MYSTERIOUS RECLUSE DIES.

Dressed as Bride for Half Century—Widowed on Wedding Day.

One of the mysteries of Paris has been solved by the death of Mme de Provigny, which has opened for the first time in more than half a century the house on Boulevard Poissomiere known as the "house of mystery." For 50 years and more the shutters of that house were never opened. Servants entered stealthily and it was known to be inhabited by a recluse of great eccentricity, but its secret was well kept until a few days ago, when the place was suddenly dressed in the black and silver trappings of French mourning, and it was announced that its aged and sorrowful inmate, Mme. de Provigny, was dead.

She was an old lady of more than 70, and for the last half century she lived in that house the life of an ascetic, without a newspaper or communication of any kind from the outside world. For 50 years Mme. de Provigny wore white satin. She wore it on her wedding day and always dressed in white to the end. They had been married the same morning and the young husband succumbed to apoplexy an hour after the cere-

LEWISTON MAN IS IN PENDLETON.

Says His City Is Going to Spend $200,000 in Paving—Thinks Bryan's Election Is Sure.

That the city of Lewiston will spend $200,000 for street paving within the next few months, perhaps is the belief of M. D. Mills, a prominent business man of Lewiston, who passed through Pendleton today on his way home from the national democratic convention at Denver.

Mr. Mills arrived from Denver last evening and was the guest of his uncle, W. A. Siddons, Northern Pacific section foreman in this city, while here.

He looked over Pendleton's bitulithic paving while in the city and is very favorably impressed with it. Lewiston at one time decided to use wood block paving, but after a thorough investigation the city council found that it was a temporary paving at best and the council changed its mind.

The city will spend about $200,000 in street paving and it is believed that bitulithic will be adopted as all investigations have tended to show that it is really the most substantial and durable of all the paving materials.

Mr. Mills is enthusiastic over the prospects for Bryan's election in the coming presidential election. He says that the Denver convention surpassed every other convention of recent years in enthusiasm and noise, and it is believed that the democracy has entered the race to win.

Mr. Mills attended the democratic convention of 1900 as a delegate from Oklahoma territory and he declares that this convention was so much more enthusiastic that there is no comparison.

"I like Pendleton because it is so much like Lewiston," said Mr. Mills to the East Oregonian. "Both towns have similar surroundings and interests and we feel that there is much in common between us."

The fruit crop in the Lewiston-Clarkston district has been immense and the acreage is increasing each year.

AMUSEMENTS

Pastime Pictures.

The Pastime drew the usual Sunday crowds yesterday with new and attractive pictures. The management announces a change for tomorrow, all new pictures with illustrated songs.

The Dimes.

The new Dime had an excellent set of pictures yesterday, some that has not been shown in the city before. The management announces another change for tomorrow. "Lady Audley's Secret," is one of the many pictures at the old Dime that has been pleasing the past few days. There are new songs and pictures at both places, and there will be another change tomorrow.

Show Shop Attracts.

The change of motion pictures which has been on at the Show Shop since Saturday has been one of the best yet seen here, and the usual change will go on tomorrow.

PULLMAN HAS STRANGE SPRING

Flow Reduced One-Half When Land Is in Crop.

A strange phenomenon in regard to the flow of water from a spring on the farm of S. H. Breeze, five miles south of Pullman, is attracting interest. The spring is in a field which has been in cultivation many years. Mr. Breeze says that in seasons when the land is in summer fallow the flow of water from the spring is more than double that of seasons when the land is in crop.

The matter has been called to the attention of the experiment station staff of the Washington state college, and a scientific investigation of the causes will be made. The theory is that the grain, when growing, absorbs the moisture, which is wasted when there is no crop on the ground. C. W. Lawrence, one of the experiment staff, intends to make a study of the spring.

GIRL IS CRIMINAL TOOL.

Claims She Was Sent Out to Swindle Young Men.

Through the partial confession of Gladys Wilson, a girl about 17 years old, the arrest of R. M. Ellis and wife and Will G. Gillman, who, it is alleged, have been using the girl as a tool in passing counterfeit bills in Tacoma and Olympia, was made possible.

According to the story told to Officer Turner of Olympia, who arrested Gladys Wilson in that city, she had been sent to swindle a young man out of his money. The proceeds were to be used in starting a small show troupe on the road, Mrs. Ellis being the star performer and doing the "hula hula" dance.

