Will Moore, manager of the Pacific Coast Elevator company, went to Walla Walla last evening.

Elmer Ferguson, brother of George Ferguson, is here today from his home on Weston mountain.

Mrs. J. R. Dickson and son John returned last evening from the coast, where they had been during the summer.

J. T. Lambirth of the First National bank, left last night for his ranch near Meacham upon a few days hunting trip.

T. G. Montgomery of the American National bank, left last evening for Texas to look after land investments which he has there.

J. W. Maloney, cashier of the American National bank, came down Saturday from Meacham and is now again at his post in the bank.

Mrs. Frank Myers of Helix, came up from Portland this morning and is preparing to resume the management of the Helix hotel September 15. She is also establishing a millinery store at Helix.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Kennedy of Baker City, were passengers on train No. 2 last evening, being on their way home from Portland where Mr. Kennedy attended the republican state committee meeting.

CHILE TO PANAMA.

Improved Service on West Coast of South America.

Consul Rea Hanna reports from Iquique that it is stated that the Compania Sud-Americana de Vapores and the Pacific Steam Navigation company have decided to run weekly boats from Valparaiso to Panama on a 12-day schedule, the two lines to alternate, details of which follow:

Stops will be made in Valparaiso, Coquimbo, Antofagasta, Iquique, Mollendo, Callao, Payta, and Panama. Arrangements are being made with the steamship lines at Colon for direct connections so that the run from Valparaiso to New York will occupy only 17 days, avoiding the usual wait in Panama.

It is expected that this will bring a great part of the traffic from Buenos Aires and the adjacent East Coast over the Andes via Valparaiso to New York, as it will be a quicker trip than on the direct lines.

The distribution of freight will be made by short-run steamers from the centers mentioned. The Pacific Steam Navigation company is expected to run a freight boat from Guayaquil to Panama, as the liners will stop only at the mouth of the river and just long enough to receive and discharge passengers.

High Price of Beer in Brazil.

Consul George H. Pickrell of Para, advises American brewing companies that the importation of beer into that part of Brazil is restricted owing to the high customs duties. These are collected on all foreign beers with the exception of one—"stout"—which is considered a medicine, and admitted at the former lower rate. No beer has been imported at Para for the last six months, and the stocks on hand are nearly exhausted, what remains being sold at nearly $1 gold per bottle; the local product sells at 33 to 49 cents per bottle.

Notwithstanding the difference in the cost of foreign and native beers, consumption of the latter has not increased materially owing to the presence of and the fondness for the good grades of cheap wines imported from Portugal and France, and which sell at or about the same price as native beer.

INTEREST IN LAND OPENING.

Big Tract Promises to Be Famous for Fruits.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 7.—The enormous number of letters that have been received by the King Hill Irrigation & Power Co., relative to the opening of its 15,000 acres of land in Idaho, under the Carey act, indicates that on October 12, the date of the formal opening, this entire stretch of fertile land, 29 miles along the Snake river, will be taken before the sun sets.

This property has the finest fruit soil in the northwest; an overplus of water from the Malad river; a permanent system of flumes and canals; a telephone service; free ferries across the Snake river; the main line of a transcontinental railroad, a townsite and, superior to all, the best soil, climate and market opportunities of any land that has been opened for settlement in the state of Idaho for many years.

The letters above referred to are from prospective settlers who signify their intention to be present on opening day. The choice of lands will be supervised by the state land board of Idaho and those who fail to draw favorable locations will receive back their entrance money. The Carey act allows 10 years for payment of water rights after which the entire system of irrigation comes into possession of the owners of the lands supplied by the water. Railroads have made special rates for the occasion and also arrangements for the accommodation of those who gather to take advantage of the opening.

EXPLODES SHELL.

Huntington Boy Tries Experiment With Shotgun Shell and Hammer—Will Be Wiser in Future.

Huntington, Ore., Sept. 6.—Claude Kelsey, the 8-year-old son of C. W. Kelsey, while playing with a loaded brass shotgun shell, was seriously wounded when the shell exploded. He had placed the shell on a block of wood and driven it in as far as possible, then taking a nail and putting it on the cap, striking it with a hammer. The shot penetrated his left hand and right leg above the knee, also the stomach. His little brother and baby sister were playing with him. The baby was slightly powder-burned on the hand. Dr. Spencer was called. Unless blood poison sets in the boy will recover.

A VICTIM OF CURIOSITY.

Wanted to See if the Wire Was Alive and Is Electrocutted.

Baker City, Ore., Sept. 7.—Wishing to see if a live wire which had just given a severe shock to young Charles Shannon, a deaf mute, was still charged, Glenn Saunders, 24 years of age, of this city, touched the wire with a nail about 7 o'clock this evening and was immediately electrocuted. His father, W. H. Saunders, who was standing near saw an electric flash, followed by "Pull me loose," his son's last words.

The young man was a clerk in the Bauer Manufacturing company's establishment.

HORSE MEETS HIS MASTER.

Former Trooper of 11th Cavalry Shoes Him After Struggle.

With eyes flashing, nostrils distended, ears laid back, mouth open and whiskers standing sharply on end, Satan, a vicious horse, gave desperate battle with a brawny blacksmith yesterday afternoon, says the Des Moines Register and Leader. Satan determined he would not be shod; the blacksmith shod him single handed, but in the tussle had his left hand literally crushed. Several bones were broken and the smith suffered excruciating pain.

The name of the smith is H. W. Brown, a former trooper in troop D, 11th cavalry, who was discharged here and took up his trade with Vroman.

Satan is a beauty, a little sorrel weighing scarcely more than 1200 pounds, plump and full of ginger and fire.

Satan has always rebelled savagely against the iron shoe. His very name was given him on this account. He has never been known to let a smith shoe him without being bound by his head straps until he could not move. Brown is a wiry soldier, erect and solid.

Satan was led in by a common halter and tied to the ring in the side of the wall. With a great leather apron about his waist, Brown took the shoe and approached Satan. Quick as a flash the horse wheeled and both feet shot into the spot where Brown's stomach was—but Brown was quicker in removing it.

Then came into play the scientific blacksmith's tactics, picked up in the United States army, where bad horses are plentiful. Advancing to Satan's side, Brown was ready for the next spring and caught Satan sharply in the flank with the point of his elbow; a painful grunt was Satan's reply, and he huddled himself in surprise in a corner.

The smith stooped to lift a foot, and Satan, without moving his foreparts, deliberately twisted himself in a position to let fly one foot, but Brown again escaped by springing aside; this time, however, the smith trapped the fellow and caught his left foot before he had the leg stiffened. There was a struggle. Brown slipped a knee under the hoof and cruelly pressed down, cramping the leg so that Satan stood still, while the hot iron was pressed against his hoof; then Satan's hoof was released. For the first time he took a good look at the man who dared.

When the shoe was ready to nail Brown again approached the horse. The same tactics were adopted, except that at the critical moment Satan, instead of merely twisting himself, crouched and jumped forward as far as his halter would allow and let fly his left foot twice so quickly that it caught Brown's hand each time. Bystanders heard the bones crush as the cruel hoofs struck. Brown's face went white, his teeth set, and quietly asking his helper to take Satan's head the plucky fellow brought the crippled hand to bear the best he could, and forcing the little sorrel in a corner, deliberately cowed him by the power of his eye and his nerve and nailed both shoes home.

When it was over the smith was wet with perspiration and almost fainted from pain. He was taken at once to a physician, where his hand was dressed.

Satan showed no more ill temper, but walked with his head down from the building, as though he were ashamed.
