Costs to Keep Hens.

Judge Fienner announced at the opening session of the municipal court this mornnig that he would impose the heavy fine of $50 and costs on A. H. Higgins for the alleged maintaining of a nuisance i nthe conducting of a chicken yard and business within the city limits contrary to the ordinance governing the same, says the Lewiston Tribune.

This case has attracted considerable attention as it affects almost half the residents of the city who keep chickens in their yards. Higgins lives at 609 South 16th street, and for some time has been conducting a large chicken business on his premises, allowing the fowls to run at will about the place, causing many of the neighbors to complain, partly owing to the odor which was thus created. Health Officer Kelly visited the yard and discovered that it was in a condition contrary to the health ordinance and ordered it cleaned up. Later Ernest Clark ,a neighbor, swore out a complaint against Higgins, charging him with maintaining a nuisance. The case was tried Tuesday evening and adjourned to Wednesday morning when the argument took place before Judge Fienner. The court held that to maintain a chicken yard in which to raise chickens as a business within the city limits is a nuisance under the ordinance.

Free Cherries for Tourists.

There were no cherries to distribute at the depot this morning. The shortage was an oversight among the growers no doubt, as each believed the other fellow would furnish the supply, says the La Grande Observer. The boosters were on hand to give the passengers the customary "hand-out" of cherries, but none could be given, in view of the fact that not a cherry was on hand. The growers in close proximity to the city should make it a point each day to notify the booster office relative to the cherry supply, and by getting in communication with Mr. Laver can arrange for supplying the fruit at a future time. Who is coming to the front with tomorrow's supply?

Flood Was Expensive.

Water will probably be turned on in the Naches & Cowiche, otherwise known as the Hubbard, ditch tonight, says the Yakima Republic. The ditch has been out of commission for two weeks, ever since the heavy rainstorms which swept this valley. The result was that the ditch was filled in with silt and dirt washed from the surface and was in some places actually obliterated. Repairs were at once undertaken and as strong a force as could be procured was put on to rush the work in order that water might be carried at the first possible moment. The repairs made, and which will be completed tonight, have cost approximately $1500. This will mean an increased assessment to be divided up among the 200 or so shares of water in use. It has been the hope of the company all along to reduce the assessment. The disaster, however, made it necessary to hire the money for the repairs and the result will be increased assessment next year instead of the reduction anticipated.

For Baker City Park.

O. E. Farnsworth of Heppner, Ore., was in Baker City last night on business, says the Baker City Herald. He and Al. Roberts of the land office at La Grande own in partnership a tract of land near the city reservoir. Some time ago these men offered to give this city ten acres of land there provided the city would buy ten acres more of them for $1,000, with the understanding that it is to be used wholly for park purposes. The offer was mentioned at the time, but the city council laid it on the table, it is understood. Mr. Farnsworth repeated the offer to a reporter for the Herald and stated that it was still open, and that he would be pleased to have the city take it up.

Berry Season Is On.

This week witnessed the opening of the huckleberry season, and for the next two weeks the berries will suffer, says the Pilot Rock News.

A number of people are now planning trips into the mountains to gather berries and a number of parties are now out.

Reports from the upper part of the country state that the berries are not so plentiful this year as they were last for some cause.

People sending out to Lehman Springs, where they can usually be bought in large quantities, have been informed that there are no berries on the market.

The worst thing about the "end seat hog" is that he won't shove over and give you his choice place.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS OF THE UNITED STATES

Boston, Aug. 3.—Thousands of knights in beautiful uniforms and glittering regalia and tens of thousands of the rank and file of the Pythian army invaded the city of baked beans and culture today to take part in the glorious program arranged for the 25th biennial convention of the Knights of Pythias and the encampment of the uniformed rank.

Never before in the history of Boston has a fraternal gathering attracted so large an attendance, and the prophecy that 100,000 visitors will be here during the week is in a fair way to be fulfilled. It is estimated that before the great conclave closes Saturday a million dollars will have been expended by the entertainment committee and visiting members, breaking all records for a convention of a fraternal order.

