NAMES AND AREAS OF NEW RESERVES

The forestry department has just sent out the following bulletin concerning the redistricting and renaming of eastern Oregon forest reserves:

The second step in the comprehensive plan of redistricting the national forests in the western states has just been made by the president in signing executive orders which will change the names and boundaries of the forests in Oregon, says the Bulletin. The only other state in which these plans have been completed is Idaho, but it is expected that the work of redistricting in all the national forest states will be finished and the changes announced in the next few days.

No addition to forest area is involved in the plans for redistricting in any of the states of the northwest. The object of the work is to equalize the areas of administrative units and to arrange their boundaries in such a manner as to promote the most efficient and practical administration of the forests.

It will enable officers of the forest service to give prompt attention to all forest business and further the interests and add to the convenience of stockmen, lumbermen, miners and all other users or settlers in the national forests. The Oregon national forests which will be effected by this rearrangement are as follows:

A new forest to be known as the Umatilla will contain 50,176 acres and will consist of all of the Heppner and of the northwestern portion of the Blue mountains forest. It is located in Morrow, Umatilla, Grant and Wheeler counties.

This forest will continue to be administered by Supervisor Thomas E. Chidsey with headquarters at Heppner, Oregon.

The forest to be known as the Whitman will have an area of 1,264,729 acres and will consist of the northeast portion of the Blue mountains forest which is in general the area formerly known as the "Blue Mountains (W) National Forest." It is located in Umatilla, Union, Baker and Grant counties and will be under the administration of Supervisor Henry Ireland with headquarters at Sumpter, Oregon.

The new Malheur national forest is what has been formerly known as the "Malheur Division of the Blue Mountains" and will embrace 1,153,458 acres. It consists of the southeastern portion of the "Blue Mountain (W) Forest" and is located in Umatilla, Union, Baker and Grant counties. This forest will continue under the administration of Supervisor Cy J. Bingham with headquarters at John Day, Oregon.

The forest to be known as the Deschutes will consist of that portion of the Blue Mountain forest formerly known as "Blue Mountain (W)", the northern portion of the Fremont, and certain townships of the Cascades containing 1,475,480 acres. It is located in Crook, Lake, Klamath, Grant and Harney counties. The forest will be administered by Supervisor A. S. Ireland with headquarters at Prineville, Oregon.

The Best Pills Ever Sold.
"After doctoring 15 years for chronic indigestion and spending over two hundred dollars, nothing has done me as much good as Dr. King's New Life Pills. I consider them the best pills ever sold," writes B. F. Ayscove of Ingleside, N. C. Sold under guarantee at Tallman & Co.'s drug store, 25c.

WEEK OF HOT SUNSHINE.
Lack of Moisture is Noticed All Over Oregon.

The weather report from the Portland bureau is as follows:
The week on the whole was unfavorable on account of the wide range of temperature and the lack of sufficient moisture. The temperature in a number of counties were very close to the frost mark on the mornings of the 27th and 28th. During the opening and closing days of the week high temperatures prevailed and the winds were moderately strong and very drying.

Light rain fell during the middle of the week in a number of western counties, but none of consequence was reported in any of the eastern counties and the drought in the latter district is becoming more and more serious as the season advances.

Light hail fell in Gilliam and Umatilla counties on one or two days.

The sunshine during the week was nearly normal.

Columbia River Valley.
Cascade Locks, Wasco county, Val. W. Tomkins.—Cloudy and cool weather, with brisk westerly winds, prevailed during the week, changing to clear and warm on Sunday.

Hood River, Wasco county, H. L. Hasbrouck.—The week was cool, with strong west winds prevailing. Showers occurred on the 25th, 26th, 27th, with warmer weather on the 27th.

The Dalles, Wasco county, S. L. Brooks.—The week has been clear and unseasonably cool. High west winds have prevailed. A slight sprinkle of rain fell on Friday evening.

Mountain Park, Wasco county, Raymond Markley.—The fore and latter parts of the week were cool and cloudy, but Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday were clear.

Wasco, Sherman county, J. R. Howell.—The weather was greatly clear, with no rain. Moderate westerly winds prevailed.

Bialock, Gilliam county, S. W. Long.—The weather during the week was warm and generally clear, with no rain.

TAMMANY'S DENVER TRIP TO COST $115,000

New York, June 2.—There is hurry and bustle today at the wigwam of Tammany, where the finishing touches are being added to the preparations for the start to Denver tomorrow. About 650 braves will make up the party. They expect to have a good time, under the leadership of Big Chief Murphy, and they expect to pay at least $115,000 for it. This is the most modest estimate of those in charge of the de luxe excursion to the mile-high town. The arrangements include the provision of a liberal quantity of all varieties of snake-bite remedy. The braves have heard that there are lots of serpents out in the wild and woolly and undiscovered country to which they are going and they will not go unprepared.

