Shipment of Oregon Lumber to be Made to Hamburg—Spars for Emperor William's New Pleasure Yacht, to Be Sent from Oregon Mills—Agent of Hamburg Companies Now in Portland—Shipments Will Reach 1,000,000 Feet Per Year.

Arrangements whereby the well-known lumber interests of the Sohsts of Hamburg are to be represented in Portland and regular shipments of Oregon dressed lumber to Germany from now on were completed yesterday, says the Oregon Sunday Journal.

G. W. Gates & Co., are to be the agents in Portland of the Sohst family, the business of which has been handed down several generations. The Sohsts first engaged in the lumber business in Germany in 1833.

Walter H. Sohst of Hamburg, who has been selecting spars for the private yacht of the emperor now in course of construction, is at the Hotel Portland.

Mr. Sohst has been in Portland several days and during his stay here he completed all the arrangements for the lumber interests of Germany which he represents to have agents in Portland to attend to the company's business. About 1,000,000 feet of the finest dressed lumber that Oregon produces will be shipped annually to the Sohsts in Hamburg. The lumber is to be used in ship building.

Oregon Lumber in Yacht.

The yacht of the Kaiser II is to be one of the finest in the world. It will have 12 spars, each of which is to be 120 feet in length. Contracts for this part of the kaiser's new vessel have already been let by Mr. Sohst. In all, 29 of the finest spars that ever crossed the Atlantic will be sent. The extra number above those actually required for the yacht have been arranged for by Mr. Sohst so that there would be additional ones on hand should it be found necessary to have a call for them.

"It is quality that we want, not quantity," Mr. Sohst said last evening at the Portland, "and on this account I came to Oregon for lumber.

"The dressed lumber that we are to ship from Portland is to be first-class in every particular. We use it for deck and other shipbuilding purposes. For many years we have been getting lumber for our business in the south but the kind that we must have is about all cleared out. On this account we decided some time ago to make arrangements in Portland to have our interests represented by regular agents.

"We shall not use lumber in great amounts at first, but the timber that we shall use is to be nothing but the finest. We consider the lumber of Oregon as good as any in the world.

"Incidentally, I may say that I like Portland better than any other city in the country. The fact that from now on lumber is to be sent direct to Germany from Portland, which means practically that a new field is being opened up for the industry which has made Oregon famous throughout the world, is a good advertisement for this part of the country."

Mr. Sohst also thinks favorably of Vancouver, B. C. He leaves Portland this evening.

The lumber shipments from the Sohsts through G. W. Gates & Co. of Portland will begin in the near future and will continue from time to time, increasing as the German shipbuilders see fit to order more.

It is quite probable that much of the first shipment of Oregon lumber that is to be sent to Hamburg will be used in the construction of the emperor's private yacht.

rangers by persisting in daring "tusk" hunting.

Binkley was arrested and convicted of the illegal killing of game in Idaho, and was later arrested and convicted before the federal authorities in the park for the illegal killing of game there, and was confined in the guard house, from which he escaped nearly a year ago.

Binkley was very active in killing elk for their teeth and with a companion named Purdy operated back and forth across the Wyoming-Idaho line, for a long time evading the officers, although working mostly on foot or snowshoes.

In spite of the vigilant search for Binkley in the park and the patrolling of the trails leading out of it, he was never apprehended, and it is now pointed out that probably no man has a better knowledge of the trails and routes and hiding places in the big wonderland than the tusk hunter.

He had also ample opportunity to become acquainted with the habits and movements of tourists and of the location of the guards, patrols and numbers of the troops, so that if he is the mysterious holdup he doubtless had chosen well the time and place for his robberies and had his way of escape well laid out.

The man who held up the 16 stages in the park was afoot, and for this reason it was expected his capture would be easy, but if the fugitive is Binkley the fact that he once escaped from the park guard would make it easier for him to make his escape now.

A description of the outlaw received today tallies to a large extent with Binkley, the outlaw being described as a man of about 40, five feet eight in height, stockily built and weighing about 150 pounds, with stubby gray whiskers and sandy hair turning gray.

He wore a brown or cream shirt, probably khaki, high black shoes, a soft felt hat and carried a smokeless rifle and an automatic pistol. He spoke with a rasping German accent, and in this respect the description differs from that of the Jackson Hole hunter. The transportation companies have increased the reward to $1500, which with $300 offered by the government, makes $1800 in all.

NEW DISEASE

PUZZLES DOCTORS

Oroville, Sept. 3.—There seems to be a new and very fatal disease among young people going the rounds in Oroville. A few days ago Arthur Grathwohl, a 17-year-old boy, died. The doctor says that he was cured of the disease, but he died suddenly, the malady affecting the heart. His sister, Mrs. Emma Grathwohl, who, during the time of her brother's sickness was acting as assistant in the postoffice, was the next to be taken, but she is recovering rapidly. About the same time that Arthur died, Donald MacComber, the boy who was in the recent gun accident, complained of a sore throat. He is doing nicely, but three of his brothers and sisters died in three days from the effects of the terrible scourge. They were: George, aged 12; Mabel, aged 8, and a younger boy 5 years of age. There are at present two others in the family down with the disease. Dr. W. T. Schwabland called in a doctor from Nighthawk in consultation and they both claim that it is not diphtheria. While the symptoms in the beginning are similar, the results are different under the anti-toxin treatment.

SENATOR MITCHELL'S FINE REMITTED BY GOVERNMENT

The fine of $1000 imposed upon the late Senator John Mitchell, in addition to a brief term of imprisonment, July 25, 1905, upon his conviction of having acted as private attorney for Puter and others before the departments while serving as United States senator, need never be paid. United States Circuit Judge Wolverton handed down a decision to this effect this morning.

Mitchell appealed his case to the supreme court on a writ of error, and while it was still pending before that court, he died. The appeal was, therefore, dismissed without further hearing or proceedings had, upon motion of his attorneys. Consequently the government, through the district attorney, presented a claim to the administrator of Mitchell's estate for the amount of the fine, together with accrued interest. The administrator came before the court with a motion to have the proceedings abated and the fine cancelled.

In his decision rendered this morning, Judge Wolverton says:

"The sole question for consideration is whether the cause abated by the decease of the defendant, so that the government is not now entitled to receive or recover the fine imposed from the deceased's estate.

"Imprisonment in its general sense is the restraint of one's liberty—and is personal to the accused. It is a thing self-evident, therefore, that the death of a person upon whom such a judgment is imposed would put an end to an infliction or enforcement of the punishment. A fine being a pecuniary punishment imposed upon the person, it would seem that a like result would follow.

"In passing judgment, whether of imprisonment or fine, it is the purpose of the court and the law that the accused be personally punished, for the amendment of his life and of his department in the future, and to deter others from committing like offenses.

"I am of the view, therefore, that by the death of Senator Mitchell the cause abated entirely, so that no enforcement of the payment of the fine can be made out of his estate.

"The judgment of the court will be that the entire cause is abated and that the fine imposed is not a subsisting claim or demand against the estate of the deceased."

Northern Pacific Sued.

Minneapolis, Sept. 3.—An action to recover $48,500 from the Northern Pacific has been begun in district court by the Richey & Gilbert Co. of Washington state.

The action arises from the alleged delay of the railroad company in furnishing refrigerator cars for apples from Washington.

It is asserted by the company that during the first 15 days of November last fruit was ready for shipment at Toppenish and North Yakima, Wash., and that the railroad company was notified of this fact and asked to provide cars. The cars came, but the plaintiff company asserts that the cars were not furnished on time and that the apples overripened and decreased in value.
