OLD WAR HORSES ARE DISPLEASED

VEXED BECAUSE DISPLEASED BY YOUTHS.

Probable Selection of Ollie James to Manage Bryan's Campaign Promises to Be the Last Straw—James Has Had Brilliant Brief Career—Member of Congress

Washington, July 22.—The old politicians in Washington, with the glory of many campaign fights upon them, are more than vexed at the call being given young men in the choice of leaders for the approaching presidential contest. It's awful, they think. The probability of the selection of Ollie James, the big Kentucky congressman to manage the campaign for William Jennings Bryan has added to their irritation over the selection of Frank H. Hitchcock, as chairman of the republican national committee. Old men do not have a chance these days, they say.

They point out that James is but little more than a kid. The truth is that he would be the youngest campaign manager ever selected by a big political party. He is only 37 years old, but, due to the uncertainty of democratic victory in Kentucky, he has had a finger in nearly every political campaign in that state since he appeared on the terrestrial scene, and during the last few presidential contests he has made a reputation for himself in a subordinate capacity. They enlist their followers in their babyhood in the Blue Grass state and the result is the production of a precocious politician, when the subject can stand the strain.

Friends of James are fond of referring to his congressional career. He is now serving his third term, and at the last election a republican could not be found to run against him. As a result he had 10,000 majority out of 14,000 votes cast, some 2,000 voting for the prohibition candidate. Incidentally, it is noted that James has never been a drawing card among the prohibitionists, although the Kentuckian has grasped every opportunity in congress to talk for prohibition.

The brilliancy of James is pointed out by his rapid rise from page of the Kentuckian legislature in the session of 1887 to his present position. In that year Ben Johnson was speaker of the house. Yet James had been in congress for two sessions before Johnson rose to the height of commanding a seat in the lower house of the national law making body.

James won attention as one of the attorneys for Governor Goebel in his celebrated contest for governor of the state of Kentucky, just before his assassination at the state house.

Hitchcock is several years older than James, yet Hitchcock, at 41, is counted a young man. They are opposite types. Calm, reserved, and not the least talkative, Hitchcock stands out in contrast with the fuss and feathers, radicalism and talkativeness of the Kentuckian. But the latter has been able to deliver the goods quite as successfully as the republican chairman.

NEW MINERAL FOUND.

Carnotite Source of Uranium and Vanadium.

Carnotite, a mineral recently found in Colorado, is a source of the rare elements uranium and vanadium and has yielded traces of the still rarer element, radium. These deposits, which also contain other rare minerals, are situated at the foot of Blue mountain, formerly known as Yampa Plateau, and are similar to those on Coal creek, Rio Blanco county, Colorado. The ores present a beautiful display of colors. The carnotite, which constitutes a relatively small percentage of the minerals found, occurs in the form of a film or thin crust of powdery material of bright canary-yellow color. A yellow mineral which closely resembles carnotite in color and appearance, and which occurs in even greater amount, proved, on testing by experts of the geological survey, to be a vanadate of copper. Chemical tests of the ores have shown the presence in them of copper selenite, which is believed to be the first selenite discovered in the United States.

The grandmothers of the old Dutch Dunkard families of western Pennsylvania have made and used "Hickory Bark Cough Remedy" and reared their families on it for a hundred years. Now you can buy it of your dealers. Ask for it and use it, because it is pure; because it is the best cough remedy made today. Try it. For sale by any druggist and all dealers everywhere. Pendleton Drug Co.

Omaha Wool Storage.

The Omaha Wool & Storage Co. report that wool is coming in very rapidly and that a large amount will be stored in Omaha this year, says the American Sheep Breeder. The Omaha people advise that so large will be the volume of wool stored in their warehouse that they hope the National Woolgrowers' scheme for a warehouse in Chicago will materialize, for they are satisfied that they will be unable to take care of all of the wool shipped to them this year. The Omaha Wool & Storage Co., fathered by President Delfelder, of the Wyoming Woolgrowers' association, and C. H. King, Theo. Becker and L. L. King, has all the prospects for a large, prosperous business. While this warehouse company is conducted on business principles by business men, it has a philanthropic side, and President Delfelder is working might and main to help the western woolgrowers find an outlet for their wool.

The old Pennsylvania Dutch Dunkards recommended "Hickory Bark Cough Remedy." Guaranteed to cure your cough, and guaranteed to be pure. Made from the bark of the shell bark or white hickory tree. For sale by any druggist and all dealers everywhere. Pendleton Drug Co.

JOHN BULL IS REALLY JEALOUS

THINKS COLONIES SPEND TOO MUCH ON OUR FLEET.

English Newspapers Even Charge Americans With Attempting to Alienate Affections of Children of the Antipodes—Daily Mail Attempts to Explain Enthusiasm.

London, July 22.—While the American battleship fleet, which sails tomorrow from Honolulu bound for the British colonies in the Antipodes, will be given a warm welcome by the officials and people of New Zealand and Australia, the feeling in the mother country is far from cordial. As a matter of fact, John Bull is a little jealous of Uncle Sam and some of the London newspapers even charge the latter with an attempt to alienate the affections of King Edward's dominions beyond the seas.

The Australians have appropriated about a half million dollars for the entertainment of the fleet and this is branded as "extravagant" by the British press.

