Pioneer Bled to Death.

The people of Long Creek were shocked last Sunday afternoon at the report brought in from Charles Balance's ranch that Henry H. Davis was dead, says the Long Creek Ranger. Dennis P. King, who happened to be passing the place discovered that something was wrong and came to town and notified Commissioner Allen Porter who went to the Balance house and discovered the dead body of Mr. Davis. He had been tending to the place while Mr. Balance and family were up in the mountains gathering huckleberries and Mr. Davis met his death alone.
Death was due to a hemorrhage which was caused from an old affliction on his left leg. The circumstances surrounding his death will never be known, but from the evidence gathered at the coroner's jury there is little doubt of the cause. Blood stains were numerous about the ranch and showed where Mr. Davis had walked about before he became too weak to get around.

Heavy Yields in Idaho.

The returns from the harvest fields show the yield this year to be the largest for several seasons and, with the assurance of a good market the farmers are jubilant, says an item from Culesac. It is estimated that the fall wheat for the entire Culesac section will average 35 bushels to the acre, but several fields have made averages from 45 to 50 bushels an acre.
The farmers who this year planted their summer fallow land to corn are highly pleased with the results. The corn has made a thrifty growth and is filled with well-developed ears. The value of the crop is much in excess of all the labor entering into the care of the summer fallow and will provide excellent feed for stock during the winter. It is estimated that 1000 acres of corn are cultivated in the Culesac section this year.

Hop Pickers Are Scarce.

The annual call for men to harvest and pick the crops and fruit of the Yakima valley has been issued and the scarcity of men willing to work has caused a slump in the local labor market, says a Yakima item. Farmers and fruit growers are experiencing difficulty in procuring men. Railroad and irrigation construction have heavy standing orders for men, which they are unable to fill.

To relieve the strained condition men will be shipped in from sound points, the first allotment of which will arrive Tuesday morning from Seattle. These men and women numbering 60 are for work in the Sanger Fruit company's orchard in Porter Bottom.

Still Waiting for Lights.

Last night Pendleton was again in darkness and the current had not yet been turned on at 3 o'clock this afternoon. However at that time the electric people were expecting to see the lights on at almost any minute.
It is explained that the delay in turning on the current is due to the difficulty in drying out the machinery at the power plant. Though the plant is uninjured the machinery became soaked by the flood and it must be thoroughly dried before the plant can be used.

Finneran Baby Died.

Walter Finneran, the 4-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Finneran, died at the hospital yesterday evening following an operation for intestinal trouble. ### RUSHING WORK ON GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

The Railroad Age Gazette gives the following account of the progress of work on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad through northern Canada:
Collingwood Schrieber, consulting engineer, has received information that the line is finished 675 miles west of Winnipeg as far as Battle river, where it is awaiting the completion of the big bridge. Between this point and the Claver Bar bridge the distance is 112 miles. The substructure on each bridge is finished, and the superstructure in progress.
It is expected that track will be laid to Edmonton by November 15. West of Edmonton 2000 men are working on the Edmonton-Wolf river section of 119 miles, and it is anticipated that the first 70 miles of this section will be finished this year.
The contract for 70 miles of the 100 section east from Prince Rupert has been sublet to contractors, who are pushing the work.

WILL FIGHT FOR FARMERS AT FT. WORTH CONVENTION

H. D. G. Cox of Walla Walla and F. A. Sikes of Milton will leave today for Fort Worth, Texas, where they go as delegates from the local Farmers' union to the national conference of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative union which convenes there next week, says the Walla Walla Union. They will work with representatives from other unions in the west in bringing the next national convention to Walla Walla.

It is admitted by those interested in the organization in the west and also by prominent officials in the east that the next conference will come to the state of Washington and there now seems to be a sentiment all over the state favorable to bring it to Walla Walla.

One thing is certain, the Walla Walla delegates will make a strenuous fight to bring the convention here.
If Spokane carries out the proposed agreement which Secretary A. C. Moore of the Commercial club has extended to the Spokane Chamber of Commerce promising Walla Walla's support in bringing the next national irrigation congress to the Falls City provided the Garden City received the support of the former city in its fight to secure the Farmers' convention, there will likely be little difficulty in bringing the congress here.
