HOBSON'S PLANK

BIG NAVAL IDEAL FOR DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Congressman Richard P. Hobson Will Endeavor to Enlist Democrats in His World — Conquering Navy Scheme—Draft of Plank to Be Offered at Denver Convention.

Congressman Richard P. Hobson, who lectured in Pendleton two months ago, will endeavor to introduce a plank in the democratic platform at Denver next week, carrying out his pet theory of a big navy to preserve peace. The draft of the Hobson plank is as follows:

In international affairs we advocate the substitution of law based on right for war based on might, and to this end we will lead as fast as other nations will follow in extending the sphere of effective arbitration, in developing an international court, an international congress and an international constabulary.

Until an adequate international organization becomes effective, we advocate a stable equilibrium upon the high seas, the joint heritage of all nations. To realize this high end the non-military nations should hold the balance of sea power, because naval power without military power could not be aggressive.

In the absence of stable equilibrium upon the oceans that wash our shores and particularly upon the Pacific, we must take urgent measures to protect our legitimate interests and fulfill our bounden duties. Above all, the nation must be able to protect the individual states in the full and free exercise of their constitutional right of local self-government, the cornerstone of liberty, wherever this sacred principle is challenged by foreign power.

We favor ample and efficient coast defense, but realize that without a mobile army, they are subject to capture from landing parties attacking from the rear, so that in spite of coast defense our coast could be raided in either ocean long before a fleet could be transferred from the other ocean.

Desiring to avoid the necessity of maintaining a mobile army, and to secure the blessings of peace through non-aggressive agencies, we favor a progressive naval policy, which, within a reasonable time will provide a navy capable of controlling the sea permanently in the waters that lead to our shores, in both oceans at the same time, a navy thus capable of performing its plain duty of protecting our vast sea coast in both oceans, our great and ever-increasing volume of ocean-borne commerce, our growing interests in foreign markets; of protecting our distant possessions and maintaining the Monroe Doctrine; of guaranteeing the integrity of our free institutions at home, and of executing effectively our just foreign policies abroad.

MAPS FOR AUTO TOURISTS.

Government Department Will Show Topography of Country.

The topographic map or atlas which will be formed by the combined topographic sheets published by the survey was referred to last winter by Secretary Garfield, in a report to congress as the "motor map of the country," for it is now the principal source of all other maps. The sheets cover areas termed quadrangles, whose limits are defined by meridians and parallels, and nearly 1800 of them have already been completed. Some of the states have valued these maps so highly that they have defrayed half the cost of the surveys. The expense of surveying a quadrangle and engraving a sheet ranges from $3500 to $8000; but after the map has served its scientific purpose to the government extra copies can be purchased hundred, which is simply the cost of paper and printing.

The maps are so detailed and accurate by anyone for 5 cents each, or $3 a rate that clever clay modelers have used them as bases for relief or physical maps which were exact miniature reproductions of the regions comprised within the quadrangles, showing every hill and valley in relative steepness, and the lakes, swamps, falls or rivers, etc., as well as all the important works of man.

Automobile tourists are beginning to find the topographic maps of the geological survey invaluable in laying out routes of pleasure travel. All public roads, as well as all important private roads, are shown on these maps, while the contour lines indicating the topography and showing the grades of the roads enable the automobilist to determine accurately the character of the country through which he intends to travel.

These maps are made primarily as bases for the geologic map of the United States which the geological survey is constructing and the fact that they can be employed better than any other maps for non-scientific purposes, such as automobiling, attests their practical value, though this is only one of a very great number of uses to which they are put. No maps, in fact, are so generally used as the survey's topographic maps. Commercial maps are based on them, and a score of bureaus and departments of the government use them as bases for special routes of march or travel, for planning engineering works and for many other like public purposes.

MAIL FOR NORTH BANK.

Regular Service From Pasco to Vancouver This Week.

The contract providing for the conveyance of mail between Vancouver, Wash., and Pasco, and intermediate points, between the government and the north bank railroad, is expected to arrive in Portland some time this week, says the Sunday Journal. As soon as the contract gets here the company will begin carrying out its terms of the agreement.

Government officials representing the postoffice department went over the line of the north bank some time ago, and it is understood that their report on the question of furnishing the towns with mail was reported upon favorably to the department officials at Washington, D. C.

Since the recommendation was made by the inspectors the government officials have been corresponding with the railroad officials and practically all of the arrangements have been completed for bettering mail conditions along the line of the new railroad.

The mail for the towns at which the north bank trains touch is now delivered in most cases by transfer from the Oregon side of the river to those towns near the river bank on the Washington side.

When the new arrangement goes into effect several additional postal clerks will be added to the run and they will probably make their headquarters in Portland.
