HUGHES BOOM IS GROWING

PEOPLE OF NEW YORK ARE WITH THE GOVERNOR

Active Campaign Is Kept Up By New Yorkers for Their Favorite Candidate—Niagara, a Most Doubtful District, Has Just Been Won by Hughes.

New York, May 15.—Based on the personal triumph of Charles E. Hughes in winning the doubtful district of Niagara last Tuesday, a strong movement was today set on foot in this city to show to the country the presidential qualifications of this man who will not boom himself.

While Hughes today still insists on being governor rather than playing for the presidency, thousands of men who know him have formed the Hughes Information bureau to say for the busy executive what he will not take the state's time to say for himself. When all the people know Hughes as Niagara and New York knows him, they believe, the country will have a candidate who worked while others ran.

Lawyers, labor leaders, farmers, merchants, mechanics, ministers, bankers, brakemen and teachers from the remote districts of the country and the heart of the business section are here today joining this work of telling the tale of Hughes.

Organization republicans have been quick to see the strength of the campaigner who won the people of a doubtful district against money and factional machinery; and look to Hughes to hold their state.

Party, race and creed play no part in this new movement; for its supporters number by the hundred deep-seated democrats, rock-bound republicans, independents, Irish, Germans, negroes, Jews and Gentiles. All that binds this growing army is a common demand to have their fellows hear of Hughes.

While the governor is tied to Albany working for them, the people of the state propose to work for him by speaking for him in other states where he must daily decline scores of invitations to speak for himself.

TRIAL OVER PAPER CONTEST.

Walla Walla Union Sued by Defeated Contestant.

Oscar Cain convulsed the court room this afternoon in the trial of the case of Matilda Ward of Dayton against the Morning Union, while cross-examining a witness for the Union who had testified that hotel accommodations in the large cities of the east could be had at from 40 cents to 75 cents per day, by inquiring if the places referred to were not kept by the Salvation Army, says the Walla Walla Bulletin.

The case of Miss Ward against the Union grows out of the Jamestown contest put on last year by that newspaper. She claims $300 in lieu of the trip and the Union offers $175. Attorney Cain represents Miss Ward, while Attorney Blanford represents the Union.

The case has attracted more attention than any other at this time of court, and at the time the Bulletin went to press was being argued before the jury.

Postmaster Ward of Dayton, and several other people of that city, are attending the trial.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Triplett of this city are rejoicing over the birth Thursday, May 7, of twin boys. They are bright youngsters, weighing six and seven pounds. This coming of the twins make three children born to Mr. and Mrs. Triplett during the past 17 months. McMinnville feels somewhat proud of this record, for it shows that she is noted for things of far more value to the citizenship of Oregon than the mere raising of wallnuts.

THE FAREWELL PLAY

OREGON THEATER CLOSED FOR SUMMER VACATION

Streeter-Bryan Stock Company Presents the Princess of Patches to a Large Audience—Will Spend the Summer at Wallowa Lake and Will Return to Pendleton to Re-open Play House This Fall.

The Oregon theater was packed last night for the last play of the season by the Streeter-Bryan company, "Princess of Patches" being the attraction. This play was a benefit toward Miss Bryan's vacation, and that she is appreciated was shown by the liberal patronage.

"Princess of Patches" is one of the best productions on the repertoire, full of wit and humor, with an interesting romance running through. Mr. Streeter has a comic part in the play and makes a hit, as does Miss Bryan in the part of the princess. They were both encored again and again in some of their most clever specialties, singing and dancing and jokes, as was also Frank Weeks in his darky make-up, playing the banjo and dancing. Miss Foster and Harry J. Terry have difficult parts in this play, and the entire company appeared at their best last night.

After spending another week in the city six of the leading members of the company will leave for Wallowa lake to spend the summer, and Mr. Streeter announced last night that they would return late in August, when he will have an excellent stock company organized, and some new and up to date plays will be presented in September, beginning with fair week, or possibly a little sooner, but he will make a special effort to put on some of the best productions during the fair.

He will have some excellent road attractions next year, among them being Mrs. Fiske, and many others equally as good.

