MASCOT COULD NOT SLEEP

YOUTHFUL SOLDIER SAYS SHOOTING KEPT HIM AWAKE.

Master Francis Lyman, aged 7, who accompanied Company L to American Lake, says he is glad to get home—Presented Picturesque Appearance.

"I couldn't sleep much at American lake, there was so much shootin'" said Francis Lyman, the youthful mascot of Company L, who attended the annual encampment at American lake, but who returned home with his father and a portion of the company yesterday, "and I am glad to get home."

This was the estimate of the American lake encampment given to the East Oregonian today by the lad who was a prominent figure in Company L quarters during the meeting of the militiamen at the encampment.

"Didn't you like the manoeuvres?" was asked the young mascot.

"The what? Naw. There was too much shootin'. I liked to help cook and see the drills, but I didn't like the shootin'. I couldn't sleep; the noise of the shootin' was always ringing in my ears."

The little lad, who is but 7 years of age, was selected by Company L as its mascot at the summer encampment and he was the youngest soldier among the 5000. He was dressed in the regular khaki service uniform, with hat, revolver, belt and all, and presented a most soldierly figure marching with his company.

REDS GET BOOZE IN WALLA WALLA

UMATILLA INDIANS DRINK CIRCUS FIREWATER.

Garden City Jail Was Filled to Overflowing With Indian Residents of Umatilla County Who Went to See Circus and Remained to Drink.

Because of the fact that yesterday was circus day, and harvesters from all parts of the surrounding country were here to see the elephants, the police force had all the business it could transact in a single day, the cells and corridors having been crowded almost to the limit last night when darkness fell over the valley, says the Walla Walla Union. The fireworks started Tuesday night, when a number of transients became over-charged with booze, and from that time until early this morning, officers with offenders in charge reported every few moments at the station.

So frequent did the visits of the blue-coats become, that it was found advisable yesterday evening to liberate two of the men behind the bars in order to make room for more. Accordingly J. Stanton, who was arrested yesterday morning for being drunk and disorderly, was released on $3 bonds to appear before Justice Huffman today. D. D. Miller, who was arrested yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, on the same charge, was released on $2.50 bonds, and promised to be good.

Among those who were given lodging last night were Willie Maycutche, an Indian from Athena; J. Price, Indian, Pendleton; Tom Loy, Indian, Umatilla; Lee Evine; nameless Indian; Jim White, Indian, witness; Charles Bowers, selling liquor to Indian; Archie Allard, disorderly conduct; Bill Hale, John Donnier, disorderly conduct; James Brisbois.

It was noticeable that nearly all of the offenders were from Umatilla county, where the recent elections banished the sale of intoxicating liquor. The large number of men who came to Walla Walla yesterday to see the circus, were in almost every case well supplied with money, and having been "dry" for several weeks proceeded at once to take on some liquid ballast with the result that the majority of them spent the night in the city jail.

on the phonograph. Thinking that he was going to give them the record of instructions which he left for his stenographer the evening before, he turned the machine on.

But he had not reckoned with the practical jokers of La Grande, for during the night a number of friends of the major had raided his office and had talked into a fresh cylinder some of the most unprintable and outrageous language that it was possible to conceive of, and when the machine was started for his lady friends instead of his own gentle voice giving instructions to his stenographer he was horrified to hear a strange voice begin on what was introduced as "A pure and pathetic poem addressed and dedicated to the Amalgamated Order of Hot Air Artists," and before he could stop the machine a few lines of the unspeakable poem had been repeated for the anxious listeners.

It is not necessary to say that Major Ivanhoe now takes his new cylinders into the back room and "tries them out" before inviting any lady friends to listen to his voice reel off instructions to his stenographer.

TEACHERS WILL FINISH.

A number of new teachers were added to the list today as follows: Miss Mae Walker of Milton, Mrs. Agnes Bullfinch of Weston and Miss Arnlge Barnes of Weston.

Miss Blanche E. Orswell of Eugene, Lane county, has sent her papers here to be graded and it is supposed will come here to teach somewhere in the county during the winter.

The work of examining the papers is progressing rapidly and it has been one of the most satisfactory examinations ever held in the county.

CHURCH FOR ECHO

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN NEW HOUSE OF WORSHIP.

Rapid Growth of Congregation in Hustling Town of Western Umatilla Leads to Starting of Campaign for Soliciting Funds.

The next church building to be erected in Umatilla county will be a Presbyterian church at Echo, if the plans of the Presbyterians at that place are carried into effect.

Rev. Levi Johnson, Presbyterian Sunday school missionary for Umatilla county, left for Echo this morning to begin active work toward the collection of funds and the erection of the building and it is almost certain that the congregation there will have a home of their own within a short time.

There is now a commodious Methodist church at Echo, but the Presbyterian congregation is increasing rapidly and a majority of the members are in favor of building a church. Recently Presbyterian churches have been organized at Pilot Rock and Ukiah through the Sunday school missionary work of Rev. Johnson, and with his active aid it is hoped to secure a new building at Echo.

IRRIGATION FOR CHILE.

Artesian Wells Proposed to Supply Water in the North.

Consul Alfred A. Winslow, of Valparaiso, reports that the government of Chile is giving the water supply question for the arid regions in the northern part of Chile, considerable attention, adding:

The government now has a project under consideration to see what can be done by way of irrigation by means of artesian wells in that region. It is recognized that all those barren plains need to make them the garden spots of the world is moisture. For that reason soundings are to be made in that part of the country to determine what the subterranean supply may be.

Julio Duplaquet, a government engineer, has been designated by the minister of public works to first make investigations in the vicinity of Copiapo, where it is also proposed to supply the city with artesian water. Copiapo is a city of about 12,000 inhabitants, and is situated in the arid regions about 250 miles north of Valparaiso. Rain has not fallen in that part of Chile for ages, and the few streams in that part of the country are fed by the melting snow on the west slopes of the Andes. The geological formation indicates that there must be subterranean streams flowing from the same source of the Pacific ocean.

If you see it in the East Oregonian, it's so.

EDITOR WANTS FAIR PLAY.

Will Give His Opponent for Senatorship a Column a Day to Reply in.

In announcing his candidacy for the nomination of United States senator on the democratic ticket, Mel A. Hoyt, editor of the Milwaukee Daily News, offers his opponent, Neal Brown of Wauson, one column of space a night in the News in which Brown can reply to what Hoyt is going to say about him.

In his statement Hoyt tells where he stands on leading questions and says the voters must accept him as he is or else let him alone. He says he is going to say many things about Brown, but wants a fair fight and therefore opens the columns of his paper to his opponent.

Threshers Burned.

Monday night the threshing outfit of Newton Jacobson was entirely destroyed by fire at the ranch of H. W. Lawson, six miles east of Colfax, Wash. The fire was started about 6 o'clock by an explosion of smut, but it was supposed the fire was all extinguished. However, about midnight the flames broke out afresh and the entire outfit was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $1700. Saturday night at the farm of Mrs. Mary F. White, 10 miles from Colfax, the machine owned by A. L. Ballentine was burned together with about $700 worth of grain.

S. B. Calderhead, general agent for the Northern Pacific, and E. A. McKenna, traveling freight agent for the same system, were in the city last evening on a tour of the line in eastern Oregon.
