ROADS AND TRAILS FOR OREGON RESERVES

Of the agricultural appropriation bill, passed by the last congress and appropriating $600,000 for improvement work on the national forests, $600,000 will be expended in the forest reserves of this state. There are at the present time 164 national forest reserves in the United States, embracing 166,785,926 acres. The total area of the reserves in this state is 16,331,892 acres.

T. H. Sheerard, forest supervisor, reports that the apportionment of $6000 to this state will be expended in improvement work on both sides of the Columbia river south to the divide, between the Santiam and McKenzie rivers.

This territory is now known as the Cascade north and the Bull Run national forests, but, after July 1, will be known as the Oregon and Bull Run national forests.

The money will be used, first, for building four trails and improving the means of communication through the forests, and, second, for constructing headquarters cabins and pasture fences for the use of the forest rangers.

Trail on Cascade Slope.

As soon as the snow is sufficiently out of the mountains to permit of trail construction at high altitudes, work will be pushed on a north and south trail paralleling the crest of the Cascades on the west slope. This trail will be known as the Summit trail and will connect the wagon road which crosses the summit of the mountains from the valley of the Sandy river to Wamie, in Wasco county, with the wagon road which crosses the summit of the mountains from the Santiam River valley to the Deschutes, that is, the Cascade Mountain & Willamette Valley wagon road. This trail will cost $200.

Work is already begun on the east and west trail crossing the upper waters of the Clackamas River and climbing the summit to connect with the north and south trail on the summit. The trail, when completed, will open a new line of communication from Estacada through range 6 to the summit of the mountains. It will be designated as the Clackamas River and Summit trail and will cost about $1000.

Work Begun From Detroit.

Work has begun on a trail from Detroit, the present eastern terminus of the Corvallis & Eastern Railway, south along the mountains in which are the peaks known as the Three Pyramids, to the Willamette Valley & Cascade Mountains wagon road, connecting with it at a point near Fish Lake. The cost of this trail, which will be called the Detroit-Pyramids trail, will be about $1600.

About $1000 will be spent on the construction of a new trail in the Bull Run forest. It is calculated greatly to assist the forest rangers in the work of patrolling and protecting the watershed of the City of Portland, in accordance with the act of Congress, April 25, 1904.

The remaining $1000 will be used in the construction of headquarters for the convenience of forest rangers.

There are now ten such headquarters and this number will be increased to 14.

STUDIED BEER MAKING.

Walla Walla Brewers Ready to Supply Prohibition Territory.

Charles Geiser, foreman of the Betz Brewery, and Waldmar Stockdar, foreman of the Stahl Brewery, returned yesterday afternoon from Chicago, where they had been taking a week's course in the fermentation institute which teaches the art of making the new temperance drink, says the Walla Walla Union. "Near-Beer," destined to become the prevailing beverage in those communities where the "lid" has been put on.

Mr. Geiser and Mr. Stockdar have ordered the special machinery necessary to the manufacture of the new beverage, and as soon as it has arrived and has been installed, the new drink will be brewed and exported to Oregon points. It is thought that it will be several weeks before the manufacture of "Near-Beer" can be taken up in Walla Walla.

The gentlemen brought with them from Chicago a number of bottles of the new beer, and much interest was manifested by people of this city when samples were passed out last night. The "Near-Beer" is as near like lager beer as anything can be, with the one exception that the percentage of alcohol contained in the former is much less than in the latter.

BIG CROP OF GRAPES.

Lewiston-Clarkston District Will Yield Well.

Indications point to a heavy yield of grapes this fall, as the vines are heavy with blooms and conditions are better than usual, says a Lewiston item. Though the crop at the present time is two weeks late, the harvest will not be delayed unless unfavorable weather continues. Since European varieties have been introduced in the valley Lewiston has been famous for its table grapes, which rival the best California product.

Grapes are grown here for wine making and table use. Robert Schlesiicher has the finest vineyard in the state and his European table grapes command the highest market price. Charles E. Schaeffer of Clarkston grows more wine grapes and produces more wine than any one in the valley, but his exotic varieties are not numerous. Mr. Schlesiicher will harvest not less than 75 tons and it is entirely probable that his vineyard will produce 100 tons. Mr. Schaeffer will harvest about the same quantity, but it is a question of a short time until he will grow several hundred tons, as he has 40 acres in vines that will come into full bearing in another year.

OLDEST CARRIER DEAD.

Samuel L. Swisher of Albany Passed Away.

Samuel L. Swisher, the oldest rural mail carrier in the United States, died at his home in this city this morning, after an illness of several months, says an item from Albany, Oregon.

He was 75 years old and was born December 16, 1833, in Franklin county, Ohio. He was a schoolmate of two men who afterwards became secretaries of state of the United States. He was a graduate of Brown university, Providence, R. I., in a class noted for distinguished men and was himself a brilliant scholar.

While a student at Brown he was intimately associated with Richard Olney, secretary of state under Cleveland, and John Hay, who held a like position in McKinley's cabinet. He was in school three years with these men. Olney graduated in '56, Swisher in '57 and Hay in '58.

