DO YOU REMEMBER THAT FIRST CIRCUS?

Can you remember your first circus, the glories of which had been blazoned forth from the billboards for weeks before, filling your childish mind with visions of ferocious beasts savagely pacing their gilded cages, and a cavalcade of gorgeously attired knights and ladies on fiery Arabian steeds, forming a wondrous pageant never absent from the delighted view of your imagination, making you ill with alternate spasms of joy and hope and fear, until finally papa gave his promise that you might go to the circus, and then the conscious pride with which you asked all the other children of your acquaintance if they were going, carelessly remarking that of course you were; that papa was going to take the whole family?

And when that day of days had arrived you were up and dressed at 4 o'clock in the morning, helping with the chores, watching the sun creep slowly up out of the east and throw his brilliant rays over the world, waiting impatiently for the horses to be harnessed and wondering if mother would never get the younger children's faces washed, too eager, too excited to eat your breakfast, until, after an almost interminable waiting, you were at last started on the long, hot drive to town. It may have been eight miles, in a jolting lumber wagon over a rough road, but what was that to a baby man going to his first circus?

And when you had arrived at your journey's end, and a camping spot been selected on the outskirts of town, and the horses unhitched and tied to the wagon, you found that there were still ages to wait, and you buried yourself in the long grass and fell asleep to dream of a superhuman creature of serpentine elegance and grace, a tight rope walker in glistening tights.

As last you were awakened by mother telling you it was time to go, and clinging tightly to father's hand you made your way, wide-eyed, to that miniature city of white tents and strange foreign people and roaring beasts. They were all there, all that the billboards had promised and your imagination had invented. The butterfly lady turning somersaults through hoops in the air, and occasionally alighting on the broad, flat back of a great white horse that obligingly ran around beneath her on the ground; the ubiquitous clown, the ringmaster and his horrid whip; the patient, dusty camels; the elephants, majestically swinging their trunks and making you cringe with a nameless fear and draw closer to mother; the lions and tigers, just as you had pictured them; and, last of all, the wondrous creature deftly balancing himself mid-air, clad in glistening tights.

Father assured you that it was only a man doing a clever act, but all through your subsequent enjoyment of the sticky popcorn and candy and lemonade, and your dreams on the long ride home, and the hundreds of times that you recounted the doings of that never to be forgotten day to your less fortunate little friends, the first and last object of the glorious panorama outlined by memory was that of the glistening, graceful tight rope walker in mid-air, and if today, perchance, you are a noted athlete with a national reputation it may perhaps be due to that first unconscious involuntary admiration of grace and strength occasioned by the tight rope walker at your first circus.—Portland Journal.

City College Dedication.

New York, May 14.—With addresses by Mayor McClellan, President Eliot of Harvard and other distinguished men, the great hall of the College of the City of New York was dedicated today. Preceding the speeches, there was an academic procession across the campus, followed by the presentation of a national flag by Edward Lauterbach, representing the associate alumni and a city flag by President McGowan of the board of aldermen. The chemistry and mechanical arts buildings were dedicated this afternoon. Students were at work in these buildings to demonstrate to visitors the manner in which the classes are carried on. Students' exercises were held in the great hall this afternoon and this evening the associate alumni will give a dinner to the trustees, faculty and guests.

College Cricket Schedule.

New York, May 14.—With Harvard at the University of Pennsylvania, the contest for the championship of the Intercollegiate Cricket association will be opened today. Harvard, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Haverford College have entered teams. The second game of the schedule will be played tomorrow with Harvard at Haverford. Other games on the cricket schedule are as follows: May 23, Cornell vs. Haverford college, at Ithaca; May 30, Haverford college vs. University of Pennsylvania, at Haverford; June 6, Cornell vs. Harvard at Ithaca; June 15, Cornell vs. University of Pennsylvania, at Ithaca.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have offered One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 75c. GREATER WHITMAN

FAR-REACHING PLANS FOR BIGGER COLLEGE.

Walla Walla City and County Has Pledged $200,000 for Whitman Expansion Fund—Enormous Increase of the College Assets Shown by Statistics—To Make Whitman the Educational Center of the Northwest.

Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., May 14.—"The new Whitman" movement, which has for its aim the development of Whitman college into the great representative college of the Pacific northwest, is being pushed with vigor by the administration of the college.