Five special trains will carry 650 braves to the great pow-wow. Two trains will go over the New York Central, two over the Pennsylvania and one over the Erie railroad. All will be made up of cars de luxe.

Upon arriving in Denver the Tammany men will parade with martial music before going to headquarters at the Brown Palace hotel. They expect to make a fine appearance, headed by Big Chief Charles F. Murphy.

The cost of transportation for each brave will be $60 the round trip, with $22 extra for a berth. It is estimated that each man will eat—and drink—$19 worth.

The total cost of transportation is figured at $65,000, with $50,000 more to make a big show in Denver.

"Tom" Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall, the most famous man of that name east of Pike's Peak, has charge of the excursion. So the trip is bound to be a success, no matter who is nominated.

Maurice Featherston, who is not on good terms with Charles F. Murphy, has arranged to lodge his delegates away from the rest of the Tammany braves. When Secretary Tom Smith went to Denver some weeks ago to engage quarters for the Tammany contingent he included in his arrangements lodgings for the Featherston men. But Featherston has obtained special accommodations for himself and his men. He thinks that he and his friends will enjoy themselves more and feel less restrained if they are lodged under some other roof than that which covers the Tammany chief.

William J. Bryan's representatives in this city have engaged a special train for themselves and other admirers of the Peerless One who wish to attend the convention. The trip will cost $118, including meals, and at Denver the Bryanites will sleep in the cars. The train will be stopped at Lincoln, Neb., for a visit to Mr. Bryan at his home.

No Humbug.
No humbug claims have to be made for Foley's Honey and Tar, the well known remedy for coughs, colds and lung troubles. The fact that more bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar are used than any other cough remedy is the best testimony of its great merit. Why then risk taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar costs you no more and is safe and sure. Pendleton Drug Co.

Johnson Boomers.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—Several Johnson boomers for Minnesota are already in Denver or on the way and a considerable addition to the ranks will leave the Twin Cities within the next day or two, determined to make the best showing possible for their candidate. While very enthusiastic, there is little real hope of landing the presidential plum for Minnesota. Talk of Johnson as the vice presidential candidate still continues, despite the declaration of the governor's friends that he would not accept the nomination.

SOME DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES---C. A. CULBERSON

Washington, July 2.—When the democrats in the United States senate after the loss of Gorman, the astute politician from Maryland, began looking about for a new leader, they passed the brilliant Bailey, the argumentative Bacon, the eloquent Daniel, and the matter of fact Simmons, and cast their choice on Charles A. Culberson of Texas.

When a great party makes a decision of such moment there must be among its members a supreme confidence that the man of their choice possesses the necessary qualifications of resourcefulness in debate, alertness of intelligence, political sagacity, and the ability to command the support of his colleagues.

In none of these important matters has Culberson been found wanting. The position of leader of the minority in the senate is a thankless one at best. But Culberson has made the most possible out of it, and has realized as much from it as his colleagues had any reason to expect.

Always vigilant, he has fought for and maintained the rights of his fellow democrats on the floor without pushing himself forward to offensive prominence. In fact if any criticism might be made it would be that he lacked aggressiveness as a leader. Possessed of a retiring modesty—and perhaps knowing the men with whom he had to deal—he has never had recourse to the party whip as an offset to the big stick.

A Six Footer.
Culberson is 53 years old, but except for his curly, iron-gray hair, it would be difficult to believe it. A trifle below six feet in height, he is erect, well built and active, with a clear complexion and merry gray eyes that can, at times, get very steady and piercing.

Himself an athlete and a boxer of no mean degree while at college, Culberson is responsible for the fact that no exhibitions of the "manly art of self defense" can be pulled off in Texas. While governor of the state in 1885 the match was arranged between James J. Corbett and "Bob" Fitzsimmons for the title of champion pugilist of the world, then held by the former. Searching about for a place where the laws did not prohibit such exhibitions, it was decided to fight the contest at Dallas. As soon as this announcement was made, Culberson declared that he would prevent it. It was pointed out to him that there was no law of Texas against boxing, but one bright day Culberson proceeded to one of the busiest corners of Dallas and mounting upon a box soon had a crowd gathered around him. The burden of his speech was something like this: "Do you men of Texas propose to allow a prize fight to be held in our state? Are you willing to let these men from New York and California may that the law won't allow them to fight at home, but they can come down to the rowdy state of Texas and pull off a ring battle? Do you want to have our state disgraced before the whole civilized world? and much more along that line. Some one in the crowd called out that there was no law against it. "No," replied Culberson, "but there soon will be."