After graduation he was instructor in Illinois schools. In '78 he became head master of the cavalry depot at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., remaining till 1883. He came to Oregon seven years ago, took the examination for rural mail carrier and was assigned to route 2, which he has carried since 1903. He is survived by a widow, two brothers and a sister.

PARTIAL ECLIPSE SUNDAY.

Sun's Face Will Be Obscured by Shadow 6:20 to 7:52 a. m.

There will be a partial eclipse of the sun on the morning of June 23. It will take place in this state in the morning from 6:20 to 7:52 o'clock.

The eclipse will assume various shapes as it is viewed from different parts of the globe. Here about one third of the surface of the sun will be obscured. The moon passes between the earth and the sun and eats out a large circular piece of its brilliance. In other parts of the country the phenomenon will take the shape of a ring eclipse. In other words, the moon will come in exact line between the earth and the sun, obscuring the whole of the orb except the rim, which will shine out in a perfect ring of light.

When the moon is closer to the earth it blackens the visage entirely and temporarily hands a pall over the earth. At present it is too far away to intercept the whole of the sun's rays.

The ring will not be visible in this state but the simple eclipse will be worth seeing.

New Organ for Mormon Tabernacle.

The new pipe organ at the tabernacle will be formally opened to the public with a concert Saturday evening, June 27, says the La Grande Star. This will be the greatest musical event in the history of La Grande. Organist John L. McMillan of the Salt Lake tabernacle, will also appear in a number of solos and in duets with Mr. C. P. Ferrin of this city. In all particulars the forthcoming concert may be classed as the musical event of La Grande's history. The tabernacle was constructed by the sect known as the Latter Day Saints, and this was done without calling on anyone outside for assistance of any kind. The tabernacle was built with a two-fold object in view—that of providing a place for religious worship and to have a place of sufficient room for any public meeting that might be desired.

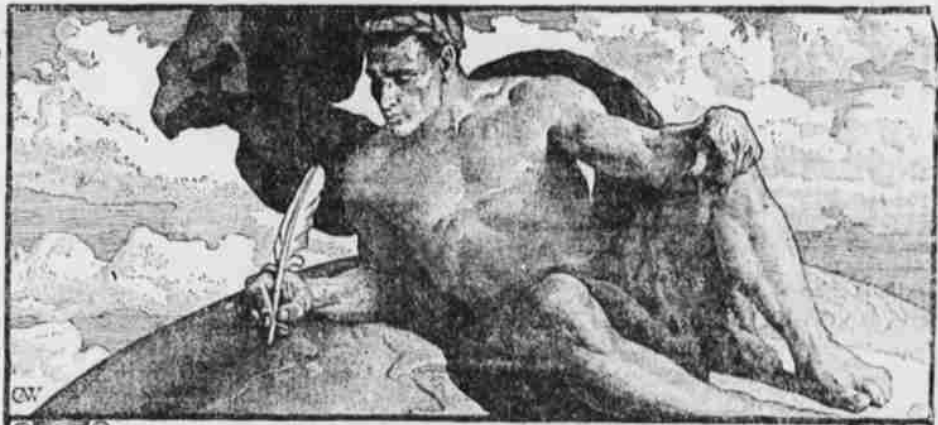

The tabernacle is open to any worthy public meeting which the people of La Grande may desire to hold. With such a building at the disposal of the public La Grande is in a position to invite any convention or meeting at any time and the invitation may not only be extended to the residents of the city, but to the county and to the state.

The tabernacle and the pipe organ are free to any worthy public object. It is now time for the public to show appreciation of any institution that is a credit to the people who constructed it and a convenience to all without regard to creed.

Eagles' Building Complete.

The magnificent new building erected by the Eagles is finished and the lodge paraphernalia has been moved in, says the Baker City Herald. It is likely the dedication will occur shortly and it will be made a gala occasion for all the Eagles of eastern Oregon.

If you see it in the East Oregonian, it's so.

BLOOD POISON HUMILIATING-VILE-DESTRUCTIVE

The first symptom of Contagious Blood Poison is usually a little sore or ulcer, which is quickly followed by a red rash on the skin, swollen glands in the groin, falling hair, ulcerated mouth and throat, and often copper colored spots on different parts of the body. As the blood becomes more fully contaminated with the poison, pustular eruptions and sores break out on the flesh, and in extreme cases the nerves and bones are attacked and the finger nails drop off. Then the sufferers find themselves diseased from head to foot with this humiliating, vile and destructive poison. No other disease is so highly contagious; many an innocent person has been inoculated by handling the clothing or using the toilet articles of an infected person. There is but one certain, reliable cure for Contagious Blood Poison, and that is S. S. S. It attacks the disease in the right way by going down into the circulation, and neutralizing and forcing out every particle of the poison. It makes the blood pure and rich, tones up the system, and completely and permanently cures this disease. S. S. S. has cured thousands of cases of Contagious Blood Poison. If you are suffering with this debasing and destructive disease begin the use of S. S. S. and get the poison out of your blood before it permanently wrecks your health. We have a home treatment book on the disease which we will send free to all who wish it, and in addition our physicians will give without charge any medical advice needed. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.
