REGAL WEDDING FOR AMERICAN GIRL

London, June 23.—Beautiful and historic Chapel Royal, in St. James' Palace, before whose sanctuary Victoria was wedded to Prince Albert and which ever since has been held sacred to royal nuptials, was today the scene of the marriage of Miss Jean Reid, daughter of American Ambassador Reid, and John Hubert Ward. King Edward witnessed the ceremony and was first to extend felicitations to the happy groom and blushing bride. Nearly all of the members of the British royal family and the cream of the London nobility and diplomatic corps, as well as an assemblage as ever gathered at the marriage of an American girl, aided by their presence in making this the most noteworthy matrimonial alliance that the English metropolis has known in years. Following the ceremony there was a great reception at Dorchester House, the London residence of the bride's father, Whitelaw Reid, American ambassador to Great Britain and editor and owner of the New York Tribune. All London society was present at the reception and the brilliant uniforms of the ambassadors and ministers of all nations rendered the scene a highly spectacular one.

King Edward Present.

Aside from his desire to do honor to the daughter of the American ambassador, King Edward contributed the prestige of his presence and the solemnity of the Chapel Royal to the wedding through a sincere respect for the groom, who is his equerry-in-waiting. The Hon. John Hubert Ward is the first member of his majesty's household to take a bride since the accession of Edward and thus also added to the notability of the occasion. He is a brother of the Earl of Dudley, the recently appointed governor general of Australia. The wedding took place earlier than expected in order that Lord and Lady Dudley, who will leave shortly for Australia, might be present.

The bridesmaids included Miss Beatrice Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills of New York, and Miss Jessie Crocker, of San Francisco, both cousins of the bride. Among the presents received by the bride was a magnificent emerald necklace, the gems mounted on platinum, costing $5000, the gift of J. Pierpont Morgan. Ambassador Reid's chief gift was a diamond necklace, and that of Mrs. Reid a diamond tiara. King Edward, Queen Alexandria and all the members of the royal family contributed lavishly to the magnificent array of gifts, as did scores of the English nobility and every ambassador and prominent diplomat in London. A ton of house linen, woven to order on Irish looms, was given the bride by her mother.

The bride's trousseau was in keeping with the regal nature of the wedding and was mainly the production of leading Parisian creators of feminine garments. The wedding gown was the creation of Doucet and was of a striped satin mistral, adorned with magnificent needlepoint lace, draped in front in the form of a V, continuing the soule under the arms and trimmed with garlands of orange blossoms, myrtle and white roses. The drapery of lace train on the sleeves, forming a sort of fleur continuing the soule on the back. The sides of the skirt were entirely covered with the same needlepoint lace. The train was caught at the back by a garland of orange blossoms, myrtle and white roses. The splendid veil was of tulie adorned with embroidery and needlepoint lace.

The trousseau includes many other beautiful gowns of Parisian make, among them a teagown of rose mouseline de soie, an afternoon gown of old blue voile, a cream colored tailor-made costume, a decollete gown of Nile green and a muslin frock braided with crystal beads.

History of Romance.

The engagement of Miss Reid and the Hon. John Ward was officially announced on April 29, and in the interval the beautiful daughter of the American ambassador has been the pet of London society and the center of attention at innumerable smart society functions. The engagement was no surprise to London society, which had long been familiar with the attachment of the young girl and her middle-aged English suitor.

Bear Are Numerous.

That the mountains of the Cornucopia range are still the home and rendezvous for bruiser and his family is proven by a recent visit to that section by W. R. Carl and Tom Parker, says the Baker City Herald. The boys made two trips into the mountains and as a result of these two trips they have 12 fine bear skins, and two live cubs for their trouble. In speaking of the plentiness of bear in that region W. R. Parker said to a Herald reporter today: "It is surprising how many there are in the Cornucopia. We saw at least 20 bear and we shot two or three which we did not get because a rain fell after we shot them and prevented us from tracking them further. In the number we succeeded in getting there are some black bear, silver tip, and several the color of a bay horse, being a cross between a cinnamon and a grizzly."

Diamonds Stolen.

Thieves entered the workshop of the Diamond Drill company at Center Star mine, near Roseland, B. C., Sunday and carried off $12,000 worth of black diamonds used in drilling. The diamonds were owned by Fred Stone and Mr. Knight, both of Spokane. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

EVENTS IN OREGON

BUSY WEEK ALL OVER THE BIG STATE

Bankers Meet in Portland June 26 and 27—Excursions of Portland Business Men to Eugene Tomorrow—Portland Commercial Club Has 1258 Members.

Portland, June 23.—The Oregon Bankers' association will hold its next convention in Salem on Friday and Saturday, the 26th and 27th. The program will be one of the most interesting ever presented and the business men of Salem are planning an entertainment in honor of the association.

Excursion to Eugene.

On June 24 the business men of Portland will make an excursion to Eugene for the double purpose of participating in the commencement exercises at the university and witnessing the opening of the splendid new depot. Then a little later date the Portland Ad club will go to Albany as guests of the Albany Commercial club, the manager of which organization was a former president of the Ad Men's club.

Portland's Visitors.

Klamath Falls has been especially well represented at Portland during the past two or three weeks. An interesting feature was a meeting of the Klamath Falls chamber of commerce in the rooms of the Portland Commercial club, with luncheon following.

Thirteen hundred and fifty-eight is the actual membership today of the Portland Commercial club, and there are 22 applications to be considered at the regular meeting of the board of governors tomorrow. Fourteen hundred is a figure of early realization. Inquiries have come from all over the state relating to the membership of this organization, the interest probably being awakened by the recent housewarming held in the new eight-story steel home of the club.

Rivalry of the Roses.

There is a hearty and healthy rivalry between members of the Portland Commercial club in furnishing flowers for its decoration. Each day a different member is the donor, and the flowers are promised more than 10 days in advance. The ladies, too, have become enthusiastic and have added much to the effect through their taste in floral arrangements.

This year will register the greatest crop of berries and cherries that Oregon has ever produced. Quality is magnificent, quantity almost unlimited, and while humanity is enjoying this fruit, the maturing hay crop insures a big increase in the dairy output, which has been greatly benefited by as good spring pastures as were ever known in this section. Residents of the northwest should take pains to see that their eastern country friends are made familiar with the unequalled conditions which make dairying so profitable here.

Meet in Portland.

The Sixth National conclave of the Phi Delta Kappa will meet in Portland from the 6th to the 11th of July and the local chapter is arranging an elaborate series of festivities.

Insurance Society Organized.

The Oregon Society of Mutual Insurance was organized last week in the convention hall of the Portland Commercial club, and will affiliate with the national association at once. W. C. Hagerty, of McMinnville, is president. B. J. Barry of Dayton, secretary of the Oregon body.

Insurance Society Organized.

Mr. Ward is 38 years old, and a member of a family of great antiquity. He served as an under secretary in the finance office, and was in the army for a time. During the Boer war he was attached to the headquarters staff in South Africa, and was mentioned in dispatches for his services as well as made a member of the Victorian Order.

Mr. Ward has no chance of succeeding to the title, inasmuch as the Earl of Dudley has a large family.

He received the legacy of $569,000 when he became of age, and has had other legacies since.

The new Mrs. Ward has a considerable fortune in her own right and will receive a considerable addition from her father.

Prophecies have been freely made that Mr. Ward will eventually be made a baron by the king, and that he may be the successor of Lord Knolls as Edward's private secretary. Owing to the advancing age of Lord Knolls he will soon be forced to retire.
