

TO OVERTHROW PEOPLE'S CHOICE

OREGONIAN STIRS UP PARTY PREJUDICE.

Repeated Utterances of the Big Daily Show that It Seeks to Defeat Popular Election of Senators—Declares that Fulton Following Will Not Let Cake Manage State Campaign.

That the Portland Oregonian and the Fulton following in Portland are determined to overthrow the will of the people in the election of United States senator next winter is shown by the repeated utterances of the Oregonian and especially its covert fight on W. M. Cake as republican state chairman. The Oregonian of Monday, August 10, says of the coming of Senator Bourne, the organization of the next legislature and the election of the senate:

Should Bourne come to Oregon next month he will find his politics very much in need of his presence, or of his absence, as the case may be. His friends think his visit will help the cause; his foes say it will have the opposite effect.

The latter say it will make conspicuous the alliance between him and Chamberlain, show up the opposition to him of the national republican committee, enable his enemies more easily to line up republican forces on straight party issues and aid the movement for the election of a republican United States senator, against Chamberlain, democrat.

In each of his endeavors, Bourne will have a hard pull. From the looks of things he will not be successful in preventing organization caucuses of republican members of the senate and the house—which means that there will be an anti-Bourne president and an anti-Bourne speaker.

Those two officers thus chosen are very likely to be anti-Statement No. 1 men. While nothing can be asserted positively so far ahead of the event, Bourne is in extreme danger of losing these two fights. As for election of United States senator, that is involved in doubt; much depends on the outcome of the presidential election and on Chamberlain's assumed non-partisanship as to whether seven or eight republican Statement No. 1 legislators will refuse or fail to vote for him.

Taft Men Want Williams.
As for Cake's leadership of the Taft campaign, that will be impossible, since the Fulton followers will not stand for it and the national committee wants National Committeeman Ralph Williams to direct the campaign in this state.

It is learned on good authority that Chairman Hitchcock of the national committee has urged Fulton men to depose Cake from the chairmanship of the republican state central committee and has said that otherwise Oregon will receive no part of the Taft campaign fund.

The Fulton men, however, hoping to hold the Cake forces in line for Taft, have sought peace with them by proposing that Cake appoint a Taft managing committee, consisting of Ralph Williams, George H. Williams, F. W. Leadbetter, C. Ben Riesland and J. P. Kennedy, at least three of whom are Cake's warm personal friends.

To this plan, transmitted to Cake in Boston by wife, Cake has not responded, though nearly two weeks have elapsed. Perhaps Cake plans to have his central committee dispose of the Taft campaign management. It is known that before going east he instructed that notices be sent out about August 20 for a meeting of the committee September 5. Will Bourne be in Oregon then?

THE TRAMP PRINTER.

Passing of a Once Familiar Figure in Newspaper Offices.

What has become of the old time printer, once so familiar before the invasion of the linotype machine? He used to show up with the first frost. You found him in the office early some October morning, toasting his back before the stove. His first request was, "Boss, may I look over the exchanges?" and he was soon pawing around among the papers on the editorial table. By 9 o'clock he had levied sufficient tribute on the boys to get a shave and a drink, and after dinner he was picking up brevier in a way to make an expert envious. All winter he worked as steadily as a clock. Many were the stories he told around a back room fire on a Sunday afternoon. Though without much education, his very wanderings had made him an entertaining personage.

In the spring, however, when the tiny breeze buzzed lazily against the sunny window pane and the lilac bushes in the courthouse yard were putting forth their fragrant lavender plumes and the night air was pungent with the odor of burning brush piles and sweet with earthy exhalations of upturned sod and everywhere could be heard the laughter of children playing in the twilight, a change came over the spirit of the tramp printer. He felt the call of the road, with its luxurious days of animal delight under the clear skies of spring, with its privilege of work when you wish and idle when you will. He wished to see the boys again, to visit the fifty offices where he had friends. So one Monday morning in mid-April when you entered the office you missed his form at the case, the months' familiar figure with one gallus down and a short oil stained cob pipe protruding from under a slightly luminous nose. Yet with all his vagrant impulses, you felt kindly towards your nomadic brother in the art preservative and were ever ready for him to come again.

Before it is too late some gifted pen should tell the story of the tramp printer. It is one teeming with romance and the very best possibilities of good literary effort. True, today almost every office has the remorseless, speedy and ever ailing machine, but no one can wax either enthusiastic or reminiscent over a mere machine.—Shawnee (Okla.) Herald.

FEAT OF PIONEER WOMEN.

Mrs. G. M. Teal of La Grande and Mrs. Eaton of Portland, Up Mt. Emily.

Two pioneer women, Mrs. G. M. Teal of this city, aged 70 years, and her sister, Mrs. Ellen Eaton, who is here on a visit from Portland, and is two years younger than Mrs. Teal, made the trip to the summit of Mt. Emily Saturday, says the La Grande Star.

These two women are pioneer residents of this valley and have on many occasions heretofore scaled the heights of this county's highest mountain.

They decided to repeat the experience of their earlier years and made the ascent together once more. The trip was made without special difficulty. While on this expedition they also secured a good supply of huckleberries, for which the Mount Emily section is specially noted.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

A. S. Neubaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which only seemed to aggravate it. Fortunately, I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success. Pendleton Drug Company."

Tom—It was a case of love at first sight with me.

Jack—Then why didn't you marry her?

Tom—Oh, I saw her again on several occasions.—Chicago News.

WALKED THROUGH THE THIRD STORY WINDOW.

Baker City Man Lands on His Feet and Still Lives—Walked in His Sleep.

Early this morning B. F. Plaster, who lately came here from Union to take charge of the Columbia cafe in the Columbia hotel building near the O. R. & N. depot, walked out of a third story building on the north side of the hotel, says the Baker City Herald.

He alighted on his feet, but fell over and cut a severe gash in his head. The general shake up was severe and he was immediately taken to St. Francis hospital, where he is resting comfortably today.

How Plaster ever happened to do such a thing is a mystery. He gives no explanation of the strange act himself and there are those who are close to him who cannot say positively how it happened. The claim is made that he is a somnambulist and while in a comatose condition took the perilous leap, which under ordinary conditions it is thought would have resulted in many broken bones, if not in instant death.

Mr. Plaster is known to many people here. He has lived in Union for a long time and only a short time ago decided to come to Baker and cast his lot here. It is known that he was greatly worried over business affairs, but there is a belief that this would not have caused him to intentionally commit this morning's peculiar incident.

FIGHT FOR LAND ENDS.

Big Interests Compromise Trouble in Idaho.

The conflict of interests between Frank H. Buhl, of Sharon, Pa., who financed the original Twin Falls project and the Kuhn Brothers of Pittsburg, over the securing of the Bruneau-Twin Falls segregation of from 350,000 to 600,000 acres of land in Owyhee county, was happily adjudicated today, says the Boise Capital News.

Mr. Buhl is given the irrigation proposition and the Kuhn Brothers the right of way and exclusive control of the water power and electric railroad for the tracts.

Both sides are well pleased with the adjudication of the matter and the public can well afford to be pleased, as it means the immediate expenditure of several million dollars of Pittsburg money and the opening of a larger tract of land than has ever before been opened in this state.