The undertaking is an elaborate one, requiring in a financial way, the raising of nearly $2,000,000 for endowment, buildings and equipment, and in a broader way the centering of the interest and support of the whole northwest, for the cardinal feature of the project is to make the college not local, but the great educational factor of the whole northwest territory.

The plans have been recently presented in definite form to the citizens of Walla Walla county at a series of mass meetings, and they have responded with a pledge of $200,000. Prof. Hendrick, dean of the college, who is in charge of the "New Whitman" movement, has carried the campaign into the larger cities of the northwest, and the success of the plan is assured, especially since the offer of half a million from the east as soon as the west shows her loyalty in as practical a way.

The striking need of a great institution of learning, privately endowed, in this section, and the logical position of Whitman in every way to be such a school, are outlined by Mr. Hendrick as follows:

First of all there is the marvelous growth of the college since 1894, when President Penrose became head of the institution. In 1894 the assets of the college were $55,000. In 1907 they were $600,000 and the income had trebled. In 1894 there were four students of the college proper; now there are over 140. The college is now a liberal arts institution whose degrees are recognized as equal to those of Yale or Harvard. Just recently the college, while as strongly Christian as ever, severed its denominational connection and now stands broadly non-sectarian.

This is in no way a renunciation of purpose, as in the original charter there was no mention of sectarian or even Christian affiliations, the connection with the Congregational church being made in 1892, at a time when the college was facing almost hopeless poverty. What remains now is to develop it from a local college to the great representative, privately-endowed Christian college of the northwest—to be to us what Stanford is to California or Yale to the east.

The World's Best Climate is not entirely free from disease, on the high elevations fevers prevail, while on the lower levels malaria is encountered to a greater or less extent, according to altitude. To overcome climate affections, lassitude, malaria, jaundice, biliousness, fever and ague, and general debility, the most effective remedy is Electric Bitters, the great alterative and blood purifier; the antidote for every form of bodily weakness, nervousness and insomnia. SOCIAL FUNCTIONS FOR MANY GOVERNORS.

Gifford Pinchot Is Host Tonight—Mrs. Roosevelt Gives Lawn Party.

Washington, May 14.—Two elaborate social functions will mark the conference on national resources now being held at the White House, at which numerous governors and other distinguished men are in attendance. Gifford Pinchot, chief forester of the government, will be the host tonight and will entertain the visiting notables at an elaborate reception. Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt will give a lawn party on the south grounds of the White House, to which all delegates to the conference, with their wives, sisters and daughters, have been invited.

The residence of Gifford Pinchot, the government chief forester, who is to give a reception tonight to all the members of the conference, is situated on Rhode Island avenue, just removed from Scott Circle. It is one of the largest houses in the city of Washington, and it is admirably adapted for Proof is inexhaustible that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carries women safely through the Change of Life.

Read the letter Mrs. E. Hanson, 304 E. Long St., Columbus, Ohio, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was passing through the Change of Life, and suffered from nervousness, headaches, and other annoying symptoms. My doctor told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good for me, and since taking it I feel so much better, and I can again do my own work. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me during this trying period."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

entertainment purposes. Mr. Pinchot, as most people probably know, is an exceedingly wealthy man, who has absolutely no need for the small salary which the government pays him for his hard work, but who follows the work because of sheer love for it. There will be no ladies invited to the reception at Mr. Pinchot's residence. Large as the house is, it could not contain the throng that would be present if the invitations were to be made general.

The really picturesque entertainment for the visitors will be Mrs. Roosevelt's garden party tomorrow. There are several acres of ground enclosed by the iron fence on the Potomac side of the White House. There are great forest trees within the enclosure, and the grass is a green carpet. The south porch of the White House, guarded by its white pillars, overlooks the lawn and the old-fashioned garden. Mrs. Roosevelt's own creation. It is many years since the White House grounds have been used for entertainment purposes except only in the case of the children of the city, who, on Easter Monday, are allowed to gather there for their "egg rolling" festivities.

Valued Same as Gold. B. G. Stewart, a merchant of Cedar View, Miss., says: "I tell my customers when they buy a box of Dr. King's Life Pills they get the worth of that much gold in weight, if afflicted with constipation, malaria or biliousness."
