FOREST FIRES COST NATION MILLIONS

The terrible work of the flames which has burned over and destroyed hundreds of thousands of acres of timber and property to the value of millions in the Lake states, recalls to memory other great forest fires which have attained historic importance.

One of the earliest of these was the great Miramichi fire of 1825. It began its greatest destruction about 1 o'clock in the afternoon of October 7 of that year, at a place about 60 miles above the town of Newcastle, on the Miramichi river, in New Brunswick. Before 10 o'clock at night it was 20 miles below Newcastle. In nine hours it had destroyed a belt of forest 80 miles long and 25 miles wide. Over more than two and a half million acres, almost every living thing was killed. Even the fish were afterwards found dead in heaps on the river banks. Five hundred and ninety buildings were burned, and a number of towns, including Newcastle, Chatham and Douglas-town, were destroyed. One hundred and sixty persons perished, and nearly a thousand head of stock. The loss from the Miramichi fire is estimated at $300,000, not including the value of the timber.

The Peshtigo fire of October 1871, was still more severe than the Miramichi. It covered an area of more than 2000 square miles in Wisconsin and involved a loss in timber and other property of many millions of dollars. Between 1200 and 1500 persons perished, including nearly half the population of Peshtigo, at that time a town of 2000 inhabitants. Other fires of about the same time were most destructive in Michigan. A strip about 40 miles wide and 180 miles long, extending across the central part of the state, from Lake Michigan to Lake Huron, was devastated. The estimated loss in timber was about 4,000,000 feet board measure, and in money over $10,000,000.

Several hundred persons perished.

In the early part of September, 1881, great fires covered more than 1800 square miles in various parts of Michigan. The estimated loss in property, in addition to many hundred thousand acres of valuable timber, was more than $2,300,000. Over 5000 persons were made destitute, and the number of lives lost is variously estimated at from 150 to 500.

The most destructive fire of more recent years was that which started near Hinkley, Minn., September 1, 1894. While the area burned over was less than in some other great fires, the loss of life and property was very heavy. Hinkley and six other towns were destroyed, about 500 lives lost, more than 2000 persons were left destitute, and the estimated loss in property of various kinds was $25,000,000. Except for the heroic conduct of locomotive engineers and other railroad men the loss of life would have been much greater.

This fire was all the more deplorable because it was wholly unnecessary. For many days before the high wind came and drove it into uncontrollable fury, it was burning slowly close to the town of Hinkley, and could have been put out.

SALOME DANCE IS FAD OF EASTERN CITIES.

It has been less than a year since little Miss Maud Allen, an American girl, hit upon the idea of performing a "Salome" dance as an entertainment separate from either the Wilde or the famous Strauss operas. Miss Allen selected London for her field of operation. She burst upon the old city in an Egyptian dance and the world began to hear and to talk about her and about "Salome." Now we hear of several who have imitated her and who are meeting with the same success in America. These include Gertrude Hoffman, who is now at Hammerstein's; La Sylph, another, is now doing the dance at Keith & Proctor's. In the Mimic World, which is now at the Casino, Lotta Faust is adding to her laurels by giving the Maud Allen version of the dance. So great is the craze for this latest European fad that Eva Tanguay is now giving a version of "Salome" in her vaudeville sketch.
Margaret Taylor, who won her first recognition as a dancer in London, is another who has gone "Salome" mad and she will be seen as "Salome" in "Coming Thro' the Rye." La Belle Zola, a little dancer heretofore unheard of, procured a few strips of gauze and a dozen or so strings of beads, which constituted the regulation "Salome" costume, and secured an engagement at one of the popular priced houses in New York and leaped into fame the first night.
Her services are now sought after by many other theatrical managers. How long this craze will last, there is no telling. The Merry Widow hats, the Soul Kiss and the Waltz Dream dance have been lost sight of by the fush of this Oriental fad.

The costumes worn by the many "Salome" dancers differ very materially. One critic said that a few beads and a little more gauze might be worn by Lotta Faust and not detract from the Oriental atmosphere of the dance. The press agent says that the costume worn by Miss Taylor differs more from the regulation costume an dionysia of fleshings, yards upon yards of gauze, beads and instead of dancing barefooted, she wears sandals.

In speaking of Miss Taylor's performance the Toledo Times has this to say: "Miss Taylor's performance differs from the original London dance inasmuch as she wears lights and sandals. The Oriental costume, together with that fantastic dance about the head of John the Baptist, that dance which terminated with the gruesome kiss and swoon so horrible and artistically portrayed in Oscar Wilde's play, is indeed a wonderful and thrilling spectacle and the grace with which Miss Taylor performs it emphasizes its classic beauty. So if you are one of those anticipating a shock this week, you will be disappointed, for this is one that isn't a shock. But it is beautiful, and it is art."

The story of Salome is a sad one, as everyone knows. Salome was the daughter of the wife of King Herod.
At his birthday feast she was asked to dance. So pleased was he at the art she displayed that he promised to grant her the choice of any gift within his power. Having no personal wish, she consulted her mother, Herodias. The royal lady caused her to ask for the head of John the Baptist, who was lying in prison. Herod at first expostulated, but he had given his word and he complied with the young lady's wishes.

The king at once dispatched one of his guardsmen to the prison with the order to bring to him the head of John the Baptist.
The orders of the king were promptly carried out and the head presented to Salome on a charger. As soon as Salome caught sight of the head she realized for the first time the gravity of her demand. As she looked at the head the dead eyes seemed to follow her in all her movements and she was seized with terror and remorse and fainted.

It is this tragic picture which has set two continents wild with excitement. It attracts by its gruesome-ness as well as grace and beauty of poetic motion to strains of Oriental, dreamy music.

And until a new craze is found to take its place, the "Salome" dance will continue to monopolize the attention of theater-goers and lovers of art, for it is truly a work of art. We are fortunate in being able to judge for ourselves a dance that has so captivated the public that one cannot pick up a paper or magazine without reading something about it.
There will likely be a general polishing up of opera glasses when "Coming Thro' the Rye" is presented, for there are probably as many followers of art in this city as elsewhere.
Manager Mitchell is very fortunate in securing so strong an attraction. It will be at the New Oregon October 1.

Passed Examination Successfully.
James Donahue, New Britain, Conn., writes: "I tried several kidney remedies, and was treated by our best physicians for diabetes, but did not improve until I took Foley's Kidtle I showed improvement, and five bottles cured me completely. I have since passed a rigid examination for life insurance." Foley's Kidney Remedy cures backache and all forms of kidney and bladder trouble. Pendle-

THE AMOUNT OF YOUR "BELIEF IN ADVERTISING" WHICH IS PUT INTO TYPE IS WHAT COUNTS.

A business man cannot afford to "miss" news that affects his particular line of business. Nor can the "buyer" of the supplies for the house and family afford to "miss" news affecting prices of things that have to be bought.
Bargain-hunting is not, as sometimes supposed, the pursuit of a wild desire to spend money for things not needed. It is the quest of the best opportunities to buy the things that ARE needed.
