

NATIONAL GUARD FOR COAST WORK

VOLUNTEER ARTILLERY WILL SERVE AS RESERVE.

Adjutant General Finzer Issues Order for Organization of Force at Astoria July 6—First Company on the Coast — Result of Recent Conference at Washington.

Organization of a company of volunteer coast artillery, to serve as a supplementary force in the Columbia river fortifications should war occur, is to be effected at Astoria July 6, at 8 p. m., says the Oregonian. Orders to this effect were issued Saturday from the office of Adjutant General W. E. Finzer. As shown by this order 70 Astoria young men are now on the roll in readiness for mustering into the service.

This action is the result of the conference of coast adjutant generals with the war department last winter. At the time relations with Japan were very much strained, the war department sent for the adjutant generals of Oregon, Washington and California. The result of the conference, which was held at Washington, D. C., was that organization of coast artillery companies was ordered in all three states.

At the time the one obstacle was proper adjustment of the new troops, but this was obviated when congress lately passed a bill making it incumbent upon the government to furnish all national guard troops with full equipment.

General Robert Shaw Oliver, acting secretary of war, immediately upon the passage of the law, communicated with General Finzer regarding the raising of a coast artillery company at Astoria, and with the cooperation of C. H. Abercrombe, city attorney at Astoria, easily secured the required membership. The mustering order follows:

Order for New Troops. GENERAL ORDERS NO. 19. Headquarters Oregon National Guard, Adjutant General's Office, Portland, Or., June 27, 1908:

1. C. H. Abercrombe and 69 other citizens of Astoria, Or., subject to military duty, having made application to be organized into a military company under the laws and regulations of the Oregon National Guard, they are directed to assemble in Astoria, Or., Monday, July 6, 1908, at 8 o'clock p. m., for physical examination. All applicants for enlistment having successfully passed the physical examination will be mustered into the service of the state.

2. Captain Martin E. Marcellus, assistant surgeon, will proceed to Astoria on the date and be present at the hour specified in paragraph one in order to conduct the physical examination of all applicants for enlistment into the service of the state. The expense incurred is necessary in the military service.

Holman Mustering Officer. 3. First Lieutenant Richard W. Holman, third infantry, is designated as mustering officer, and will proceed to Astoria, Or., Monday, July 6, 1908. The expenses incurred is necessary for the military service.

1. This organization will be known as first company coast artillery corps, and will be mustered in Thursday, July 9, 1908, at 8:30 o'clock p. m. 5. Immediately upon completion of muster, an election for captain will be held. First Lieutenant Richard W. Holman, third infantry, is hereby designated as inspector of election. By order of the commander-in-chief,

W. E. FINZER, Adjutant General. First Company on Coast.

The new company will be the very first organized on the Pacific coast, although Washington and California are to take similar action at an early date. With the difficulty encountered in securing regulars to occupy coast garrisons, the value of the national guard coast artillerymen is apparent.

Dallas was made the station of an infantry company Thursday night, when General Finzer mustered in 80 men at that place. C. D. Chorpeling was elected captain. The company will be equipped at once out of government supplies. New Springfield rifles, khaki and blue uniforms and full equipment is now en route for the new troops from the quartermaster's department at Washington, D. C. Other troops are to be organized from time to time. The government is favoring the mustering in of new guard troops and Oregon is assured of at least five more companies of infantry and possibly a troop of cavalry. Later the two Oregon regiments will be brigaded.

THE JUDGE AND THE VIRAGO

An Ancient Joke of Which There Are Many Modern Versions.

The following tale was translated from a very old Chinese book for Collier's Weekly:

A certain magistrate upon opening his court observed one of his litigors whose face was covered with wounds and asked him what was the matter. Replied the litigor, "Yesterday evening I was reclining and enjoying the fresh air under my grape arbor, which was suddenly upset by a gust of wind and fell on me and caused these injuries."

But the judge was skeptical and said: "That is too thin. It is easy to see that the marks on your face are from scratches from nails. It must be that you have had a row with your wife and got a clawing from her. Is this not so?"

The litigor crimsoned all over and replied, "Your honor has truly guessed it."

Then said the judge: "Why is your wife so fierce as this? Wait till I summon her and give her a beating and you your revenge."

While he was yet speaking the judge's own wife suddenly came out from the house and fiercely said, "Who is this you are going to beat?"

The magistrate hastily announced to the litigors and 't'ing ch'ai t'i': "This court stands adjourned. Disperse instantly. It seems as though the court's grape arbor is also about to collapse!"

THE QUEST OF BEAUTY.

"Making Up" Is a Very Ancient Feminine Art.

"Making up," as applied to the appearance, is by no means as modern an art as many people imagine.

In the days of Roman supremacy the women tinted their eyebrows with black in emulation of "ox eyed Venus." They painted their faces, sprinkled themselves with perfume and even wore false hair or tinted their own locks in accordance with the prevailing fashion.

