BRYAN'S CONCEPTION OF PRESIDENCY

William J. Bryan has written an article entitled "My Conceptions of the Presidency" for the July 18 issue of Collier's Weekly. He says: "The president's power for good or for harm is over-estimated. This government is a government of checks and balances; power is distributed among different departments and each of them works in cooperation with others. In the making of laws, for instance, the president joins with the senate and house; may recommend, but he is powerless to legislate, except as a majority of the senate and the house concur with him. The senate and the house are also independent of each other, except in a veto over the other, and the president has a veto over both except that the senate and house can by a two-thirds vote override the president's veto. The influence of the president over legislation is therefore limited. He shares the responsibility with a large number of people's representatives. "Even in the enforcement of law he is hedged about by restrictions. He acts through an attorney general (whose appointment must be approved by the senate) and offenders against the law must be prosecuted in the courts, so that here again the responsibility is divided. In the making of important appointments too he must consult the senate and is of necessity, compelled to exercise care and discretion. "The most important requisite in a president, as in other officials, is that sympathy shall be with the whole people rather than with any fraction of the population. He is constantly called upon to act in the capacity of a judge—deciding between the impertinencies of those who seek favors and the rights and interests of the public. Unless his sympathies are right, the few are sure to have an advantage over the many, for the masses have no one to present their claims. They act only at elections and must trust to their representatives to protect them from all their foes. "Second, the president must have a knowledge of Public questions and the ability to discern between the true and the false; he must be able to analyze the conditions and to detect the sophistries that are always employed by those who seek unfair advantages. "He must possess the moral courage to stand against the influences that are brought to bear in favor of special interests. In fact the quality of moral courage is essential in a public official as either right sympathies or a trained mind. "The president must have counselors, he must be open to conviction. The president is committed by his platform to certain policies, and the platform is binding. He is also committed to certain principles of government and these he is in duty bound to apply in all matters that come before him. "But there is a wide zone in which he must act upon his own judgment and here he ought to have the aid of intelligent, conscientious and faithful advisors. The law provides these to a certain extent in giving him a cabinet, and the vice president ought to be made a member of the cabinet office, in order first that the president may have the benefit of his wisdom and knowledge of affairs, and second, that the vice president may be better prepared to take up the work of the president in case of a vacancy in the presidential office. There ought to be cordial relations also between the president and those who occupy positions of trust in the co-ordinate branches of the government, for our government is not a oneman government, but a government in which the chosen representatives of the people labor together to give expression to the will of the voters. "But the presidency is the highest position in the world and its occupancy is an important factor in all national matters. If he is a devour believer in our theory of government, recognizes the constitutional distribution of powers, trusts thoroughly in the people and fully sympathizes with them in their aspirations and hopes, he has an opportunity to do a splendid work. He occupies a vantage ground from which he can exert a wholesome influence in favor of each forward movement. "The responsibilities of the office are so great that the occupant ought to be relieved of every personal ambition, save the ambition to prove worthy of the confidence of his countrymen; for this reason he ought to enter the position without thought or prospect of a second term. "While the burdens of such an office are heavy and while the labors of the office are exacting and exhausting, the field of service is large and, measuring its greatness by service, a president, by consecrating himself to the public weal, can make himself secure in the affections of his fellow-citizens while he lives and creates for himself a permanent place in the nation's history."

RAILROADS AS EXECUTIONERS.

Kill One in Every Million and a Half and Injure One in Every 6700.
 Washington, July 17.—A net income of $449,461,188, available for dividends or surplus, $73,905,133 passengers carried, and 1,796,336,859 tons of freight hauled, track mileage of 327,975, employes numbering 1,672,073 equipment including 55,388 locomotives, 43,973 passenger cars and 1,991,557 freight cars, and 122,855 persons killed or injured, is the showing made in the interstate commerce commission's report yesterday for the year ending June 30, 1908.

In these figures neither cars used in the company's service or commercial private cars are included. The mileage of tracks of all kinds increased 10,802 over the previous year. Railroads owning 2811 miles of line were reorganized, merged or constructed.

There were 29 roads in receivership. Employes averaged 735 per hundred miles of line, a substantial increase. The total wages and salaries paid was $1,072,386,427. The passenger traffic exceeded the previous year by almost 76,000,000 persons. The freight traffic increased almost 166,000,000 tons or 69,718 tons per mile. The passenger revenue per mile averaged 2.914 cents and both passenger and freight train earnings per train mile showed an increase.

The gross earnings from the operation of 227,454 miles of line for which substantially complete returns were rendered, were $2,589,105,587, being over $263,000,000 greater than the previous year. Operating expenses were $1,748,515,814, or considerably over $211,000,000 in excess.

The income from operation or the net earnings of the railroads were $840,589,764, exceeding the previous year by $51,701,868. The total of $1,127,173,706 income on railroads embraces net earnings and income from leases, investments and miscellaneous sources.

