MEETS FOUNDER OF PENDLETON

HAROLD WARNER UNEARTHS HISTORY AND ROMANCE.

While Visiting in New York He Discovers Man Who Directed First Settlers to Present Site of City—J. D. Stevens, Wild Horse Rancher, Remains True to Early Love and Marries Her After 50 Years.

While visiting in Watkins, N. Y., a few weeks ago, Harold J. Warner, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Warner, had a most interesting talk with a man who is entitled to pose as the founder of Pendleton. He is J. D. Stevens, and while he lived here but a short time himself, yet it was at his suggestion that the first family in Pendleton camped at this point.

When here Stevens had a cabin at the mouth of Wild Horse creek, and when on the way to Swift's station, below Pendleton, one day, he met Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin, the first people to locate in Pendleton. They inquired of him concerning a camping place and located here, somewhere in the vicinity of the Hotel Pendleton location.

Mr. Stevens himself did not live here long, but moved to Baker county and later into Malheur county. However, he made the acquaintance of many old-time residents while he was here. He revisited Pendleton five years ago.

The old gentleman left Oregon to return to New York only four years ago and at that time he was the county judge of Malheur county. Back of his life is a strange romance of half a century.

When but a young man in New York he was in love with a young lady who is now his wife. But the girl's parents objected to the marriage at that time and Stevens came west to make his fortune. It was 50 years later that he again learned of the lady's whereabouts and by that time she had been married twice and was a widow for the second time. But the old pioneer had been true to his first love and he returned to the Empire State to marry her after a wait of half a century.

PENDLETON WINS.

Pilot Rock Goes Down to Defeat by Large Score.

By a score of 11 to 1 the Pendleton second team won the baseball game from Pilot Rock yesterday afternoon, the game being played on the Matlock grounds. The solitary score made by the visiting team was given them during the first inning. After that time a steady series of shut-outs was handed them while the Pendleton boys themselves proceeded to bring in tallies with much ease.

Moore pitched for the local boys yesterday, while Harry Drake constituted the other man in the battery.

RAIN CAME TOO LATE.

Drought Cuts Down Crops Along the Columbia River.

Reports received by the railroad companies from the tier of counties lying south of the Columbia river show that the wheat yield there will be much shorter than last year's crop, due to the long drought during the spring months, says the Portland Oregonian. Rain which has fallen in this district during the past few days came too late, it is said, to be of assistance in saving the crop.

Morrow county, always a large wheat growing district, reports that the dry weather and the warm winds have been disastrous to crops. Many fields are said to be hardly worth cutting. It is estimated the yield of grain will be about 45 per cent of the normal crop.

Reports from Gilliam county show that spring wheat and barley have been damaged about 60 per cent, while loss to fall wheat is about 20 per cent. The crop situation there is unchanged.

Crop prospects have slightly improved in Sherman county since the last report from that section on account of the light rains Sunday and Monday and cool north winds. A strip along the east side of the county, however, about three miles wide, is considered utterly destroyed. Much of the balance of the crop, particularly in early sown grain, will make from 75 to 90 per cent of a normal yield. It is thought that on the whole the outlook is good for 60 per cent of last year's crop throughout the county.

The electric storm the first of the week in Wasco county, accompanied by rain, has relieved the situation there somewhat. From half a crop of spring grain to three-fourths of a crop of fall wheat is expected in Wasco.

WYOMING WOOL SALES.

Big Clips Sold at Low Prices This Season.

The Evanston, Wyo. Times, says: "The Tim Kinney wool clip of 400,000 pounds has been sold. Eastern wool buyers representing the B. Harris Wool company of St. Louis were in Cokeville last week and after a lively and long drawn out scramble this firm came out victorious over many competitors. The fleece is considered the best in the west and goes down as the largest individual clip in western Wyoming.

"Covey Bros., next in line with 300,000 pounds, sold to the same firm. The price is said to have been 14 cents. While a number of small clips throughout Utah, Idaho and western Wyoming remain unsold, the sale of these two big clips practically marks the closing of the wool season for 1908. There has been much rapid buying during the past two weeks.

The Cody Stockgrower says of sales in that locality:

"C. M. Blair, the wool king of Montana, sold his entire 1908 clip, which is said to be the largest individual clip in the world, for 15 1/2 cents to Silberman Bros. of Chicago last week.

"As the wool will not be baled it will fill 50 freight cars and the sum Mr. Blair will receive will be in the neighborhood of $155,000 for this year's product from his woolly backs.

"Rea Bros. sold a half million pounds to J. Guthrie, for Silberman Bros., at 15 cents, while A. H. Barth received 16 cents for 300,000 pounds and Ross & Runner topped the bunch with 200,000 pounds at 16 1/2 cents. Yegan Bros. received 16 cents for their clip of 250,000 pounds, Williams of Boston being the purchaser."

AMUSEMENTS

Damon and Pythias at Dime

The two dimes were well patronized yesterday, an excellent set of motion pictures being shown at both places. At the new Dime the story of "Damon and Pythias" which is one of the most beautiful and interesting in history was shown in beautiful colorings, and shows the story from start to finish. A new illustrated song was also shown. This program will continue until tomorrow when there will be another change. At the old Dime a new set was also shown, among them being "The Spirits of '76", "The Fighting Parson" and the illustrated song, "If the Man in the Moon Were a Coon."

The Fighting Parson

The large Sunday crowds were seen at the Show Shop yesterday as usual where a beautiful new lot of motion pictures were shown, among them being "Multnomah Falls" and other scenes along the Columbia. "The Fighting Parson" which is considered one of the most interesting yet shown in the city. The illustrated song, "I'm Starving for One Sight of You" One of the features of yesterday was the playing on the piano by Mrs. Nelson, and the singing for the illustrated song by Will Trites.

Pastime to Reopen.

The management of the Pastime announces today that a new picture machine has been ordered, and everything is being put in readiness at the old stand to open again for business tomorrow evening, with a new lot of pictures. The damage done in the steel cage by the fire of Saturday has all been repaired and everything will now be in readiness for a first-class show three times a week, as before.

If you see it in the East Oregonian, it's so.