The Greek ladies of the same period employed maids who rubbed out their mistress' wrinkles, "decorated" her face with red and white paint and darkened her eyebrows. It was then also the fashion to coat the face with white of egg and goose grease to protect it from the sun and wind. It is even said that they had a recipe for turning blue eyes to black.

These fashions all had their origin in Italy, where in later years the notorious Lucrezia Borgia is said to have dyed her hair different colors, according to her fancy of the moment.

In England in the eighteenth century many women, among them Lady Coventry, died from the effects of rouge. So in all ages "beauty at all costs" was the motto of "smart" ladies.—Pearson's Weekly.

Tennyson's Terror.

There are many stories of Tennyson in the Duke of Argyll's book, "Passages From the Past," and one of the most characteristic relates to the time when the marriage of his grace, then the Marquis of Lorne, and Princess Louise was in the air. One day Tennyson had a number of guests at luncheon, among whom was the Marquis of Lorne. In the course of talk the marquis told Tennyson, then poet laureate, that the queen liked his new volume.

"I am glad to hear it," Tennyson said in his sonorous, slow, musical bass voice. "I have given a good account of her in that volume, but the newspapers don't like my rhymes—say they are bad. I live in terror," he continued, "of any of the queen's family marrying and of hearing from her that she hopes I will write something. I have no news of that kind yet, but I live in terror of it."

This with a solemnly sly wink.

Hitting the Pipe.

When Jones got home the other night he found the family in a panic and the house being flooded from a burst water pipe. The first thing he did was to scold his wife for not having sense enough to go down to the cellar and hammer up the supply pipe to prevent the water from escaping. Then he went downstairs and was soon heard hammering vigorously. After some minutes' strenuous work, giving one last mighty blow, he asked, "How is it now?"

"There is no difference in the flow of the water," his wife calmly replied, "but as the light has gone out I very much fear you have hammered up the gas pipe."—Exchange.

The Garden of Eden.

The passage in Genesis in which the location of the garden of Eden seems to be indicated has long been a bone of contention among theologians and Bible students generally. The discussion of the subject has been as ingenious as it has been fruitless. The garden has been located all over Asia. The Biblical account would seem to place Eden in the old Mesopotamia, the region of the "great rivers," the Euphrates and Tigris.—New York American.

Not Really Necessary.

Weeping Relative—Oh, my dear, the doctor says he doesn't expect you to live much longer! Stubborn Invalid—Yes, but won't you please pause and think of how long I have lived already without any expectations on his part?—Chicago News.

Poor Food.

Fond Mother—To be quite frank, doctor, the poor girl has been eating her heart out. Brusque Old Physician—Hail! When will young people learn to eat prudently? (He leaves four kinds of medicine.)—Puck.

Let every one look to himself and none will be lost.—Dutch Proverb.

AN INNOVATION

SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW IN BOOKLETS

Intensely Interesting Report on Dairying in Oregon to Be Had for the Asking — Portland-Eugene Excursion a Complete Success.

(Special Correspondence.)

Portland, June 28.—There is an intense competition between the different communities of Oregon in issuing attractive and convincing literature. Many of the publications circulated to draw attention to this state today are superior to the most ambitious product of the metropolitan printers 10 years ago. Up to the present time the most artistic booklet printed in the state is one just gotten out by the Yamhill County Development League. Its reproductions of raspberries, cherries, prunes and grapes are done in natural colors, and like the picture in the old fable, would almost deceive the birds.

Dairy Report.

Secretary W. L. Crissey of the Oregon State Dairy association, has already for circulation the report of that body for the past year. It is very much the most comprehensive reports which has appeared concerning any dairy meeting on the Pacific coast, and Mr. Crissey will furnish a copy to anyone interested, upon request. Oregon has grown wonderfully in fruit, agriculture and general industries, but dairying holds the record for greatest increase, dairy products having risen from a value of $500,000 annually five years ago to $17,000,000 in 1907.

Cherry Carnival.

The Dalles business men have invited the business men of Portland to attend their Cherry Carnival Wednesday, July 1, and many people will make the trip from this city, either by boat or rail.

Transportation Question.

An intensely interesting meeting vital to the future of Portland, Oregon and the northwest, is called for tomorrow at the convention hall of the Portland Commercial club. "Transportation questions of deepest interest to this section will be discussed.

Eugene Excursion.

Portland's excursion to Eugene was one of the most successful and delightful events that ever took place in this state. The Portlanders had a choir along, which sang: "A Lane county drink We are willing to buy. What do they drink In a county that's dry?"

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of Pendleton Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—Backache, sideache, headache, Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

Mrs. J. T. Galloway, living on C. St., Elgin, Ore., says: "Judging from the benefit I derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills I can only speak of them as being a reliable remedy for the kidneys. I used them principally for a severe pain across my back, which had annoyed me for some time. The results that followed the use of the first box were so beneficial that I continued taking them and since that time my back has given me no trouble. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
