

"Known For Its Strength"

What It Means

Many people do not know what a bank's capital means to its depositors, or the difference between a bank of little or no capital, and one with a large capital. One of the functions of

is to protect its depositors from possible loss; therefore the larger it is, the greater protection the depositors have.

Capital of	200,000.00
Surplus Fund of . . .	50,000.00
Undivided Profits . . .	25,000.00
Additional Shareholders Liability	200,000.00

A TOTAL OF 475 000.00

This means that this bank must lose practically half a million dollars before its depositors could lose a cent.

This protection is for YOU.

so that the crop is by no means an unusual one, but a very fair indication of what the country can be expected to do in that industry when the proper attention is given it. It is the early plantings that are sure to make the best productions, and with a season that would permit of early planting to come up properly and get an early stand it would be possible to ellipse the crop that is promised this season.

The good showing that is being made this year is already beginning to have an effect on the next season's acreage, and the field superintendent says that the indications for next year are brightening already.

MANCHESTER'S NEW LAWS.

Improvement for House Construction in This British City.

Consul Church Howe advises that the new building by-laws which have been under consideration by the Manchester corporation for some two or three years have been adopted by the improvements committee of that British city.

The by-laws are a great advance upon those now in operation. In the judgment of the committee, the new by-laws are an important and much needed step forward. They will secure to the houses of the future more air space, wider streets, and an absence of long, monotonous rows. The main object is to prevent the spread of slums and promote the health and comfort of the people. In future no new street will be less than 14 yards wide, an increase of 2 yards on the minimum width. Main roads must be 50 feet wide instead of 36 feet, the present minimum. And, as far as possible, one street will be planned so as to fit in with other streets.

The long rows of houses, all of one pattern, will not be sanctioned. No block of houses must contain more than 10, nor cover a frontage of more than 100 yards. At the back of each cottage there must be an area of not less than 250 feet, an advance of 100 feet. No blind alleys will be allowed in future, and all passages must lead to main streets. The committee also made provision for staircases in all houses to be fitted with hand rails.

These are the main points of the new by-laws. They will not, however, affect houses that have already been built, but in future all plans that come before the committee for sanction will have to conform to the new regulations.

Saved by Scratch.

Miss Christina Holt is lying at the home of A. Looff in this city unconscious and in a critical condition, as the result of exposure, says the Milton Eagle.

She was recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, and yesterday at about 11 a. m., during a fit of temporary aberration of mind, it is supposed, she wandered from home. Becoming alarmed at her absence, members of the household instituted a search, and she was discovered lying in a shallow pool of water near the river, her face all but submerged and life nearly extinct. She was discovered by Mr. Looff, and carried home and medical aid summoned, but it took two hours of constant effort to resuscitate her before signs of returning animation could be noticed. She is still in a semi-comatose condition and grave fears are entertained that she will not recover.

How long she remained in the water is not known, but as she was missing from the house about two hours it is probable she spent most of the time where she was found.

Miss Holt came to Milton from Germany a few months ago, and has made her home with Mr. Looff's family since.

Esperanto in Spain.

Consul R. M. Bartleman of Madrid reports that there are over 50 groups of Esperantists in the large towns and cities of Spain studying the new international language. A central society has been organized to encourage students and to disseminate information and to organize new study groups. Many houses have adopted Esperanto in their business and correspondence.

PENDLETON AS AN EDUCATIONAL CENTER

Some weeks ago a lady asked the question: "Why is it that every person that has ever attended the Pendleton academy, whether a graduate or not, is forever after a loyal friend and speaks in the highest terms their praise of the institution?" The answer, partly given then, is given here in full.

Location.

Pendleton academy stands in the center, geographically, commercially, socially and educationally, of one of the richest, if not the richest, counties of the state of Oregon. Umatilla, wheat, wool, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep, timber, fruit, honey, alfalfa, butter, cheese, eggs, poultry, etc., in endless variety and unlimited quantity.

From the academy windows can be seen the beautiful Umatilla river, sometimes a rippling brook, clear as crystal, singing its way to the sea, sometimes a raging torrent, swollen to fifty times its normal size by the melting snows in the mountains.

One can also see where Wild Horse, Tutulla, McKay and Birch creeks enter the Umatilla. The Blue mountains can also be seen in all their moods, sometimes covered with their white mantle of snow, sometimes brown or brassy, and again as blue as indigo.

The students can see the great wheat fields that produce over 1 per cent of the wheat of the United States and the same thrill that is produced by the fields of tasseled corn or rustling cotton is produced by the more modest but more useful waving wheat.

Ideals.

Pendleton academy stands for the highest Christian ideals in the development of character. Not so much "What do you know" as "What are you?" In discipline, honor is the rule and love takes the place of law. The whole faculty believe in and follow low the teachings of the "Man of Galilee."

School spirit runs high, and it is not class spirit. There is a community of interest that forbids classes or cliques, and every student seems proud of every other student; so when you find the glee club, the debating team, football team, or any other of the numerous clubs or teams before the footlights, you will find the whole school "behind the scenes."

And a student of another institution expressed the spirit of the school exactly when he said, "Before you lick that team you must lick the whole school."

The Halls.

Brown hall, for the boys; Koontz hall, for the girls; beautiful buildings, conveniently located and handsomely furnished; domestic science and glee club practice for the girls and orchestra for the boys.

The touches of home life in amusements, entertainments, etc., brought forth from a good authority on this subject not long ago this bit of commendation, "The mingling of the sexes in Pendleton academy is the nearest ideal I have ever seen."

A student in writing home last winter said to his mother, "To mingle with such a body of students and come under the direct care of such a faculty and imbibe the spirit of such an institution is a splendid education itself."

In this answer I have not tried to tell of the course of study, which is second to none of its class on the coast, neither have I discussed the management or equipment, the former up to date, the latter improving. I have simply tried to show that Pendleton academy has something in location ideals and school life and spirit that makes it a choice place to send the boys and girls, and whatever it may cost is more than met in the scholarship and character it develops.

BUMPER BEET CROP.

William Gough, field superintendent of the Nampa factory of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, arrived in town last evening from a trip out among the beet raisers, and he gives a glowing account of the prospects for a bumper beet crop for this season's factory run, says a special from Nampa to the Boise Capital News.

He predicts that the yield will be of greater tonnage than that of 1906, the first year of the factory's run here. The tonnage product that year was splendid, even for the acreage of the year, but this year the acreage is not nearly so great as that year, but the prediction is now that it will be a larger tonnage, which would mean a much larger acreage tonnage.

It is said, too, that the season was a very unfavorable one to begin with, and many of the plantings had to be done several times to get a stand,

For Sore Feet.

"I have found Bucklen's Arnica Salve to be the proper thing to use for sore feet, as well as for healing burns, sores, cuts and all manner of abrasions," writes Mr. W. Stone, of East Poland, Maine. It is the proper thing too, for piles. Try it! Sold under guarantee at Tallman & Co.'s drug store. 25c.
