PROF. H. T. FRENCH TELLS OF THE NEW WHEAT

Professor H. T. French, director of the Idaho experiment station, who has been in the city attending the session of the state board of horticulture, said yesterday that irresponsible information had been sent out relative to the position taken by the experiment station as to the Alaska wheat and in consequence some unfair criticism has been directed against the station, says the Lewiston Tribune. He said:

"The experiment station has had nothing to do with the advertising of this wheat. Mr. Adams, the owner of the wheat, last season brought a sample to the station for an analysis and the test was made by Professor J. S. Jones, the station chemist. The sample amounted to about one ounce. It was a hard, flinty wheat, rich in protein. Mr. Jones' findings were to the effect that he provided Mr. Adams with a report to that effect.

"The wheat the station analyzed and the wheat that Mr. Adams has grown this year are not of the same variety. The Alaska is a soft white wheat, evidently one of the Egyptian varieties introduced in this country many years ago. We desire to have the people thoroughly understand the station has not been identified with the advertising of the Alaska wheat and its only connection has been as I have stated."

Mr. French said the station was arranging to make a mill test of the wheat so that its milling qualities can be definitely determined. He states that since the wheat came into prominence, through the wide advertising given, the experiment station has received from 300 to 500 letters.

Frequently these letters contained currency and money orders ranging from $1 to $10. These sums are being returned to the senders and the stenographer is busy dictating the replies to the letters received. A circular letter has also been prepared by Mr. French dealing with the subject.

IOWA MAY GO DRY, SURE.

Anomaly of Present "Prohibition" Law Is Reviewed.

"Iowa canted, decanted and recanted" is the way the working of prohibition in that state is summed up in Appleton's magazine for September by Trumbull White, who has observed the working of the Iowa anti-liquor law for the past 20 years.

According to his conclusions the situation in regard to liquor selling in Iowa is much like that in reference to race-track gambling in New York before Governor Hughes forced the anti-gambling act through the legislature. That is to say the selling of liquor is forbidden by the law of the state, but is permitted by another law through the device of imposing a fine which amounts to no more than a license.

This measure, which is known in Iowa as the mule law, provides for the virtual suspension of the prohibitory statutes if the written consent of a majority of the legal voters in a city or 65 per cent of the voters of a county is obtained. When this is done licenses may be issued by the local authorities, the state license fee being $600, while the cities may charge additionally whatever they choose.

Under this system about one-fourth of the counties of Iowa, including most of the counties along the Mississippi and Missouri rivers in which the majority of the cities of the state are located, have legalized liquor selling. It is, therefore, erroneous to speak of Iowa as a prohibition state for a large proportion of the population live in communities where saloons are allowed to run openly and legally, although the prohibition laws passed 25 years ago never have been repealed, and in some of the rural counties are still enforced.

TO TEACH GIRLS TO COOK.

If the city school board acts favorably on a measure to be introduced at its next meeting, Friday night, by President N. G. Blalock, there will be added to the course of instruction in the city schools the domestic science course for girls, says the Walla Walla Union.

The matter has been discussed on the streets of the city for several days and seems to have many supporters among whom it is claimed are some members of the school board.

Several years ago Dr. Blalock introduced a similar proposition but there did not seem sufficient support to warrant an active campaign in favor of the measure. But now, since the establishment of the manual training department for boys, the absolute necessity for a course in cooking and housekeeping among girls is apparent to many.

A large representation is expected at the meeting of the board in view of the fact that this question will come up for discussion at that time.

SOUX BRAVES INVADE ST. PAUL STATE FAIR

Within a week 300 Sioux braves will march on St. Paul, says a St. Paul item. For 50 years the Indians in Minnesota have been quiet; now they are preparing for an invasion.

Fifty years ago there was an announcement that an invasion would occur. The Indians stole upon the village in the night, and left murder, rape and violence behind them. But times have changed, and the invasion of the Sioux, after a period of 50 years will be a peaceful one.

A delegation has left St. Paul for the Sioux reservation to bring 300 Indians who will take part in the attack on Ft. Ridgely, which is to be reproduced at the 1908 Minnesota state fair, in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the state.

The coming of the Sioux will be fraught with deep historic significance from the fact that the last invasion of the Sioux was the massacre of 1862, when 800 men, women and children of Minnesota were murdered.

The missionaries had done all in their power to avert the conflict, but they were powerless to stop it. The massacre was started by a small party of Indians in a spirit of bravado more than anything else. They chased a farmer near New Elm from his home, followed him and then killed him and his family.

The news spread like wildfire and almost to a tribe the Sioux all over the state rose, killed the whites and destroyed their homes. In an incredibly short time 800 had been slain. Then the whites formed and by a united effort crushed the uprising.

For this uprising 303 Indians were arrested by the federal government and found guilty of murder and rape. Of this number 265 were afterwards pardoned by President Lincoln.

This was the last invasion of the Sioux until the one which will occur within a week.

IRRIGATE LAND NEAR SUMPTER

LOGGED-OFF TO BE CONVERTED INTO FARMS.

Tract of 400 Acres Secured by an Irrigation and Mining Company and the Once Timbered Land Will Be Made to Produce Crops—Fine Soil Is Believed to Be Adapted to Irrigated Products—Placer Mining From Same Canals.

The Blue Mountain American of Sumpter says of an irrigation enterprise which has just been started at that place and which promises to become an important project if carried out as planned:

An enterprise destined to occupy a most important place in the future history of Sumpter, likewise to prove of untold benefit, was made known this week when it was announced that M. H. Allen and associates had secured the holdings of the old Sumpter Townsite company, and would immediately begin to change them from idleness to activity.

Included in the transfer are the 400 acres of logged-off lands south of town, which the townsite had placed into town lots during the boom days. These will be cleared, irrigated and immediately set in timothy.

Plenty of water is assured the project from Powder river and the surplus from the water company's reservoir. By utilizing the old ditch the former can be taken from the river about a mile above town and by a slight change in its route can be brought about 200 feet below the reservoir where it will catch the usual big overflow.

In addition to affording water for irrigation purposes the project will also furnish water for placer mining on the benches below town. It has long been known that on two old timber claims below the townsite's holdings there are placer deposits warranting further prospecting and development and it is expected their operations will result at once from the new enterprise as negotiations are pending for their transfer.

Old-timers recall the successful working of the Stoddard grounds right on the edge of the city limits for placer gold by water carried through the old Rimboi ditch and how it was discontinued after a bitter fight incident to an overflow which did considerable damage and caused the city to declare the ditch a public nuisance.

At that time Mr. Stoddard had concluded arrangements to work the placer deposits on the old Kitchen ranch, whose riches had been demonstrated by a most thorough examination and no doubt those grounds will also profit by the new enterprise.

The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbery's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs, it allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk.
