Portland, May 13.—Pernoll, the Grants Pass sidwheeler, hung it on the Angels again today and shut them out 3 to 0. Ryan, McCredie and Basse hit in succession in the first and scored two runs. Three more hits by Casey, Ryan and McCredie, in the fifth, counted for the last tally. Both teams played good ball, but the visitors could do nothing with Pernoll's twisters.

CIRCUS HERE IN ALL ITS GLORY

NORRIS & ROWE SHOW

ARRIVES IN EARLY MORNING

Large Crowds from Country and Town See the Parade and Witness the Opening Performance—A Real Circus—Peanut and Toy Balloon Vendors, the Leather Lugged Man, the Bearded Lady, the Funny Clowns, Are All Here.

The Greater Norris and Rowe circus arrived in this city at an early hour this morning on two special trains from The Dalles, where they exhibited yesterday afternoon.

Work of unloading the cars was commenced immediately and long before many of the good housewives of this city had prepared porridge for their lords and masters the army of over 450 circus attaches sat down to a hot breakfast at the Hotel Norris and Rowe, at the baseball park.

The country beau and his sweetheart, the noble red man, little Johnnie and his "weeny" sister, dressed in their best bibs and tuckers, were on the streets early, waiting for the parade, and all wearing anxious expressions. Repressed excitement was in the air, superinduced by the gladsome circus—the event of events in all their simple, unaffected lives.

The peanut vendors and the fellow with the toy balloons were also in evidence and assumed an air of indifference such as prosperity can only produce.

The foghorn tones of the fellow with the leather lungs was heard to exclaim, "Hold your horses!" the elephants are "caming," and then, oh, then, such a craning of necks. The Goodyear Rubber company should have had representatives here today—rubber is scarce.

The parade past, the vast throng scurried to the exhibition grounds where the outside free attractions were given. The fat lady, the tattooed Greek, Texas Jack, who throws knives at his wife, and is such a poor marksman that he did not hit her once; the esquilmos, "Zip," Barnum's what is it, the pretty one with the huge snakes, Doss, the human telescope, South Sea Island Joe and his wife, Beno, the bearded lady, the hundred and one ladies and gentlemen that nature took liberties with are all with Norris and Rowe this year. The pink lemonade, the sawdust, the tents, the peanuts and the babble of tongues of representatives of every nation are all with the big show. The excitement, oh, the joy of it all. No wonder that the circus goes on like the brook, forever!

The doors to the big show were opened at 1 o'clock and the performance was started at 2:15. A large audience was present when the ring master blew his whistle, which summons the performers into the ring. The grand entree in which all of the performers of the show take parts is a very pleasing spectacle. The trappings and the coloring of the rich costumes made a most pleasing effect. From this time on during the two and a half hours of the show dozens of great acts were introduced, as many as six acts taking place at the same time.

The work of the Peerless Pottery, aerialists, being the best of the kind ever seen in this city. The Honey-Mora troupe, the Orton family, the St. Leon family, the Waldorf troupe, the Quigomato troupe, the McDonald family were all excellent.

Another performance will be given tonight.

BEETS ARE ALL SEEDED.

Sugar Company Completes Planting 2300 Acres of Seed.

The seeding of approximately 2300 acres of beets, and 2200 acres of small grain by the Amalgamated Sugar company is finished, and for a time at least, thinning of beets will be the principal work of the large crews which the company maintains, says the La Grande Observer.

The Union ranches were the last to be completed, but they are now seeded and the next big event will be the harvest. Six hundred acres of hay will be cared for in the meantime.

Village of Tents.

Around the headquarters of the Union ranches are many little villages of tents and temporary quarters, occupied by the Germans who have been imported to the Grand Ronde valley to eventually displace oriental labor.

The Japanese now employed by the company are confined to the La Grande district of the company's holdings. In time, more permanent quarters will be provided for the Germans. At present, however, they live in tents and temporary houses, and are contented with what is supplied them. Their work is highly satisfactory.

For the past several days, Manager Sebbelov has had a crew thinning the beets which were seeded early and are now far enough advanced in their growth to need attention by thinners.

The men who dare always complaining about "crooked politics" are the men who never try to straighten it out.

Use Wrong Mail Box.

The attention of the public is called to the fact that the United States mail box on the platform at the O. R. & N. depot is not to be used for letters for the city or postoffice. That box is intended for mail to be carried on the trains and the mail carriers of the city have no key to it and never gather mail from it. Of late a great many letters intended for the postoffice should be dropped in the railroad mail box and consequently have been delayed in delivery for several days. No letter intended for the postoffice should be dropped in that box.
