SIMPLE CURE FOR BAD MILK.

The Minnesota health board, agricultural college experts and dairymen are cooperating to remove the menace of tubercular cows and bad milk from that state.

It is estimated that it will cost $1,000,000 to cure the tubercular herds, but the money is going to be spent willingly in the worthy effort.

In the meantime, while the diseased cows are being cured and removed, a simple remedy or preventive of the dangers of tubercular milk is given. This remedy is pasteurization of all milk used. This is an absolute protection from the dangers of tubercular milk, the combined authorities of that state declare.

But Minnesota will be rid of her diseased cows, notwithstanding this simple cure, and it is only recommended as a protection while the impure milk is used.

Pendleton has been pasteurizing a large part of her milk for the past year. The Pendleton Creamery company installed a pasteurizing plant and has been furnishing sanitary milk to its patrons. If this is the cure for impure milk, let us have it extended, and enforced.

In states where hog cholera is prevalent, the skimmed milk fed to pigs is pasteurized. Oregon should at least take as good care of her babies as Iowa does of her pigs. Let us enforce pasteurization of all milk sold in the markets of the state, if that is the cure for tubercular germs in the milk.

REPUBLICAN REFORM.

The San Francisco Star, one of the leading reform papers of the west, after complimenting the East Oregonian on a recent editorial on the regulation of railroads, says: "We would like to know, then, why a paper like the Pendleton East Oregonian, having such advanced views, should think of supporting Taft as a presidential candidate."

The East Oregonian finds congenial company with its advanced views among republicans of Oregon, all of whom are supporting Taft and who during the past few years have enacted in Oregon all of the advanced laws of which the Star boasts from week to week.

Republican Oregon has adopted the initiative and referendum, the direct election of United States senators, the recall, the local option law, the direct primary law, the anti-corruption act, the proportional representation law and other advanced laws for the protection and enlightenment of the people.

And there are thousands of republicans in Oregon who believe in the government ownership of railroads. Because they are republicans is no reason why they cannot be reformers. Because they support party nominees and party platforms is no sign that they are not making individual and collective progress.

The way to get reform is to work for it through the dominant party. Populistic Kansas never secured one-tenth of the really progressive laws which republican Oregon has willingly enacted. If the Star would work with the republican party for the reforms it seeks, it would have the pleasure of seeing those reforms enacted into law in a short time.

A few reformers in Oregon have simply leavened the whole republic can lump with the leaven of reform and Oregon stands at the head of the reform states, while yet giving Theodore Roosevelt 42,000 majority for president in 1904.

No use to howl for a life time in a minority party for reforms which the majority party wants and will gladly accept if coming from its own members.

ONE EDITOR TO BE ENVIED.

Colonel Ernst Hofer, editor and proprietor of the Salem Journal, is one editor who is to be envied. While he edits a good paper and enjoys a large income and profit from his business, yet editing his paper is one of the least of his troubles.

Editor Hofer is a sort of a versatile Bohemian, who in common parlance of the country, "has many irons in the fire," and yet he neglects none of them and makes a "go" of everything he attempts.

While being one of the best and most vigorous editorial writers in the northwest, Col. Hofer is also a lecturer, reformer, student. He is interested in strawberry culture and writes a strawberry pamphlet about once every two weeks. He is president of the Willamette Valley Development league and at the present time is conducting an educational campaign in the Willamette valley towns.

He is a prominent member of the Oregon normal school board and is an active reformer in school policies. He is a taxation and land law reformer and is preparing to issue an exhaustive review of these subjects to be used in his reform campaign.

Colonel Hofer knows the ins and outs of Oregon politics, can put his finger on the men who are "in it for revenue only" and is a far-seeing, shrewd, fearless politician himself, although his party, the republican, especially the leaders of his party, have tried to oust him time and time again.

He is an eager student of nature and exults in the discovery of some new feature about a blackberry, strawberry plant or a rose bush. He is an observant, wide awake thinker, lives close to nature and fills an unique place in the journalistic life of Oregon.

Hofer "spreads" himself over all of these delightful fields ably and gracefully. He gives expression to just what he thinks in his paper, finds keenest enjoyment in his studies and is surely getting as much out of life as any professional man in Oregon.

Hofer is to be envied by three-fourths of the world, because he gets his enjoyment and pleasure out of his work. His profession is his playground. How many men can say that much?

WHO WAS THE BRUTE?

While all the forces of this great nation are working toward a higher civilization, reformers map out their campaigns for the betterment of mankind, and the doctrine of the equality of man is preached from pulpit and rostrum, now and again comes a shock which paralyzes the nation, says the Spokane Chronicle.

For the crime of one negro, later arrested and certain to receive his just deserts, mob violence caused the death of probably a half dozen whites and negroes in Springfield.

No long and bitter fight against the negro had been waged in Illinois, and there was no reason to believe justice would not be meted out, but the brute in mankind took possession and even the rain of lead from the militia failed in part to bring the senseless mob to time.

The outbreak is only another reminder that the negro question is a paramount one in this country. The crime of one turns an entire community against the race.

Had the outbreak occurred in the south the northerners would have turned the finger of scorn on the brutes of the south, but in a northern state, where condemnation of the southern hatred for the negro is strong, the northerners are forced to face the question frankly.

It was the same mob. The mob law of the south and the mob law of the north are identical. Frenzied murderers, bent on wholesale destruction, kill and burn just as a mob might do in Georgia or Louisiana, where the negro is a much more serious question. There he dominates in numbers, and only the constant struggle holds him down, else he dominates in fact as well.

