FOREST HEADS MOVING WEST

RESERVES ARE TO BE GIVEN CLOSER ATTENTION

Administration of the Forest Service Being Brought Nearer to the People—Experienced Men to Have Charge of the Several Forest Districts of the West.

Washington, D. C., July 18.—In order to expedite and render more effective and economical the work of administering the national forests, field headquarters are to be established by the forest service in the west, and the clerical force needed to complete the organization will be mainly drawn from the force now employed in the Washington office.

The change will take place not later than January 1, 1909, and will probably begin by October 1 of the present year.

At present the national forests are grouped under six districts with headquarters as follows: District 1, Missoula, Montana; District 2, Denver, Colorado; District 3, Albuquerque, New Mexico; District 4, Salt Lake City, Utah; District 5, San Francisco, and District 6, Portland, Oregon.

These headquarters will remain unchanged under the new plan of administration. Each district will be in charge of an assistant forester who will deal directly with the supervisor of the forests of his district.

Only questions of special importance will be submitted to the Washington office for action. In this way the regular business of the forests will be much expedited, while the men who have charge of the business will be in almost constant touch with the users of the forests.

The men to take charge of the several districts have not as yet been selected, but they will be chosen from those in the regular service force who have had most experience in the work on the national forests.

The growth of business on national forests resulting from the use of their resources by the public, has been steady and rapid ever since the policy of wide use supplanted the policy of restricted use, at the time when the management of the national forests was placed under the forest service.

One of the big problems of administration has been to get into close touch with the users of the national forests, and this has already been partially solved by various expedients, such as delegating to local national forest business. In this way the public and the service have been constantly brought closer together.

A second step in the same direction was the recent transfer of headquarters for supplies from Washington, D. C., to Ogden, Utah. A third step was the placing of a branch of the office of engineering, which has charge of permanent improvements on the forests, also at Ogden, which is centrally located. The contemplated change is, therefore, merely the completion of a plan which has already been partially worked out.

Probably one-third of the clerical force now in Washington, mainly stenographers and typewriters, will go west to complete the organization required in each field district. It is expected that a sufficient number of clerks in the Washington office will desire assignments to the field headquarters, so that it will not be necessary to send to the field those who do not wish to go, and no new appointments will be necessary. In making selections for the new posts the individual preferences of the clerks will be consulted so far as the work permits.

The change will not affect the form of organization of the forest service in Washington. The offices will be retained as at present, but with a smaller force. All of the investigating work done by the service, except that directly connected with the administration of the national forests, will continue to be directed from Washington.

NEW YORK HEAT IS TERRIBLE

FEARFUL SUMMER TRAGEDY OF BIG CITY.

Sun Blistered Pavements Are Terrible Punishment for Denizens of Gotham — Children Almost Suffocated.

New York, July 18.—Yuma, Arizona, will kindly go away back and sit down. Let us hear no more of its lamented citizens who died and went elsewhere and sent back for his overcoat.

The much maligned metropolis of southwestern Arizona is no longer entitled to the palm-leaf fan as the hottest spot this side of Tophet. The hot wave which swept over New York the first of this month, ceasing temporarily to gain fresh breath for another atrocity, entitles the American metropolis to pre-eminence as the hottest town on the map. Abbas, Yuma.

Records of the weather sharps may not serve to prove this contention. Heat, however, is not a thing to be registered by figures on a dial. Humidity and congestion add terrors to a New York summer that even Yuma knows not of.

The narrow streets, lined with their sky-piercing buildings, become sweltering canyons through which the choking air-waves swirl sluggishly on their mission of death. Under the sun's rays the asphalt pavements come to resemble rivers of New Orleans sorghum, boiling and sizzling in a mighty vat.

Worse even than the downtown streets is the East Side, its squalid tenements filled with huddled, hopeless millions, breathing despair and death with every gasp of fetid, filthy atmosphere. Here Dante might set the scene of another inferno more terrible far than any that existed in the realms of his exuberant imagination. Here the evangelist, preaching of fire and brimstone, might well stand silent and aghast and cease his feeble, futile prophesies.

Tragedy and pathos become commonplace on a summer day in the East Side. Mothers fall to their knees on the blistering pavements and lift their hands to a sky of brass, praying for a cooling zephyr that does not come.

Little, naked babes, too weak to cry out their misery, fitfully gasp their lives away. Scantly-clad children, from whom all the joy of youth has departed, wallow yearly on the stoops of tenements or wander listlessly through the walled lanes of this city of dreadful light.