Mr. Streeter deserves a great deal of credit for opening the house in Pendleton, and next season he will be prepared to do far better things in a theatrical way, as this year he was unable to secure the house early enough to bill many of the best road shows. With the good stock company he will have next season, and the first class attractions he will secure, Pendleton will be supplied with excellent amusements.

Mr. Streeter stated this morning that the people of Wallowa county have requested that the company play some of their leading attractions there during their stay, and they will possibly show about two nights of each week during the summer at Joseph, Enterprise and the different towns; and the people of that section will be fortunate to have the company there for the summer, as the many campers and all will certainly enjoy them.

Dime Draws Crowds.

The Dime was well filled yesterday afternoon and evening for the change in the moving pictures, new, up to date and in beautiful colorings, with new illustrated songs. The management announces another good change for tomorrow.

The Pastime.

The Pastime will have another excellent change of moving pictures tomorrow, new and beautiful. The change yesterday pleased the usual big Sunday crowds, as the pictures were among the very best yet shown there.

Eagle Show Shop.

The Eagle show shop will have a change of moving pictures tomorrow, something entirely new and up to date. The pictures yesterday were especially attractive, and the new change promises to be equally as good.

GAME SUPPLY IS NOT DECREASING

The report made by the secretary of the commission to Hon. J. S. Whipple, forest, fish and game commissioner, shows no apparent decrease in the number of the deer in the Adirondacks, says Forest and stream. It is true that the number shipped is slightly smaller than last year, but this may be accounted for by the lack of snow and the way in which the foliage clung to the trees last autumn. The kill for the year 1907 is given as 2201 carcasses, 72 saddles and 70 heads. The record shows the kill in 1907 to have been nearly double that of the year 1900.

A number of unusually heavy deer was killed, the weights of which are given as from 200 up to 300 pounds, dressed. The latter, consigned to H. E. Battle of Utica, N. Y., could hardly have been a Virginia deer, we think. Another deer weighed 246 pounds and several others weighed between 220 and 230 pounds.

From the Catskills a buck is reported as weighing 348 pounds and one shipped from Big Indian is said to have weighed 306 pounds dressed, but the name of the hunter is not given. Two or three white, or white-spotted deer were reported killed during the past season, and in a number of cases the names of the hunters are given.

A number of deer with extraordinary horns have been reported this year. One said to have been killed by Wm. Brown, of Ilion, had three horns, another killed by Mr. Williams of Utica, had a horn on the right side of her head. A buck weighing 253 pounds killed by Chas. Streever, of Boston, is said to have carried 21 points on flattened moose-like horns.

There has been a gradual increase for three years in the number of licenses issued; thus in 1905, 67 licenses yielded $689.50; in 1906, 96 licenses yielded $1042.50; while in 1907, 123 licenses yielded $1290.50.

The report, which is very complete and interesting, speaks well for the work of the forest, fish and game commission.

COCOA IN BRAZIL.

Culture Is Being Placed on a Scientific Basis.

Alluding to the Brazilian crop of over 50,000,000 pounds of cocoa last year, Consul General George E. Anderson writes from Rio de Janeiro as follows:

In spite of temporary setbacks now and then, due to special causes, the production of cocoa in Brazil seems to be growing at a satisfactory rate, the increasing exports of the product forming one of the promising features of the Brazilian agricultural and trade situation.

The governor of the state of Para in his last message speaks of the industry as being in the most flourishing condition, and the immense increase in the world's demand seems to have more than made up for the increase in the world's production, notably the production of Brazil. At present Brazil leads in the world's production and the United States in the world's consumption.

The productive capacity of cocoa in Brazil is almost limitless. In Para and Bahia the cultivation of the crop is being placed upon a scientific basis and it is probable that the next few seasons will show an immense increase in Brazil's output.

The first conviction in Butte, Mont., under the new state gambling law occurred a few days ago, when Alvin Robbins was found guilty by a jury of dealing stud poker. His sentence was left with the court and will be passed tomorrow.

Heaven is gained by effort, not alone by results.
