COMING OF INTERURBAN TO SPEED DEVELOPMENT.

Walla Walla Real Estate Dealer Declares That Wild Horse Creek Bottom Will Be Strewn With Small Farms From Pendleton to Athena—Points to Walla Walla-Milton Line as an Example of What Has Happened.

"When the Pendleton-Walla Walla interurban line is built Wild Horse creek from here to Athena will become strewn with small farms and the land will become more than doubled in value."

This declaration was made here this morning by Charles W. Myers, formerly in the newspaper business here, but who is now a Walla Walla real estate man.

In connection with his business Mr. Myers has had occasion to observe closely the effects of the electrical line between Milton and Walla Walla.

"The building of that line has caused the land along the line to advance from $200 per acre to prices as high as $700 and $800 per acre. When the interurban line is built to this city the land between here and Athena is sure to undergo a similar advance in value, though the increase in price may not be as great."

"Pendleton people have no cause to fear because they will be connected with Walla Walla. The line between Walla Walla and Milton has

PERSONAL MENTION

Snake Victim Was Former Pendletonian

Dick Troxel Bitten by Rattler Was Well Known Here.

Richard Troxel, who met death in Portland Saturday, having been bitten by a big rattlesnake which he was fondling, will be remembered as a former resident of this city, known as "Dick" by many local friends.

Troxel was employed as cook at the Imperial restaurant for a long time and also appeared as blackface comedian at the Star theater when that little amusement house was under the management of Evans and Pardee. At the Eagles' carnival two years ago he put on a little side show of his own.

Troxel's death followed 16 hours of excruciating agony. Friday he had gone to the Wells-Fargo express office at Portland to investigate a box of snakes consigned to F. Ritchie, a Portland showman. Troxel played with the reptiles as though they were harmless, as earthworms.

One snake, a big fellow with 12 rattles, was in an ugly mood. The "charmer" was warned that he meant trouble, but laughed, declaring that the snakes had been "fixed."

A few moments later when this snake struck Troxel in the hand the man paid little attention to the wound other than sucking it vigorously.

Within five minutes, however, he was unconscious, and was taken to the hospital, where death followed. When the surgeons cut into the wound they found that the snake's fang had been left in the flesh.

WILL MARRY IN DAKOTA.

Walter Isaacs and Miss Edith Spink Will Wed October 14.

A wedding that will be of much interest to local people, and especially the younger element, will occur at Jamestown, N. D., on next Wednesday, October 14. At that time Mr. Walter Isaacs, formerly of the Hunziker jewelry store, and Miss Edith Spink, of the Peoples Warehouse force, will be united in marriage.

Mr. Isaacs left here in August and is now located at Lamar, N. D., where he has a jewelry store. However, the wedding will occur at the home of the bride's sister in Jamestown. The young people will have their future home at Lamar.

Miss Spink has just resigned her position at the Peoples Warehouse and will leave for Dakota Saturday. Both she and Mr. Isaacs have hosts of friends in Pendleton.

NEW PLANS FOR DISTRICT FAIR

TALK OF PERMANENT BUILDINGS NEXT YEAR

Problem of Transportation Alone Remains to Be Solved—Coming of Interurban Hoped for—Race Track Also in List of Permanent Improvements in Contemplation.

Permanent buildings will house the Umattila-Morrow district fair next year if the present management is continued in charge of the big show which it has made so successful.

Although the management as yet has made no plans for future fairs, as it has not yet completed the closing up of this year's exposition, it is understood that the men who at present control the destinies of the association favor permanent buildings and that if the problems of transportation are solved and they continue in management the fair next year will not only be better in the character of its displays, but in the housing of the displays.

Judge Fitz Gerald has not yet completed paying all the bills incurred by the last fair, although but few remain. The amounts of these bills will correspond almost exactly with the amount of cash now on hand in the treasury.

As soon as the affairs of the association for this year are closed up the fair management will issue a report of receipts and expenditures which will also embrace several recommendations as to the future policy. Just what these recommendations will consist in the directors do not at present care to discuss.

Interurban May Solve Problem.

In case of acquiring permanent buildings the association will face the problem of transportation. It has been suggested that if the interurban road comes through by next year and a location can be secured within a reasonable distance of town where buildings for the exhibits can be erected and a track, preferably a mile track, can be built that a stock company be organized and undertake the work. Another plan is to secure simply a location for buildings and maintain the same pleasant social arrangements that have made the fair a success under present conditions. In case this scheme is adopted it has been recommended that the lots belonging to the city near the water pumping station be secured for the purpose.

Did Not Arrive.

Judge Scott, who was expected to arrive in Pendleton last evening for the purpose of conferring with local business men on the subject of the good roads convention soon to be held here, did not for some reason make his appearance. No explanation of the delay was received by the local people interested.

Wallowa Train Late.

The Wallowa train continues to arrive on impromptu schedules, says the La Grande Observer. Last night the mixed train did not arrive until after 8 o'clock. It has been on time but seldom since it was put into service.

PRESERVING BABY'S VOICE.

Enterprising Talking Machine Promoters Do Big Business.

A gramophone and phonograph dealer in New York has opened out a new branch of the business which promises to become very lucrative.

Procuring a daily list of the births publicly announced, he sends out a circular to the parents offering to take, for a small fee, a clear and distinct record of the "prattle" of the dear baby.

The manager of a well known gramophone company recently said it was possible to obtain good records of a baby's voice on the phonograph. "It could not be done on the gramophone," he said, "but by placing the wax cylinder of a phonograph close to the baby's mouth, or by taking the baby close to the cylinder, the record could be obtained. In the case of a very young infant, however, there would be likely to be more noise than prattle."

"There are possibilities in this line of the business. The first cries and speeches of embryo presidential candidates could be preserved to be brought up against them in after life, or handed over to an admiring nation. It would be possible to retain the first sounds issuing from the lips of all our future celebrities if the practice became general.
