PONY CONTEST IS INTERESTING

MANY CHILDREN WANT TO OWN TEDDY AND TOGO

Generous Offer of East Oregonian and Portland Journal Being Eagerly Accepted by Many Young Hustlers—Thousands of Votes Already Won—Some Rules of the Contest.

Teddy and Togo are popular. It is doubtful if the gallant Japanese fighting man, or even the president of this great nation himself, would arouse more interest in Pendleton and Umatilla county than their beautiful namesakes now being offered by the East Oregonian and the Oregon Journal to the boy or girl under 15 years of age who is most successful in the big subscription contest now being carried on jointly by those papers.

The boy or girl whose heart does not beat faster at the thought of driving down Main street behind a beautiful thoroughbred Shetland pony and in the nobby little cart that is being offered the winner—all one's very own—does not live. And when the generous offer is being accepted by many hustling little folks of this city and of Umatilla county.

That is why Togo is popular—that is why Teddy is popular.

Twelve contestants from Pendleton have already entered their names and have begun to work for the ownership of "Togo" the gentle little animal who is now waiting for the time to come to his future Pendleton master. More contestants will enter Monday. The contestants from the county outside Pendleton will be announced next week.

Those from the city who have announced their candidacy in the contest for votes are:

Milton Ganahl, Eugene Lyman, Gladys Brownfield, Burton Greulich, Mark Patton, Jr., Carrie Kennedy, Hazel Wyrick, Grace Rugg, and Eugene Clark, Muriel Nolan, Harriette Johnson and Harry Montereale.

Each of these contestants are especially enthusiastic because of the knowledge that the ownership of Togo rests with the efforts of each personally. They know that the system the East Oregonian has adopted in keeping the records of the contest makes any mistake in proper credits impossible, for each contestant when bringing the votes into this office will string them on his or her own string, thus keeping them separate and keeping track of each record personally.

The contestants have all been given to understand one of the principal rules under which the contest is conducted: Wherever old subscribers of this paper stop the East Oregonian and then renew their subscription for the purpose of giving votes to any contestant the contestant in such cases will only be credited with the amount of votes to be given in the case of renewals of old subscribers.

Shipping Cavalry Horses.

Two cars of cavalry horses were shipped by Mordo McDonald to Seattle last night, and these horses will be transported to the Philippines on the United States transport vessel Dix, which will sail from Puget Sound October 13, says the Walla Walla Union.

On the vessel will be 518 head of horses, which represents the last government contract for horses filled by Mr. McDonald. The horses have been gathered from different sections of Southeastern Washington and Northern Oregon.

Besides the horses in the transport there will be 2000 tons of hay, 25,000 tons of oats, and 17 feet of lumber. The transport Dix is one of the largest in the government service and makes three trips a year to the Philippines.

Newspaper Man Wants Divorce.

R. C. Julian, editor of the Wallula Gateway, in the superior court this morning brought suit for divorce from his wife, Maude M. Julian, whom he accuses of deserting him, says the Walla Walla Bulletin. He states that their two minor children are now with the mother in Portland and that he is willing to contribute $10 a month for their support. Ada, a daughter of Mr. Julian, he says, keeps house for him and is supported by him.

While driving to his home near St. Paul, Ore., Wednesday night, Emilio Choquette, a farmer, was burned to death in his buggy. He had a can of gasoline in the buggy and is supposed to have dropped a cigar or lighted match on the can, which exploded. He was evidently injured by the explosion and burned to death in the rig.

Two Killed in Train Wreck.

At Marais river, on the Shelby line of the Great Northern, in Montana, Thursday morning, a passenger train struck a soft piece of track and the engine was thrown into the ditch. Wm. F. Ramsbeck, the fireman, and a wiper, name unknown, were instantly killed. None of the passengers were injured.

A special train which was run from Cleveland last week to the bankers' convention at Denver not only contained all of the conveniences afforded in the best express trains, but, in addition, had a woman's "club" car, with a piano; and to insure that all the passengers should get the utmost possible enjoyment out of the luxuries of the train, the bankers engaged a physician to accompany them.

GAMBLING BY SYSTEM ENDS IN FAILURE

Increased interest has been aroused in the Rosslyn-Maxim gambling contest in London by the fact that the earl won more than $9000 the third day of play, making him a winner of more than $8000 in three days, says the London correspondent of the New York Telegraph. Pat Sheedy talked to me for an hour about a system that he had discovered could not lose. If one bet $5 every time the ball rolled—no more and no less—he would come out $15 at the end of 100 rolls. Of course, a $10 bet would mean a winning of $30. Mr. Sheedy proved everything he said with figures, and yet he had to go into the picture business to make a living.

