you have used Kodol for a few weeks. It is sold here by Tallman & Co.

Graders Resume Work.

Three grading outfits with 635 horses, are here and will be sent down Snake river at once to resume construction work on the Northwest road to Lewiston, work upon which was suspended last fall when the panic came, says a report from Huntington. Preparations are now being made to install outfits at the canyon and at camps Nos. 3, 7 and 9 and the grading of the road to the Iron Dike will be pressed with the utmost dispatch.

Men and teams will be put on the work down the river as fast as they can be obtained and the belief is expressed by railroad men here that the work will now continue steadily until the road is completed.

Mr. John Riba of Vining, Ia., says "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold." Sold by Tallman & Co.

Trying to Contract Asparagus.

Seattle parties are endeavoring to get the land owners about Two Rivers to contract to plant at least 1000 acres in asparagus, and agree if that acreage can be secured to establish an asparagus cannery at Two Rivers. The Two Rivers Investment company will have the matter of contracting in charge, and it is hoped that the required acreage can be secured. It will mean the establishment of an industry at Two Rivers, that will employ a large number of people. This soil is adapted to the growth of asparagus, and is very profitable to the gardener. From 1000 to 2000 gross per acre can be realized.—Two Rivers Tribune.

Kodol completely digests all classes of food. It will get right at the trouble and do the very work itself for the stomach. It is pleasant to take. Sold by Tallman & Co.

SHEEP INSPECTORS MUST BE CAREFUL

One of the most important questions affecting the grazing of sheep on the public domain ever presented to the supreme court of this state was decided this morning by the court's ordering a new trial for Paul Richter, a Big Horn county sheepman who was found guilty of a misdemeanor and fined $50 in the district court of Big Horn county, the offense being the breaking of a quarantine in which his sheep had been placed by a state sheep inspector, says the Wyoming Tribune. The inspector had previously inspected the sheep and found them to be without disease, but having heard that the sheep had been exposed, quarantined them on suspicion. This quarantine Richter's herders broke immediately and continued to graze the sheep on the open range.

In his trial the judge made certain instructions were such as to make his conviction certain for the fact that he had broken quarantine, regardless of the reasons which he might have had for breaking quarantine.

The court holds that there is no question of the right of the state inspector to quarantine sheep which are diseased or which have been exposed to disease, this being the only way in which the state can enforce police regulations to prevent the spread of disease among sheep.

But the court further says: "We doubt if the legislature has the power to lodge in one man or set of men the authority to deprive a man of his right to the control and custody of his sheep because the inspector or any one else suspects they are infected with scab. The inspector has the right to inspect the sheep and if competent to do so, it is an easy matter for him to determine whether they are infected or not."

The court held that the instruction of the district court to the jury to the effect that the inspector has the power to quarantine sheep which are merely suspected of being infected with disease is erroneous, as the statutes (2083) confers no such power.

"And it is not always true," says the decision referring to another instruction of the lower court which is also decided to be error, "that the owner of sheep who removes them beyond quarantine limits prescribed by a lawful inspector and yet if he acts beyond and outside of the authority reposed in him his acts are void for in such case he has no jurisdiction to act."

The court also denies that in cases where the inspector merely suspects that sheep have been exposed, that he is the sole judge, and that if there had in reality been no exposure to disease, the quarantine set up by the inspector was unlawful and there was no offense committed in breaking it.

The decision of the district court is reversed and a new trial ordered principally on the ground that the jury was instructed that the inspector's right to quarantine was absolute, and gave the defense no opportunity to justify his breaking the quarantine by showing that his sheep had never been exposed.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have offered One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:
