

HOPE TO MAKE A "DRY" WORLD

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., June 13.— Jubilant in the spirit of wild enthusiasm at recent prohibition successes and confident of soon making this a "dry" world, the hosts of temperance are gathering in Saratoga today to celebrate during the next 10 days the centennial of the first temperance society. One hundred years ago the first total abstinence society in the world was founded at Moreau, in this county, by Dr. "Billy" J. Clark. Preparations to commemorate this event have been going forward for over a year, with the result that the World's Temperance Centennial Congress to be opened here tomorrow will likely go down in history as the greatest demonstration of its kind in the world's history. Every train into Saratoga today brings its quota of temperance leaders, men and women, and it is likely that the hotel facilities of the Spa will be taxed to the utmost to care for the mammoth assemblage of prohibitionists.

Prayers of thanksgiving for victories already won in the battle with the rum demon and petitions for divine guidance in the warfare yet to come, songs of praise and sermons by divines of international reputation will mark tomorrow's opening exercises.

The formal address of welcome will be delivered by Governor Hughes at the afternoon session of the congress in Convention hall on Monday. Oliver W. Stewart, of Georgia, will respond. Practically all of the temperance societies throughout the world and churches of all denominations will be represented, including Protestants, Catholics and Jews.

The governors of 25 states of the United States have sent official representatives and delegations are present from England, Scotland, Sweden, Germany, Hungary, Belgium, France and Ireland.

The time has been divided among 16 organizations. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions will be held daily in churches and in the convention hall, at which the temperance question will be discussed from the standpoint of historical development, the home, sociology, science, economics, legislation and education.

Among the speakers of prominence who are expected are W. H. Milton, United States senator from Florida; General A. S. Daggett, of Washington, D. C.; Rabbi Wise, of New York; Archbishop John J. Keane, of Iowa; Joshua Levering, of Baltimore; George F. Cotterill, of Seattle, national chief of Good Templars; Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens, of Portland, Me., national president of the W. C. T. U.; Charles R. Jones, of Chicago; Seaborn Wright, of Georgia; Rev. P. A. Baker, of Columbus, O., national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League; Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, Washington, D. C., superintendent of the international reform bureau; John G. Wooley, Chicago; Professor Samuel Dickie, of Albion, Mich.; Dr. Silas C. Swallow, of Harrisburg, Pa.; Rev. H. N. Pringle, of the Civic League of Maine; Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn; Rev. Dr. D. J. Burrell, of New York; Joseph Mallins, of Birmingham, Eng., national chief of the Good Templars; Tom Honeyman, of Glasgow, grand secretary of the Good Templars of Scotland, and Edward Wavrinisky, of Stockholm, member of the Swedish parliament.

Besides the formal meetings there will be auxiliary meetings for women and children, an interstate oratorical contest, and conferences of temperance leaders. A special feature will be made of a service to be held at Glen's Falls on Tuesday afternoon, at the grave of Dr. "Billy" J. Clark, and the erection of a tablet at Clark's Corners on Friday afternoon, near the spot where the first temperance society was organized.

The first society is still maintained and will attend the unveiling in a body. The gravel to be used at the congress has been made especially for the purpose from timber in the old home of "Billy" Clark.

In connection with the congress there will be a department of exhibits, including literature, historical data, scientific advertising, public utterances, foods, extracts and non-alcoholic drinks.

STORY OF DAVID TAYLOR.

Oregon Daily Journal Interviews Athena Pioneer in Portland.

The Oregon Daily Journal says of David Taylor, the respected pioneer of Athena, and father of Sheriff T. D. Taylor of this county. Mr. Taylor is in Portland attending the state pioneer association meeting. The Journal says:

One of the most interesting characters among the pioneers who are in Portland for the annual reunion is Dave Taylor of Athena, who came to Oregon 56 years ago, arriving in Portland in 1852. Mr. Taylor was at that time a boy of 12 years of age and now at nearly three score and 10 he retains his youthful appearance and his early vigor.