Mr. Sheedy took his system over to England to explain it to Henry Labouchere, editor of Truth, who, Mr. Sheedy said, is interested in gambling as an amateur. After Sheedy had got into the explanation, Labouchere astounded him by producing, from his desk the same figures that Sheedy had. He had discovered the martingale himself.

An old dime novel writer of this city, Albert W. Aiken, discovered, or thought he did, a system whereby a man could not lose at faro. He introduced it and explained it fully in two of his books. It was the doubling-up system. In this you must bet on the same card all the time, and the cards could not run the same way always. Mr. Aiken had his hero bet $1 on the ace to win. It lost; then he bet $2 on the ace to win and it lost; then he bet $4 again on the ace to win and once more it lost. The fourth time he put $8 on the ace to win and it did win. Thus he had wagered altogether $7 and won eight on the last bet, his net winning being $1. Aiken's system is all right in theory. It worked so well in his novel that faro bank owners bought off two of his heroes.

The weakness of the Aiken system, which it may be said is not a discovery of that novelist, but has been known ever since men have gambled, lies in the fact that while the chances are that a card is bound to turn winner some time or other, yet it may turn to lose 50 times in succession, in which event it would require the capital of a Rockefeller to back the play. And again every bank has a limit—it may be $50, in which case the bettor would have only six chances to win his $1. His last bet would have to be $32.

A BIG POTATO DISTRICT.

There Are 25,000 Acres Near Stockton, Cal.—Other Crops Grown.

Stockton is the chief shipping point for the Sacramento valley potato crop and this year the movement is unusually heavy. The acreage is large and the crop big. It is estimated that within 20 miles of this place there are at least 25,000 acres of potatoes. These are mostly grown in what is known as the Delta, a body of low, flat land, lying between the Sacramento and the San Joaquin rivers. The potatoes are brought down to this city by boat, where they are distributed to the market points of the country. The Delta is peaty land and naturally is low and swampy. Until recent years it was considered worthless and no attempt was made to utilize it. In some way somebody discovered that it was good land for growing potatoes and since then it has been drained and dyked against overflow and now it is one of the greatest and most fertile potato producing sections in the west. The land being peat, has to be burned before it can be cultivated. When fire is applied to it it burns down for a depth of about six inches, leaving a loose ash soil that is very rich. This soil is peculiarly adapted to potato growing and in both yield and quality the returns are remarkable. The potatoes grown here are chiefly Burbanks and they attain great size. They are very white and mealy and are good shippers. They keep well and sell well in the markets.

HUBBY FILES LETTERS FROM PRETTY "STENOGR."

Edward Barnett, Chicago insurance man, is methodical, and that is one reason why Mrs. Maude A. Barnett got a divorce, says a Denver dispatch to the Chicago American. Not only is Barnett said to have carried on a flirtation with his stenographer, Edith Hanna, but he filed all her letters away and made copies of all the loving epistles he sent her. And when his wife found these treasures she promptly came to Denver and filed suit for divorce.

Extracts from Barnett's letters to the stenographer made warm reading in court. One of them added: "Love and affection, pleasant dreams and 2,000,000 kisses, besides a lot of extra ones to put in your pajama pockets."

Twenty-one letters referring to wine suppers, chicken dinners, acknowledging the receipt of baby blue pajamas and bath robes, manicure sets and other feminine matters, were found by Mrs. Barnett in her husband's trunk. In her complaint Mrs. Barnett declared her husband had an income of $10,000 a year and asked for $5000 alimony. The judge held the alimony question in abeyance.

HOW RUSSIA PROVIDES FOR LABOR INSURANCE.

Consul James W. Ragsdale of St. Petersburg, advises that the Russian duma has under consideration a bill requiring manufacturers to insure their laborers against accidents while employed in factories and to provide for them in case of illness. Upon this the consul comments:

The law of 1903 imposed this duty directly on the employers, but under the new law insurance by an organized insurance company will be provided. This substitution will entail an increase of expense on the part of manufacturers against accidents of about 1 per cent of the salary of all the employes. As there are about 2,500,000 persons employed in manufacturing, drawing an average of 220 rubles (ruble equals 51.5 cents) each per annum, or a total of 550,000,000 rubles, the assessment will be considerable.

The bill further provides for insurance against illness, the premiums to be paid conjointly by the laborers and the employers, the former paying from 1 to 3 per cent of their salaries and the latter two-thirds as much which together will aggregate about 7,300,000 rubles. These assessments will vary somewhat but are based upon the statistics of the past, which will show the average cost of treatment in case of illness to be about four rubles, or 2 per cent of the workman's salary. The new measure, therefore, if it becomes a law, will entail on the manufacturer an expense aggregating about 5,000,000 rubles more than was required under the law of 1903.