The negro problem is a question which has been dodged ever since the civil war. Such actions as those at Springfield will not settle the matter. When white men become brutes what can be expected of the colored men who have never had a chance?

Beginning September 1 and continuing for 60 days, or until October 31, the Harriman lines will again install the colonist rates to the northwest. Umatilla county should get some excellent settlers during the fall. The success of her crops in this, the driest year of all her years, should cause people to hunger for a tract of Umatilla land.

The Oregonian cannot become accustomed to submit to the will of the people. It has had its own way in politics so long that it is a punishment for it to see anybody else have their way. Might as well be reconciled, old boy; times have changed. The people are IT.

PROGRESS IN CORSETS.

It is not a hundred years ago since stays for women were composed not of whalebone or hardened leather, but of bars of iron and steel from three inches to four inches broad and 18 inches long.

Again, during the reign of George III the top of the steel stay busk had a long stocking needle attached to it to prevent girls from spoiling their shape by stooping too much over their work. In the days of Catherine de Medicis 13 inches was the fashionable size for the waist, and to achieve this an over corset of very thin steel plate was worn. It was made in two pieces, opened longitudinally by hinges, and was secured when closed by hasp and pin, much like an ordinary box fastening.

The best corsets today are made on a foundation of Greenland whalebone, which has steadily risen in price during the last 25 years from $3500 to $15,000 a ton. Cheap whalebone can be bought for $150 to $200 a ton, but it soon dries and becomes brittle, thus spoiling the corset as well as the figure.

CURED FRENCH MASHERS.

American girls, whose ideas of independence do not agree with those of the French people, are not bothered by mashers whenever they attempt to go about unescorted in Paris.

No French girl whose parents have a proper regard for her, is ever allowed to do such a thing and the idea has become implanted in the native mind that any young woman who appears alone is at least unconventional. It did not take a young and attractive American girl long to learn this fact this summer when she traveled around Paris as she was accustomed to in New York. All manner of men smirked at her, lifted their hats, tried to act as her escort and endeavored to begin conversations.

But every one failed suddenly when she gave him her anti-masher treatment, which worked better than a strong right arm. To each she extended her hand, palm up, with one of those minute bits of fractional currency that they have over there balanced on her palm.

"Poor man," she remarked in hesitating French, "I'm so sorry you're so poor you have to beg. Here's all the money I have."

ROYCROFT LOYALTY.

Loyalty. If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him. If he pays you wages that supply your bread and butter, work for him; speak well of him; stand by him and stand by the institution he represents. If put to a pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness.

If you must vilify, condemn and eternally disparage, why, resign your position, and when you are outside, damn to your heart's content. But as long as you are a part of the institution do not condemn it. If you do, you are loosening the tendrils that hold you to the institution, and the first high wind that comes along you will be uprooted and blown away, and probably you will never know why.—Elbert Hubbard.

Now that Turkey has a new constitution "The Sick Man of the East" should be able to diminish his doctor bills.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadest and on each bottle wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies the same. This he feels he can well afford to do because the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftentimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nerve and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

MOTORING.

When Bagley motors here in town, Observed by the cop, You'd think his car were broken down And limping to the shop. He has been fined a time or two When he has been remiss, And always thinks to be discreet And makes the trees along the street Appear to him like this.

But when he gets into the park, Where seldom is a cop, His sparking plug begins to pop, And his popper begins to pop, He crouches low on his wheel, The motor starts to hiss, The gasoline begins to spray, And all the trees along the way Appear to him like this.

And then the country road is his, Where copper shere are none; The devil car begins to whizz, And motor is in fun, And when the shere is found a himup, Awaking him from bliss, He starts fixing to explode, And the smoking post along the road Appear to him like this. —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE FARMER'S COMPLAINT.

If the farmer's returns are not great they possess a degree of certainty by which he is sure to keep the wolf from the door. The fallacy in all of this bewailing the meager income from the fields and orchards of the land lies in the assumption that happiness depends upon goodly possessions. Diogenes, with his tub and shirt, asking Alexander to remove from his sunlight, incited the Macedonian conqueror to cry out: "If I were not Alexander I would be Diogenes." The seat of peace, of content, is in a man's own bosom and not in the mine, the warehouse, the granary or bank vault.—Maxwell's Tattler.

$10,000,000 FOR WATER WAGON.

Upward of $10,000,000 will be divided among Ludlow Center, Mass., young men who do not drink or smoke in the year 1924, says a news item. A similar amount will be available in 1924, 1927 and 1934. At the old home week sermon in the First Congregational church today, a letter was read from Charles D. Reed, stating that he had sent to the church a draft for $10,000.

Of this amount $4000 is to be placed at interest and the income distributed at the next four centennial celebrations of the town, beginning in 1974. The interest available for this first 1974 celebration will be but $15,000.

The population of Ludlow Center, which is now but a few hundred, is dwindling steadily, and by 1974 it is estimated that one young man may get the whole $10,000,000 if he is real good.

OKLAHOMA'S FRUITFUL SOIL.

Henry Beard of Shawnee, has three of the champion cherry trees of this state, or of most any state for that matter. From these three trees he has this year sold fruit to the value of $40. He says that 100 trees like this can be grown on each acre of Oklahoma soil; but if this was done there would probably soon be a drop in the price of cherries. Anyway, those folks who said Oklahoma was no fruit country were never worse fooled in their lives.—Kansas City Journal.