Perhaps no man in the northwest is better qualified to tell of his history. Mr. Taylor has been over most of the trails from California to Montana, and his life has been filled with exciting experiences. He was in reminiscent mood this morning and told of his first sight of Portland after the long trip across the plains. He said:

Ox Carts, Not Trolley Cars.

"It will be just 56 years ago October 15, since I first saw Portland. At that time the city consisted of two or three log cabins on Water street. Ox teams were the street cars then, and the streets were rife with cut by the first comers to the Columbia river.

"We had a mighty hard fight to get enough to eat that winter. Freight was packed to The Dalles on the prairie schooners and pack trains and there boats were few and far between. There was no flour and potatoes were $5 a bushel. Bacon almost out of reach and hay was $49 a ton.

Meeker Wagon a Hoax.

"I saw on the streets the wagon in which Ezra Meeker says he crossed the plains in 1852. It's all a fake. We didn't use that style of vehicle at all in those days. The wagon we did use was much the same as those in use now. A square 20-inch bed was covered with a false bottom of boards and on top of this was carried the bedding. "Between the two bottoms we stored meat, flour and other supplies and when we wished to get at the store we simply removed a board and reached for what we wanted. When the supplies were exhausted we used the boards in making graves for the dead.

"That year of '52 was fraught with ill luck for the wagon trains. Cholera was the scourge which decimated the ranks of the homeseekers. We had an easy trail to follow, for it was marked by graves. Day after day we would pass newly-made graves at every step of the journey. I lost my father, a brother and a sister before we reached the Snake river."

MASONIC MEETINGS END.

Grand Lodge and Eastern Star Closed Interesting Sessions.

The Oregon Daily Journal says of the close of the Masonic meetings in Portland:

The annual meeting of the grand chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, came to a close at noon today with the ceremony of installing the grand officers, who were elected at the Thursday afternoon session. Grand officers were installed as follows: Mrs. Jennie E. Reames, W. G. M., Klamath Falls; George Stapleton, W. G. P., Portland; Mrs. A. Antonette Stiles, A. G. M., Portland; H. T. Botts, A. G. P., Tillamook; Miss Nellie McKinley, G. S., Portland; Mrs. Clara T. Lyle, G. T., La Grande; Mrs. Jennie Blinchart, G. C., Somerville; Mrs. Pauline Rely, G. A. V., Baker City; Mrs. Mary Scott Myers, grand chaplain, The Dalles; George Hyland, G. L. Portland; Mrs. Helen L. Lambert, grand marshal, Stayton.

The reception which was planned in honor of the national grand officers, who were expected to arrive in Portland yesterday, but were detained in Montana on account of the floods, was held notwithstanding, and an entertaining musical program was rendered. Dr. James Francis Drake, presented the grand chapter with a beautiful silk flag.

Following the flag presentation the following program was rendered: Vocal solo, Miss Harwas; address of welcome, Frederick Stanley Dunn, worthy grand patron; violin solo, Miss Barker; vocal duet, Mrs. J. S. Hamilton and Mrs. A. G. Riddell.

The ritual work done by Naomi chapter of Dallas was an excellent exemplification and was highly praised by all who saw it.

"The Mystic Tie," by Myrtle chapter of Portland, was a pleasing feature of the last night's program.

Following the installation of the newly elected grand officers, the grand lodge of Oregon, A. F. and A. M. came to a close. The following grand officers who were elected Wednesday afternoon, were installed:

Grand master, Edward E. Riddle, Island City; deputy grand master, Norris R. Cox, of Portland; senior grand warden, Charles E. Wolvorton, of Portland; junior grand warden, T. M. Baldwin, of Klamath Falls; grand treasurer, W. A. Cleland, of Portland; grand secretary, James F. Robinson, of Portland; senior grand deacon, George H. Burnett, of Salem; junior grand deacon, S. S. Spencer, of Eugene; senior grand steward, H. L. Pittock, of Portland; junior grand steward, A. Kunz, of Portland; grand orator, J. H. Ackerman, of Portland; grand standard-bearer, E. A. Holmes, grand sword-bearer, T. J. Tweedy; grand marshal, J. J. Miller, and grand tyler, D. G. Tomasini.
