NEWS OF WESTON ECHO NEWS NOTES

PIONEER PICNIC PROVES VERY SUCCESSFUL

Today is Political Day and Many Politicians Are Here—Engineer With Force of Surveyors at Work—Weston People Would Like Line to Pendleton.

Weston, May 20.—This is the last day of the pioneer picnic in Weston. It is political day, and politicians are here in great numbers. Yesterday's picnic was very successful, and altogether the picnic will be one of the most successful ever held here. Today will be devoted entirely to speeches by the politicians, and various sports. The students of the Normal will put on the play, "Uncle Rube" at the opera house also.

Elmer Taylor has returned from an extended tour through western Canada, and he says he wants no more of that cold climate.

Mrs. P. S. Rogers has gone to Wisconsin where she will spend the summer with relatives.

There are a number of the old pioneers here who have gone elsewhere in recent years. They enjoy coming back to the annual picnics.

Busy Surveyors.

Engineer E. S. Clark is in charge of a crew of surveyors for the electric line. The company that is supposed to be carrying on this work is the Oregon and Washington Traction company, which company, a few weeks ago secured the right of way for an immense power house on the south fork of the Walla Walla river. It is understood that when completed this power plant will be capable of generating sufficient force to operate lines from Walla Walla to Weston, to Wallula and to Dayton. Weston people are in hopes that there will soon be a line into Pendleton.

Born, Saturday evening, May 23, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pinkerton, a son.

PARLOR SOCIALISTS.

International Organization Is Planned and May Be Formed.

New York, May 22.—Plans for organizing an international body of "parlor socialists," to be known as the International Socialist Educational alliance and to be composed of clergymen and men of other professions, were made today at a meeting of the Christian Socialist Fellowship. The Rev. John D. Long, the Rev. Charles Vall, the Rev. E. E. Carr, Edwin Markham, the poet, Dr. M. Thorner, a Jewish rabbi, and other clergymen and literary workers, are interested in the movement.

In speaking of the objects of the international alliance, the Rev. John D. Long, secretary of the conference, said:

"It is likely that the proposed broader movement will be inaugurated by a mass meeting to be held early in June, to which all the professional classes in Greater New York, physicians, lawyers, teachers, authors and clergymen will be invited.

"It is known that large numbers of these intellectual proletarians are in sympathy with socialism, and the organization of the proposed alliance is to form a body which will develop present the ethical and cultural sides of socialism, seeking likewise to create a native literature on the subject which will appeal to the American public. It will be formed for a two fold purpose, one object being to reach the educated proletarians with the philosophy of socialism and another of training those less fortunate in the enjoyment of educational advantages in the best methods of advocating and presenting the teachings of socialism."
