 We can not, of course, all be handsome. And it's hard for us all to be good. We are sure now and then to be lonely. And we don't always do as we should. To be patient is not always easy. To be cheerful is much harder still. But at least we can always be pleasant. If we make up our minds that we will. And it pays every time to be kindly. Although you feel worried and blue. If you smile at the world and look cheerful. The world will soon smile back at you. So try to brace up and look pleasant. No matter how long you are down. Good humor is always contagious. But you banish your friends when you frown.—Selected. *****

TO THE LEGISLATORS.

Here is a personal message, a direct and driving reminder to you, Bill Smith and John Jones and Dick Brown and every other individual member of the Oregon legislature:

Are you, John Jones, going to be the individual member of this legislature who will sell your soul to the corruptionists who are trying to overthrow the people in the election of United States senators?

Are you going to be the traitor who shall come home from Salem branded with infamy and odium, a treacherous, dishonest, corrupt tool who took part in delivering the state legislature over to the hoodlums?

Are you going to be one of the individual members who defy the sovereign people of this state who have declared by a majority of 58,000 votes that the people's choice shall be headed in the election of a United States senator?

Do you expect to defy the sovereign electorate of this state in this fundamental matter and still come home and live a respected man among your neighbors? Or are you willing to come home wearing the earmarks of the corruptionists, wearing the collar of the hoodlums, carrying in your heart the knowledge that you have been a party to a corrupt scheme to set aside the will of the people?

No matter if a democrat has been elected. The people are greater than you or a dozen or a hundred like you. You are not a dictator. You are a servant, an agent, a representative. You have no choice higher or more binding than the people's instructions to you.

Will you do your duty or will you shirk it? Are you a friend of the sovereign people of this state or are you a member of the little selfish gang which is trying to retain its grip on the patronage and offices of the state?

This is a matter for you to decide, Mr. Legislator.

THE FRONTIER VANISHES.

The total disappearance of mining towns formerly graced the map of eastern Oregon, reminds the thoughtful observer that the old frontier settlements and frontier conditions are rapidly vanishing from this section of the state. We are getting down to the bedrock settlements, to the permanent growth and substantial civilization which is to "stick."

Dozens of flourishing mining towns formerly graced the map of eastern Oregon. Now they are but memories. At one time thousands of people swarmed through the hills, eager, gold-hungry, adventurous, fleeting. But they are not now to be found. The abandoned camps and worked out gulches are even more desolate for one having heard the noise of life.

All through eastern Oregon are the wrecks of once lively little sawmill towns in the foothills. During the halcyon period of sawmilling in the early eighties, when timber was plentiful hundreds of men made fortunes and built up respectable settlements.

Now the mountains are stripped, the towns dead, the settlements forsaken and the waste lands more worthless for having been stripped of their protecting forests.

The fact remains that the agricultural belt, the substantial settlements depending upon the rich soil of the eastern Oregon counties are the permanent ground work for eastern Oregon's civilization.

Towns like Pendleton and La Grande, founded upon a permanent basis with agriculture, irrigation and stockraising as resources, are going constantly forward. The growth may not be swift, but it is certain and steady.

The once desert land of Umatilla, Union and Baker counties is now supporting what promises to be the most substantial, most prosperous and most progressive population of the northwest. Unlike the frontier settlements of the mining and sawmill districts, this country founded upon agriculture will grow stronger and more prosperous with age.

It will not see its resources diminishing, but rather as cultivation and care and irrigation enriches the soil, the resources will constantly increase and grow stronger.

SCHOOL DAYS.

On Monday, September 7, the first Monday in the month, the public schools doors of Pendleton will open and 1000 merry children will don their fall bonnets, gather up their books and "hike" to school.

It is a pleasant time of year, this Indian summer, school time and end of harvest. From all the farthest streets and lanes the little tots will come to school and life takes on a new aspect. The town always awakens from the semi-conscious period of summer when the crisp morning and school days arrive.

Already numerous farmers are inquiring for houses in town and by the time harvest is entirely over and grain hauling done, the public schools will be brimming full.

It promises to be a good school year. Increased attendance from every part of the county is promised and teachers and students are looking forward to the opening day with enthusiasm and delight. Pendleton offers more in an educational way this fall than ever before. The schools are better equipped, have a wide scope and better organization than ever before.

Farmers seeking a place to educate their children cannot afford to overlook the advantages of Pendleton. The city has made special effort to make her schools attractive. Nothing has been left undone to meet the demands of the surrounding country in the way of equipment and the standard of the schools is even better than the material equipment of the schools.

There is a school spirit that is contagious. Even the little third and fourth graders have their yells, their mottoes, their class rivalries, their athletic contests. And out of this class rivalry and splendid school spirit, comes a mental progress, an advancement in their studies which is impossible where there is less spirit and rivalry.

Are you coming to Pendleton? Are you ready for school? Will you take advantage of the excellent opportunity which this city has placed before you?

IT'S A GOOD SIGN.

From all indications it seems that a resumption of expenditures for construction, improvements and equipment is considered by most of the railroads.

The physical condition of the roads would be much benefited by such expenditures, which in turn would benefit general business. Orders for any considerable quantity of equipment would immediately give the steel business a period of increased activity, and as steel is considered the barometer of trade, this activity through the increased tonnage of the railroads, and the employment of additional labor, would inevitably extend to other industrial lines.

It is said by a traveler that a barren island in the Persian gulf is the hottest place on earth. Well, perhaps after this traveler passes through the sand hills of the Columbia river between Arlington and Celilo about 2 o'clock some afternoon, he will long to get back to the cooler breezes of the Persian gulf.

It is hoped that by the time the

HAD FRONTAL HEADACHES EYES BOTHERED ME DROPPING IN MY THROAT

MRS. ELIZABETH H. MARTIN, 323 Bowen Avenue, Chicago, Ill., Chaplain Garfield Circle, writes: "Peruna has been a blessing to our family for a good many years, as we have all used it off and on for colds and catarrh, and I have given it to all of my children with the best of results. "I found that a cold left me with catarrh of the head in a very bad form. My head was stopped up, I had frontal headaches, my eyes bothered me, and there was a nasty dropping in my throat which nauseated me and made it impossible many times for me to eat my breakfast. "As soon as I began to use Peruna I found it relieved me, my head soon cleared up and in a remarkably short time I was rid of catarrh. "I can, therefore, give my personal experience with your valuable medicine, and am pleased to do so." People who prefer solid to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets, which contain the medicinal ingredients of Peruna.

Man-a-lin the Ideal Laxative. hammers cease on the new city hall building, that the same hammers will be ready to start work on the federal building. And by the time the federal building is completed, it is hoped that a Carnegie library building may be ready for the carpenters and brick masons. There is plenty in sight for Pendleton to keep the builders at work perpetually.

Honestly, now, are you not proud of Pendleton's record for the first two months of prohibition? Isn't it worth something to have the streets rid of drunken men, beer kegs and other evidences of the saloon? No town in the world ever advertised how many saloons it supports. That is enough to convince you that nobody is really proud of the liquor business.