And the aged, the ill and the infirm, shut in by the four walls of a dungeon of New York's inquisition—surely no haunting thought of "something after death" can frighten such as these.

New York on a winter night, with its homeless and friendless vainly seeking shelter from a blizzard's icy blast, is a thing to wrench the heart-strings; but the New York of a summer day is too frightful and fearsome to be encompassed by mere human pity.

JUDGE JOHN F. CAPLES DEAD.

Pioneer Lawyer and Prominent Republican in Portland.

John Fletcher Caples died Friday morning at 5 o'clock at his home in Selwood, surrounded by members of his family, says the Oregon Daily Journal.

Judge Caples, as he had been familiarly known for many years, was born in Ashland county, Ohio, January 12, 1832. He was educated in Risdon, now Fostoria, Ohio, and at the Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware. His early legal training was with the firm of Stanton & Allison of Bellefontaine, and he was admitted to the bar in 1853. He was a delegate to the Ohio state republican convention in 1856 and attended the Chicago convention which nominated Abraham Lincoln for the presidency. He made an active canvass for his election and remarked a few days ago that the coming presidential election would be the first in which he had not actively participated in all the intervening years.

In 1865 he brought his family to the coast via the Isthmus and San Francisco to Vancouver, Wash., where he served as city attorney, removing to Portland the next year.

In 1872 he was elected to the state legislature from Multnomah county and served as chairman of the judiciary committee.

Judge Caples was elected district attorney in 1878, a responsibility which he maintained for six successive years, his territory comprising Multnomah, Washington, Clackamas, Columbia and Clatsop counties.

He served as presidential elector for Oregon in 1892 and was the messenger selected to carry the state's vote to the national capitals.

In 1896 Judge Caples served in a similar capacity for President McKinley, by whom he was appointed in 1897 as the government's diplomatic representative at Valparaiso, Chile, a peculiarly delicate responsibility, owing to the complications resulting from the Spanish war, the solution of which brought into play the unusual diplomacy and tact which were characteristic of his entire career.

GOOD BANK SHOWING.

First National Has Made Steady Progress in All Departments.

The report of the First National bank made today upon the request of the comptroller of the currency shows an excellent condition and that institution is making progress in every department.

The total resources of the bank are 1,718,191.24, the loans and discounts amount to $945,679.05, the cash on hand amounts to $143,048.71, with $271,381.84 due from other banks.

The deposits at this time amount to $1,298,982.13, the capital stock to $200,000 and the undivided profits to $74,856.87.

The management is well pleased with this condition and business has been especially good during the summer months.

THRES TO BLOCK NEW ROAD.

N. P. Serves Notice on Nez Perce Trolley Builder.

Lewiston, Idaho, July 18.—Although General Manager Nutt of the Northern Pacific railroad, agreed to make traffic arrangements with the Nez Perce & Idaho Electric company, a small line now under construction from Nez Perce to Vollmer, the fact that James E. Babb served notice on Z. A. Johnson, the builder of the road, and on the contractors that they must not trespass on any of the Northern Pacific's alleged right of way is taken as an indication that the Hill railroad will attempt to block the independent feeder.

Mr. Johnson declares Northern Pacific officials told him to go ahead with the construction, that they would be glad to have the line built, and that they would not attempt to harass him in any way but, on the contrary, they offered him exceptional traffic concessions.

Mr. Babb, as attorney for the Northern Pacific, has warned the builders of the proposed line that they have a right of way from Vollmer to Nez Perce which must not in any way be infringed on. It is true that several years ago the Northern Pacific surveyed a line which is almost identical with the Johnson line, but no right of way passed into the hands of the railroad company and the survey had been forgotten. No attention will be paid to the notice, as the landowners who have donated or sold to Mr. Johnson will fortify him with proof that the Hill road has no rights which are sufficient to block construction work.

Sick Headache

You probably think it's caused by something you've eaten. Of course it is—but if your stomach, liver and bowels were O. K. you could eat anything that others eat and never have an uncomfortable moment.

You can cure the headache and the indigestion that caused it by putting your liver in shape. Lazy liver is at the bottom of nine-tenths of human ills. Put the liver right and constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, skin troubles—all ailments of the stomach, bowels and kidneys are bound to be cured.

Prove it—take an  tablet tonight and you'll feel better in the morning. Better than pills for liver ills—never gripe nor sicken, always and absolutely effective.
