FRANCIS E. LEUPP IS COMING HERE

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS VISITS HERE

Significance of Visit to Umatilla Reservation Not Fully Understood—An Official of Much Importance—Coming Looked Forward to With Interest—May Have Important Bearing on Future Policy.

Francis E. Leupp, commissioner of Indian affairs, is to make a visit to the Umatilla reservation and it is probable that he will be here in the near future. Information to the effect that the head of the bureau is to be here has been received by Major McFratridge, but his exact date of coming is not known. Nor is the extent or purpose of the coming visit known to the local agent.

By virtue of his position as commissioner of Indian affairs, Mr. Leupp is the head of the Indian service in the United States and is an official of much importance. Accordingly his coming visit will be looked forward to with interest by local people and especially by those closely interested in reservation affairs. While his visit may be of no special significance it is possible that a personal visit from him may have an important bearing on the future administration of the reservation.

In the past there have been many points of contention between the government and white renters on the reservation. However, since the arrival of Agent McFratridge peace has reigned undisturbed and apparently there are now no serious differences to be adjusted.

HARVEST IS GREAT; LABORERS ARE FEW

Farmers Are Again With the Problem of Getting the Needed Help.

Grain-cutting time is near at hand in the wheat-producing sections of the interior and the farmers are again confronted with the always serious problem of securing the needed help for the harvesting of the crop. The cutting of fall-sown grain in the three northwestern states usually begins early in July and it is not until the latter part of August that the crop of spring and fall grain is gathered, but this year the season is a little late.

While it is generally conceded that the wheat yield of the northwest this year will be slightly, at least, under that of 1907, the task of gathering the crop will be no small one, and for this purpose a small army of men will be needed in the wheat fields during the two harvest months. With mills and factories more or less generally suspended as a result of the late financial depression, logging camps and sawmills closed down for the time and railroad construction work curtailed, it was believed that there would be no difficulty in securing the help needed by the farmers; but reports have already reached the city from some of the principal wheat districts that help is scarce. Offers of wages from $2.50 to $5 a day, with board and lodging provided have not yet drawn the forces that will be needed through the harvest season.

It is said that there are now on the coast thousands of idle men, who were thrown out of employment by the closing of mills and other industries some time ago, and other thousands are without employment in many of the mining districts of the interior. Many of these will of course take to the harvest fields, but it is the experience of farmers that sawmill men and others who have been engaged in the lumber industry do not usually take kindly to harvest field work and not many of them are drawn into it.

The use of combined harvesting and threshing machines has in a large way disposed of the labor problems in many districts, but even with these machines thousands of men are needed, and in many places the greater part of the grain is yet cut with binders. In districts where men are building homes on government land, there will be no serious labor shortage. In other parts the farmers will have to get help as best they can.

It will be of interest to farmers this year to know that grain bags will in all probability cost materially less than a year ago. In Portland standard Calcutta bags are now quoted at 6 3/4 to 7 cents apiece, as against an average price of 8 cents last year. This means a reduction of $10 to $15 a thousand from the cost of bags a year ago. Bags of domestic manufacture, which comprise but a small part of the quantity used every year, are held at about the same figures as the imported article.

The bag supply for the season is already largely contracted for, and in some of the wheat districts it is reported that the farmers, with a view to getting bags at low prices, some time ago made contracts for supplies at prices considerably higher than those now prevailing. Local dealers say there is small probability of any advance this season in bag prices over present quotations.

The wheat yield of the inland empire this year is yet a matter of speculation, and estimates on the probable output vary widely. Some of the local grain men hold that the crop will be 25 to 30 per cent under that of last year. Some estimate the output at 50,000,000 to 65,000,000 bushels. It will be impossible until the harvest is well under way to make anything like an accurate guess on the size of the crop.

SHEEP INCREASING.

Australia, Sheep Country of the World, Has Larger Flocks.

Sheepmen of this county will be interested in some statistics regarding the sheep industry in Australia contained in the last issue of the American Sheep Breeder. Australia is universally recognized as the sheep country of the world, and the statistics given show that the number of sheep is increasing.

In 1905 Australia sheared 74,000,000 sheep; in 1906, 82,000,000, while in 1907 the number had increased to 88,000,000. There are now 109,000,000 sheep in Australia and the tributary islands composing Australasia. Last year the United States had but 38,000,000 sheep.

Fourth of July Social.

In a Fourth of July social held at the home of G. A. Hamblen last evening, 35 or 40 members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church, were well entertained. For the occasion the house was appropriately decorated in red, white and blue and firecrackers were given as prizes in the games played. Miss Ruby Whittemore served as the goddess of plenty.

Rutherford has sold his interest in the Pastime amusement parlors, located in the basement of the Workingmen's Clothing company building, to George O'Daniel, formerly engaged in the furniture business. The firm name will now be Molter & O'Daniel. Rutherford will go to North Yakima, where he has an interest in an amusement parlor.

FIRE AT UKIAH.

Blaze Destroys Chilson Home and Contents—No Insurance.

The home of B. F. Chilson, near Ukiah, was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon. The house, with most of its contents, was entirely burned and in addition a woodshed in which some tools were stored was also burned. No insurance was carried by Mr. Chilson and as a result he is a heavy loser by the blaze. Aside from his ranch property, which he now wishes to sell, Mr. Chilson conducts a lumber business in Ukiah.