Dividends declared aggregated $308,137,924, leaving $141,323,264 as surplus from the operations of the year as against the previous year's operation of about $29,000,000 less. In 1907 one passenger was killed for every 1,432,631 carried, and one injured for every 67,012 carried, a little worse showing than the previous year. One passenger was killed for every 45,000,000 odd passenger miles traveled, and one injured for every 2,125,493 miles.

Born on Street Car.
 Chicago, July 16.—Little Miss Rouloss, who is one day old today, has had the distinction of being the only baby on record left on a streetcar by a stork. It is just as happy as though she had not held up traffic on three car lines in the downtown district yesterday for an hour. Mrs. John Rouloss, who is a pretty woman of 24 years, was on her way to Michael Reese hospital. The nurse who was accompanying her, whispered to the conductor, who cleared the car and summoned Dr. I. G. Rawlinks of the health department.

Heavy Rush to Europe.
 New York, July 16.—The rush of Atlantic travel eastward still continues to be almost up to the average of other years. Steamship agents assert that the season was later than usual this year, but that it has made amends for the falling off in the early stages and promises to continue later than usual.

The three lines leaving today with full cabins for Europe are the last to sail on the high summer schedule, as the winter rates eastward go into effect tomorrow.

In Court for Contempt.
 H. F. Briggs, a resident of the Starkey country, is being tried today for alleged contempt of court, arising from the failure of the defendant to obey an injunction granted by Judge Crawford about July 2, ordering him to refrain from tearing out or molesting certain irrigating dams belonging to Henry T. Hill, another resident of the Starkey district, says the La Grande Observer. It was alleged by Hill that Briggs has violated the injunction, and the case today results. Baker and Ramsey are attorneys for Mr. Briggs, and C. H. Finn is conducting the defense.

PRONOUNCED HIS CASE INCURABLE

Whole Body Raw with Eczema—Life was Intolerable—Was Even Incased in Plaster—Discharged from Hospitals as Hopeless.

SUFFERED 14 YEARS CURED BY CUTICURA

"From the age of three months until fifteen years old, my son Owen's life was made intolerable by eczema in its worst form. He was all right until the red rash broke out on his forehead, but we were not alarmed at first. Very soon, however, the rash began to spread over his head and shoulders, and it caused him great discomfort. I took him to a doctor and tried half a dozen other treatments, all with the same result: no improvement at all. The disease gradually spread until nearly every part of his body was quite raw. We had to strap him down in bed, for he used to tear himself dreadfully in his sleep. The agony he went through is quite beyond words. No one thought we would rear him. The regimental doctor, a very clever man, pronounced the case hopeless; at least, he said the only hope was that he might, if he lived long enough, outgrow it to some extent. We had him in hospitals four times and he was pronounced one of the worst cases, if not the worst, ever admitted. From each he was discharged as incurable; in fact he got worse under the successive treatments. At one hospital they incased him in plaster, and this seemed to aggravate the soreness terribly. He looked so badly that no one liked to go near him and his life was a burden to him. We kept trying remedy after remedy, but we had got almost past hoping for a cure. Six months ago we purchased a set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent Pills and persevered with them. The result was truly marvelous and to-day he is perfectly cured, his skin not having a blemish on it anywhere. Mr. Lily Hedge, 51, Vaughan Road, Coldebarrow Lane, Cambleswell Green, Eng., Jan. 12, 1907."

ENGLAND IS ANGRY.

Provoked Because Colonies Will Entertain American Fleet So Lavishly.

London, July 17.—Reports received here regarding the magnificent preparations that are being made in Australian and New Zealand ports for the entertainment of the American fleet are provoking a great deal of comment. The expenditure of such vast sums by the colonial cities in entertaining the fleet of a foreign power is condemned by the London papers. An undercurrent of jealousy of the United States runs through many of these editorial articles, and the cruise of the Yankee vessels is severely criticized by some naval authorities. On the continent, however, and especially in Germany, the political aspects of the cruise are considered in a more favorable light.

The Marine Rundschau, which is the subsidized organ of the German imperial marine department, considers that the "concentration of the American fleet in the Pacific" marks the beginning of the new epoch in the world's history which was foreshadowed by Count Yorck von Wartenburg, Count Walderssee's chief of staff in China in 1900, when he expressed the opinion that the trend of events lay in the direction of a union on the part of the continental and Atlantic powers against the "Pacific hemisphere." It is added that "America's political wishes will only be recognized if they are backed by the guns of her fleet, but the scope of her desires will be bounded by the navy's radius of action."

The Conservative Kreub Zeitung indorses these observations with the remark that the American navy must not only be ready to strike, but "ready to strike where strategy demands." General von Zepelin then proceeds to consider the lines of communication and the harbor accommodation on the west coast of America and in the Pacific, which he pronounces to be inadequate and insecure for a fleet "designed for offensive purposes."

It Can't Be Beat.
 The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that is claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines for weakness, lame back, and all run down conditions. Best too, for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at Tallman & Co.'s drug store. 50c.

At Wallace, Idaho, Tuesday, Milo Vuskan was bound over to the district court on the charge of killing George Sowsnich near Enaville, a couple of weeks ago. Vuskan denies the shooting, but admitted he had threatened to kill Sowsnich.