She also alleged that Ellis and Gillman were guilty of passing confederate bills.

NOT FIRST DRY YEAR

SEASON OF 1895 LIKE THAT OF 1908.

Old Files of East Oregonian Show That Exceedingly Dry Weather Prevailed 13 Years Ago—Crops Were Short, Ranges Dry and Water Scarce.—A. Ruppe Makes Comparisons.

According to A. Ruppe, the well known farmer living north of the city, the summer of 1895 was very similar to this present year, from a weather and crop standpoint. It was very dry the entire summer season and crops were light, in fact, much lighter than this year, and ranges were dry and water scarce.

Mr. Ruppe brought to the East Oregonian office today a clipping from the Daily East Oregonian of July 23, 1895, giving a resume of crop and weather conditions, as follows: The year 1895, or that phase of it concerning the weather was a remarkable one in many respects. The summer was unusually warm, and the mean maximum temperature for the year was 55.6 degrees. The maximum was 107 degrees, which was recorded by Voluntary Observer Hilton on July 23. Excepting the year when the thermometer registered 109, this is the highest temperature ever taken by the observer. On August 2 the mercury ran up to 105.

Contrary to the climatic freaks upon which the oldest inhabitant lays so much stress, the winter of the year was comparatively warm. The lowest temperature recorded was six degrees above zero, which is comfortable weather when a person takes into consideration the fact that only six or seven years ago the mercury dropped to 24 below.

In 1894 the people of Pendleton got along very well with about 16 inches of rain, but this year Jupiter Pluvius was in a humorous mood and limited their supply to 10.47 inches. Snow fell to a depth of only 22.9 inches, and the crops, therefore, did not receive the benefit of cool breezes very many months. The prevailing direction was westerly during 10 months, and southwesterly during November and December.

Clear days were plentiful, there having been 188. Of partly cloudy days there were 108, and of cloudy days 68. On 68 days .01 of an inch or more rain fell. The weather for the month was:

Maximum temperature, 58; date, 10th; minimum temperature, 8; date, 18th; mean temperature, 37.1; mean maximum temperature, 45.9; mean minimum temperature, 29.4; total precipitation, 1.74 inches; greatest precipitation in any 24 consecutive hours, .82 inches; date, 29th; total snowfall during the month, 6.9 inches; number of clear days, 5; partly cloudy, 10; cloudy, 16; more than .01 fell in 11 days; prevailing direction of wind, southwest.

"THE ORANGE."

Copy of Junior O. A. C. Annual Received—Near Publication.

A copy of "The Orange," the junior annual for the Oregon Agricultural college, has been received at the Commercial association library. The book is a splendid one, both as respect to size, typographical appearance and the sketches and articles contained. It gives the personnel of all the classes in the school, the athletic records for the past year, triumphs of the school in oratory and debate and many other things of interest to students and friends of O. A. C.

One of the graduating class this year was Marcus Sturve of this city who finished the pharmacy course and is now employed in the Donaldson pharmacy. George Carmichael of Weston was another Umatilla county graduate, having finished the literary-commercial course.

MRS. MOULE ELECTED.

Will Teach in Pendleton Schools Next Year—Other Vacancies Exist.

At a meeting of the school board held Saturday evening Mrs. Augusta Moule was chosen to a position in the local schools. She has not yet been assigned to any particular room, that being left to the discretion of Superintendent Landers.

Though there are other vacancies yet to be filled no further selections were made by the board at its Saturday meeting. Contracts for furnishing fuel and supplies for the coming year were also awarded. The bid of the Oregon Lumber company for supplying 90 cords of wood was accepted; that of the Umatilla Lumber company for 100 tons of coal, and that of L. G. Frazier for miscellaneous supplies.

Oil Explosion Proves Fatal.

Mrs. G. Raglione, a Greek woman, was fatally burned at Portland Tuesday by the explosion of a cook stove in which she had used kerosene to hasten the fire for supper. She died last night.

Held to the Higher Court.

At Wallace, Idaho, Friday, Charles Burns, who was arrested on the charge of shooting Charles Edwards through the thigh, has been bound over to the district court for trial. His bail is fixed at $500.