Against Public Sentiment.
The public sentiment in the state was in favor of allowing the fight to go on and it was advertised as the greatest battle in the history of the ring. Three days after his street speech, Governor Culberson called a special session of the legislature, directing attention to the lack of law on the subject and declaring that every legislator with a decent regard for the opinion of mankind should hasten to enact a proper statute. The bill was passed and there has been no prize fighting in Texas since.

Old timers around Washington well remember old Dave Culberson, father of the present senator, with his great shock of hair and his slow, cumbersome method of getting about. Although a pretty successful politician—he was in congress for 22 years—he conceived the idea that his heavy gait was a drawback to him. So he determined that "Charley," who even at that early age frequently accompanied his father on his political campaigns, should be trained differently. With this end in view he sent him to the Virginia military institute. It is to the drill that he received there that the erect, military carriage of the senator now is due.

Admitted to Bar.

After taking a law course at the University of Virginia, Culberson was admitted to the bar in 1877 and, returning to Dallas, entered partnership with his father. He became one of the most successful lawyers in the state. Elected county attorney of Marion county in 1890, he was soon afterwards made attorney general of the state, which office he held until 1894. When he was elected governor, this place he held for two terms and then came to the senate, defeating for the nomination two such veterans as Roger Q. Mills, the tariff revisionist, and General John H. Reagan, formerly a member of Jeff Davis' cabinet.

In April of last year, on invitation of both houses of the Texas legislature, Culberson gave his views on the trust question, incidentally opposing the government ownership of railroads idea advanced by Bryan. In the course of that speech Culberson said:

"The overshadowing evil of the generation is combination of interests which resulted in monopolies and the state officials can render no greater service to the public than to drive from this state every trust, whether organized here or elsewhere. Let us, in addition, send the magnates to the penitentiary and give notice to the world that Texas will not tolerate these public plunderers."

His Opinion of Roosevelt.
He expressed his opinion of President Roosevelt in the following terms: "He is extravagant and wasteful in the expenditure of public money; he has entangled us in alliances with foreign nations; he believes in a world-wide expansion and the colonization of alien peoples; he has no conception of the fundamental distinction between the three great divisions of government; he favors an absolute and personal government rather than one regulated by law; and, finally, he is a federalist of the most dangerous character; believing practically in the rights of the state, and in the absorption by the United States of every governmental power worthy of the name."

Speaking of Bryan's railway ownership doctrine, Culberson said: "Much as I am attached to him personally, much as I admire his blameless life, his unquestioned sincerity, his ardent patriotism and his splendid eloquence and certain as now seems his nomination for the presidency, I cannot conceive that his views on this question will ever receive the approval of the democracy of the country."

Coast Is For Bryan.

San Francisco, July 2.—The democracy of the Pacific coast is solid for Bryan. All doubt as to this has been dispelled by the enthusiasm of the delegates, who will be on the ground early to boost Bryan, and by the large number of party leaders and politicians who will go from the coast states to Denver with the same object in view. Reports received here today indicate that the coast states will have a larger representation of shouters at the Denver convention than at any previous gathering in the history of the country.

To Nominate President.

New York, July 2.—Another presidential candidate will enter the race as a result of the national convention here of the national convention of the socialist labor party, to begin tomorrow. Many delegates have arrived, but no agreement on a presidential ticket has been reached. Overtures with the socialist party leaders have apparently failed and Debs will not be endorsed. By reason of his South American birth, Daniel DeLeon, leader of the party, is not eligible for the presidential nomination.

Clans Gathering in South.

Atlanta, Ga., July 2.—All over the south today the democratic clans are gathering to go to Denver and within the next day or two special trains will be speeding toward the Colorado metropolis, loaded to the guards with the pick and pink of Dixie democracy. While the Georgia delegates are in no wise enthusiastic for Bryan, most of them realize that opposition is hopeless and they will probably fall in line with the other southern delegations which are committed to the Nebraskan.

Harry Orchard, the self confessed murderer of Governor Steunenberg, and many others, will probably have his death sentence commuted to life imprisonment, as the state regards his testimony in possible future trials of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners as of too great value to be lost.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription." The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent of enteral cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as miliary colitis), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or incurable stages of these affections, it is often successful in effecting a cure.

"The Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of all kinds of diseases—those of the female system, especially those of the reproductive organs, and is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines. The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of any known composition, any so-called "imitation."

Dr. Pierce's Pills, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