Addresses of welcome by Boston city officials, the formal opening of a magnificent electrical display are the features of today's program. Two great parades will be held during the week, in which Pythians from every state of the Union and many from Canada will participate. Elaborate decorations have already been installed along the line of march. The first of these spectacles, the military parade of the uniformed rank, will take place tomorrow. Wednesday will be the great day for the subordinate lodges. The parade will take up the greater part of the morning, while the afternoon will be devoted to reviews and drills. In the evening a reception will be held complimentary to the subordinate lodges. Thursday will be devoted to sight-seeing with a grand military ball in the evening. Friday will be another sight-seeing day and in the evening the first and third ranks will be conferred. On Saturday evening festivities will be closed with a grand carnival on the Charles river.

Legislation of importance to the order will be enacted at this convention, and in addition there will be a new supreme chancellor elected to succeed the present efficient chief executive of the order, Judge Charles A. Barnes of Illinois. It is customary for the supreme lodge officers to advance in rotation, but it is not certain that all the present line will be promoted.

The order now has a membership of nearly 700,000, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois leading in numbers. Charles A. Barnes, of Jacksonville, Ill., is supreme chancellor; Henry P. Brown of Texas, supreme vice-chancellor, and R. L. C. White of Nashville, Tenn., supreme keeper of record and seals.

The name of the order has a classical origin, being based on a story told by Plutarch, Cicero and others of two friends in Syracuse, one of whom being condemned to death by the tyrant Dionysius, and wishing before death, to visit his friends, offered the other friend as surety for his safe return. He did return, just as his friend Damon was being led forth to execution. For this the tyrant remitted the sentence and asked to be admitted as a third in a friendship so real. The name of the condemned man is given as Phintias, lately changed, we know not how, to Pythias.

The origin of this order is not lost in the mists of antiquity or fable. It was organized in Washington, D. C., February 1, 1864, by four or five persons, one of them being Schuyler Colfax, later under Grant, vice-president of the United States. The main features of the rganization and the ritual are largely due to Earnest G. Rathbone. Its primary object was to enlist young men as helpers to Mr. Lincoln in his efforts to preserve the Union, and Mr. Lincoln himself highly appreciated the order. Since the war it has spread through the south as well as the north. There is a lodge in Hawaii and one in the Philippines.

The Endowment Rank.

Besides the general order and under separate officers are the Endowment Rank, with nearly 80,000 members, an insurance company lately reorganized on an old line basis at a rate rather lower than the regular companies, and the Uniform Rank, a military organization having nearly 25,000 members.

The government of the order is modeled after that of the United States, whose institutions it so greatly revers. There is an executive department with the supreme chancellor at its head; the legislative department, represented by the Supreme Lodge, and the judicial department, whose powers are vested in the supreme tribunal, which has original and appellate jurisdiction.

The supreme domain is subdivided into grand domains, whose boundaries are the same as the various states and territories of the United States. By years of experience the branches of its government have been perfected until its machinery works like that of a national government, and the amount of the work done in the management of the order's affairs may be guessed from the fact that the record of a convention makes a volume of 600 or 700 pages. In point of membership the Knights of Pythias is exceeded only by the Odd Fellows, the Freemasons, and the Modern Woodmen of the World, and on the rolls appear the names of many thousand earnest, helpful men, who are daily living out in private life the doctrines of brotherliness and helpfulness that Pythias and his friend practiced long ago in Syracuse when Dionysius was king.

Progress on Wallowa Road.

H. A. Bradon, engineer in charge of the extension work of the O. R. & N. from this city to Joseph, was up from headquarters at the mouth of the Wallowa river Thursday and informed an Elgin Recorder reporter that the track laying gang is laying 3,000 feet of track daily, as soon as the Wallowa is crossed at the present wagon road bridge, when track laying machines will be pressed into service. Blasting and surfacing gangs are following up, and the track is being placed in good condi- Brandon estimates that it will take 45 days to reach Wallowa.