Commenting on the visit of the Prince of Wales to Quebec, where he will arrive today on the big cruiser Indomitable, the London Daily Mail says that this "will at least prove to Canada that the British navy possesses finer warships than any which fly the American flag. There is no reason," concludes the Mail, "why the Indomitable and her sisters should not show themselves at Sydney and Melbourne."

Commenting on the spirit in which the Australian colonies are preparing to welcome a fleet flying the Stars and Stripes, the Daily Mail says:

Reason for Enthusiasm.
"The explanation of this outburst of enthusiasm is probably to be found in the fact that since the withdrawal of the British battleship fleet from the China station, which has left the British empire without a single battleship east of the Suez, the Australian people have felt themselves open to naval attack. They see in the fleet of the United States a force capable of giving protection. It would be well, however, for Australians to understand the true causes which led the admiralty to recall the British battleships. The rapid development of the continental navies confronted Britain with these alternatives. She might greatly increase her navy, and thus be strong at home, while still maintaining powerful squadrons in distant waters. That course would have been wisest and safest in the long run, though its cost would have been great. Or she might obtain allies, economize in naval construction, and withdraw her distant fleets, which with a reduced navy, she would no longer be able to spare.

"The second course was taken, rightly or wrongly, and we may say frankly that its results have not been gratifying to national pride. The failure of the British navy to put in a prompt appearance after the earthquake at Kingston is now to be followed by the assemblage before Australian crowds of a far more powerful fleet under a foreign flag than Britain has ever displayed in Pacific waters.

Who Is to Blame?
"The blame, however, for this state of affairs does not rest entirely with the people of the United Kingdom. They annually provide some $160,000,000 for the navy. The cost of an efficient and powerful Australian squadron would be at least $10,000,000 and probably considerably more. Yet the total contribution of Australia to the navy is only $1,000,000, while that of New Zealand is an additional $200,000.

"It is impossible for the British navy to be strong at all points, as the idealists would wish to see it, unless it receive greater pecuniary support from the states of the empire. If large detachments were made to a distant point from the present navy, defeat in Europe would be risked. "Australians can see that any serious blow to the integrity or prosperity of the mother country would be a disaster to their own commonwealth, and they will not be inclined to blame the British admiralty for taking its precautions to prevent this. But it would be spared from their stations in Europe, were a powerful British fleet of modern armor clads dispatched on a voyage to the great colonies."

PRINCE OF WALES ARRIVES IN QUEBEC.

British American and French Warships Fire Salutes as Ship of Mystery Enters the Harbor—His Royal Highness Will Participate in Celebration.

Quebec, July 22.—His Royal Highness George Frederick Prince of Wales, and heir apparent to the throne of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, will this afternoon make his triumphal entry into the ancient city of Quebec. Entering the harbor aboard the magnificent British cruiser Indomitable, escorted by a naval squadron, the prince will land at the king's wharf.

The British, American and French war ships will fire a royal salute, the bells of the churches of the ancient city will peal in unison, whistles will blow and thousands of loyal Canadians will cheer their future sovereign. The presentation of the civic address of welcome to the prince will not take place until tomorrow afternoon.

His royal highness will take part in many elaborate ceremonies, in connection with the tercentenary celebration, before departing next Wednesday morning. He is accompanied by a brilliant staff. The governor general and other Canadian officials and Vice President Fairbanks were received by the prince on board the cruiser today.

The cruiser Indomitable is known as the "mystery ship," owing to the fact that it embraces many new ideas in naval construction. The British admiralty has kept a profound secret every important detail of the huge vessel's make-up. With the exception of her sister ships, the Invincible and Inflexible, the Indomitable is the longest, largest and most heavily armored cruiser afloat. One of the most notable features in which the prince will participate will be the review on the Plains of Abraham on Friday morning, followed by the dedication of the Quebec battlefields. On Saturday the prince will witness the state performance of the tercentenary pageant; and on Sunday he will attend a religious service in the English cathedral.

On Tuesday there will be a royal tree planting, a ceremony similar to that in which the prince's royal father, now King Edward, participated in Central Park, New York, nearly half a century ago. At dawn next Wednesday morning the prince will sail for England, after what promises to be the most notable royal visit in the history of Canada.

"Academy of Nobodies."

Paris, July 22.—"The Academy of Nobodies" is the newest Parisian institution. Despite the apparent inclusiveness of its name, the new organization promises to be exceedingly exclusive. Only those who have no ambitions, aptitudes, pretensions, titles, honors or dignities of any kind will be instantly expelled. The newspapers are having a great deal of fun with the new academy, but so far there has been no great rush for membership.

A Many Time Prize Winner.

National Expositions are a good index to the actual merit of the products exhibited. The judges are always experts of high standing, and their decision is made only after careful examination and exhaustive tests.

It will, therefore, be a revelation to many to learn that—while lard is the most commonly used cooking fat—a vegetable oil cooking fat called COTTOLENE was awarded Grand Prize (highest award) at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and cakes and pastry prepared with COTTOLENE also won a Grand Prize. Gold Medals (representing highest awards in each case) were also granted COTTOLENE at the Charleston Exposition and Chicago World's Fair. In fact, wherever it has been exhibited in competition with other cooking fats, COTTOLENE has in every case received highest award.

Eminent chemists and cooking experts unite in declaring that, in purity, wholesomeness, economy and results, COTTOLENE is far superior to lard.
